Measures on Honest Elections Lose.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.] —By a vote of 46 to 0 the senate today approved the old age pension bill that had come over from the house. Under the measure provision is made to give $1 a day to persons more than 65 years of age who have lived in the state for 10 of the 15 years preceding application for the pension, have less than $5,000 in property and are not inmates of a public institution.

No provision is made in the bill to raise a pension fund. Senator Charles W. Baker [Rep., Davis Junction] sought to remedy this by introducing a bill appropriating five millions for this purpose. The measure was sidetracked to the appropriations committee when Senator John M. Lee [Dem., Chicago] announced that the house would have its own revenue bill.

Lost for This Session.

Abolition of fraudulent election practices through adoption of a permanent registration system was denied to the state so far as this session of the general assembly is concerned when the senate rejected bills similar to those tabled recently in the house.

After the defeat of the honest elections bills in the house Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader, introduced them in the upper chamber. On roll call today the three bills to establish the system in cities having boards of election commissioners lost by a vote of 19 to 18, and the two for state-wide application were turned down by a vote of 22 to 17. Twenty-six votes were required for passage.

Passage Urged by Searcy.

"I think we all understand by now what these measures are," said Senator Searcy when he called them up. "They would help to eliminate the fraudulent voting that is prevalent in some cities. They have merit and should pass."

Six Democrats voted for the election board cities bill and nine for the state-le bills. Two Chicago Republicans, el A. Serritella and James B. do, however, did not vote on the r bills and voted against the ones.

r the senate had passed 114 bills, which now go to Gov. r. Of this number 98 were ments to existing statutes to them into conformity with the practice act that was adopted two rs ago and making changes advoted by lawyers and Attorney General Kerner's office.

Would Abate Penalties.

Interest and penalties on delinquent taxes for years prior to 1933 would be abated for home owners under the bill of Representative George A. Fitzgerald [Dem., Chicago], which the senate passed. On other properties there would be a 50 per cent reduction in interest and penalties due.

Although there were differing opinions as to whether Gov. Horner favors senate bill 598, which is known as a "fair trade practice" act, the measure was passed with one vote to spare. The act provides for contracts between manufacturers and retailers regulating the retail prices of commodities which bear a trademark, brand or name of the owner. Any sale at less than the contract price is deemed unfair competition and is actionable on the suit of any person damaged. The bill has been interpreted as abolishing the practice of selling well known products at less than the advertised price as a "leader" to attract customers.

Cites Gov. Horner.

"Gov. Horner told me that he does not know the contents of this bill and is not sponsoring it," said Senator Rollo M. Shaw [Dem., Lawrenceville].

"This bill has the governor's approval and he suggested that it be submitted to the senate," replied Senator George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago]. "Further, he is on his way to Biloxi for a conference of governors where he is to make a speech advocating the adoption of similar bills in other states. Nine states already have similar measures."

Other House Bills Passed.

The only other senate bill passed in the morning session was one appropriating $24,000 to print the reports of the Illinois Supreme court.

Among the other house bills passed were the following:

954—John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago]—Excludes from firemen's pension fund annuity divorced wife or widow who has decree annulled or set aside unless action is taken within

SCHALL CARRIES ON FILIBUSTER OPPOSING NRA

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., June 13 (Thursday).—(Special.)—At 3:40 a. m. Senator Huey Long yielded to Senator Thomas D. Schall (Rep., Minn.) in his filibuster against the NRA. Long had spoken since 12:15 p. m. yesterday, a total of 15 hours 25 minutes. Schall started what appeared to be another filibuster speech. Long left the chamber at once.

Washington, D. C., June 13 [Thursday].—[Special.]—At 3 o'clock this morning the United States senate, with the galleries still half filled, was tied up by one of the longest one-man filibusters and one of the most extraordinary exhibitions of buffoonery, personal invective and physical endurance on record. The filibuster began at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday.

For 15 hours Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "kingfish," had filibustered against a resolution to extend a codeless NRA and, specifically, in behalf of his proposed amendment to break up the Roosevelt-Farley patronage machine. Long's amendment provides that all NRA employés drawing more than $4,000 a year must be confirmed by the senate.

As Long approached the all time one-man filibuster record—18 hours, established by the late Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin against the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill in 1908—he was manifestly approaching the point of physical exhaustion, but mentally he was a match for the freshest of his adversaries, or all of them combined.

Voice Hoarse at Times.

His voice was hoarse and he spoke in croaking tones at times, but he still was able to burst out in occasional tirades as he turned on his private enemies Nos. 1 and 2, President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley.

Long, during the afternoon and night, had discussed such a multiplicity of subjects as "cookin' recipes" for Roquefort cheese salad dressing, oysters Louisienne and pot likker, the constitution of the United States, President Roosevelt's broken promises, Harold L. Ickes, "the chinchburg of Chicago," the justices of the Supreme court, the Schechter chickens, his own share the wealth scheme, and a bill "to end the depression in 24 hours."

He read from Victor Hugo, the Bible, the 1932 Democratic platform, newspaper clippings, and most of all from the United States constitution. At 12:30 a. m., after a long series of clashes with his Democratic enemies, he announced that he was going to read from first Timothy and deliver a lecture on "brotherly love."

Barkley Breaks In.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] asked Long if he would read the second and third verses of the fifteenth chapter of Job, but the "Kingfish" did not fall for this.

"I think the senator from Kentucky would profit more than anybody else by reading those verses," Long replied.

The verses are: "Should a wise man utter vain knowledge and fill his belly with the east wind?

"Should he reason with unprofitable talk or with speeches wherewith he can do no good?"

Long's exhibition was all the more amazing because he virtually had the entire Democratic side aligned against him, not only the leadership but the "freshmen," who grouped themselves together in a corner and announced their determination to fight.

Watch Him Like Cat.

They watched him as a cat watches a bird, waiting their chance to pounce and force him off the floor on some technicality.

They employed every parliamentary device known to the ingenuity of experts on the esoteric senate rules. They permitted only two five minute quorum calls, on the point of no business having been transacted, rigidly limited all interruptions to questions, and demanded "the regular order" when there was some delay or Long appeared to falter.

During the disorder and confusion of one parliamentary clash Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], manager of the NRA resolution, refused to permit Long to lean back, half sitting on a desk. The cruelest cut of all administered the "Kingfish," however, was a challenge from Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] to keep on speaking until he had finished.

Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.],

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 12.—The office of the undersecretary for press and propaganda has forbidden the entry of the New York Times into Italian territory until further notice. Instructions have been given to the ministry of internal affairs to seize all copies of the newspaper at the frontier.

This severe measure was adopted because of an editorial entitled "Baldwin and Mussolini" that appeared in the Times last Monday.

It was explained that the Italian government objected to the editorial's whole tone, and particularly to its remarks about dictatorships. A phrase implying that the Italian people were in chains was particularly resented. A phrase hinting that Premier Mussolini might be overthrown was considered "entirely uncalled for."

TWO ABORTION DOCTORS GUILTY; GET 1 TO 14 YEARS

Dr. Frank R. Braune and Dr. Maurice Dale were found guilty of manslaughter late yesterday afternoon for the abortion death of Miss Marie Dwyer, 26 year old laboratory technician. The jury, which was out only 1 hour and 45 minutes, said they quickly determined upon the guilt of the accused, but that it took some time to fix their punishment.

Judge Harry B. Miller set June 21 to hear motions for a new trial, and the physicians were allowed their liberty in bonds of $10,000. If the motion is overruled they will be sentenced to terms of one to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

The jury listened to the arguments of Attorney John E. Northup, counsel for Braune, and Attorney Samuel Hoffman, representing Dale, and the closing argument of Prosecutor Irwin Clorfene throughout yesterday's session.

Miss Dwyer died in the Lakeside hospital on Feb. 26, where she had been taken, the state charged, after an abortion had been performed by Dr. Braune in his office. Dr. Dale was charged with having made the arrangements for the operation.

Clipper Plane Takes Off for Midway Isles

Alameda, Cal., June 12.—(AP)—A one-stop flight to lonely Midway Islands, nearly 4,000 miles out in the Pacific, was started late today by Pan-American Airways' Clipper plane after it had waited two days for a little stormy weather to appear along the first leg of the route.

The big ship leaped off the choppy waters of San Francisco bay at 5:59 p. m. [Chicago time], requiring only 25 seconds to get into the air with a heavy load of gasoline and a crew of six men. She was 38 miles out at 6:30 p. m.

Capt. E. C. Musick, in charge of the big ship, made no estimate as to the time she would need to reach Honolulu, 2,400 miles away, and said the flight would be devoted to technical matters in preparation for establishment of trans-Pacific commercial service.

Makes 17 Hour Flight.

Last April the Clipper flew from here to Honolulu in a little more than 17 hours. Her return required more than 20 hours because of stormy conditions.

This time, however, she actually invited stormy weather. She was ready for the takeoff Monday, but the flight was postponed because conditions were described as "too good." It was explained the crew desired at least 300 miles of rain or heavy clouds.

The weather forecast this time promised varying conditions between here and Honolulu, with a "cold front" presented much of the way, produced by the penetration of arctic air currents.

Capt. Musick said the clipper probably would remain in Honolulu two days before undertaking the 1,323 mile water gap between there and Midway Islands.

Island Sees Activity.

Although until recently it was only an uninhabited American outpost—a unit of the Hawaiian group—the Midway Islands have witnessed some ambitious undertakings in the last few weeks.

A few weeks ago its subtropical calm was broken by the hum of more than 40 American naval planes which started en masse from Honolulu and stopped there for the secret fleet operations in mid-Pacific.

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS SPREAD OVER POLAND; 80 INJURED IN WEEK

WARSAW, June 12.—(AP)—A wave of anti-Jewish riots in which many Jews were injured was reported today from cities in Poland to the Warsaw office of the Jewish Telegraphic agency. Two Jewish members of the Polish parliament appealed to Premier Slawek for intervention and he promised a strict investigation.

In addition to riots in Grodno last week, during which sixty Jews were injured, anti-Jewish disturbances broke out during the last two days in the city of Suwalki and in the township of Racions, near Warsaw.

More than 20 Jews were injured in Suwalki.

34 Jews Face Treason Trial.

JERUSALEM, June 12.—(AP)—Thirty-four Jews arrested by the government of Turkey will be tried for treason to the state on charges of smuggling from Turkey to Palestine, the Istanbul correspondent of the Placor News agency reported today. A wave of anti-Zionist activity has swept over the country, the report said.

Pickets Seized After Beating; Police Protest

Six union officials were arrested in Oak Park yesterday as they were slugging two independent florists who had declined to join the Florists' Drivers' union. The officials belonged to a group of drivers' unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor which have been favored by State's Attorney Courtney and the Chicago police in battles with so-called outlaw labor organizations.

Those slugged are Peter Jarvaras, 52 years old, 1145 North Harlem avenue, and Gus Poulos, 45 years old, 1015 South 7th avenue, Maywood, who have for two months operated a small cash and carry flower business in Jarvaras' front yard.

In the investigation by the Oak Park police it developed that pickets from the union, who have been marching in front of the florists' yard for several days, with cars containing clubs, blackjacks, and pistols nearby, have been watched over and protected by Chicago policemen. One of the Chicago squads interceded for the pickets, who were not actually engaged in the beating of the florists, when the village police took them also into custody.

Bold Daylight Attack.

The attack on Jarvaras took place in front of 1110 Westgate avenue, not far from the center of the Oak Park business district, in broad daylight. Four men leaped on the middle aged flower grower as he was leaving his automobile and, with one wielding a blackjack, knocked him to the sidewalk.

Three Oak Park policemen, cruising past, saw the attack and leaped from their car. They put the four sluggers under arrest. The prisoners said they are E. H. Gale, 41 years old, 220 South Ashland avenue, business agent for the Liveried Chauffeurs' union, No. 727; Fred Bohlman, 45 years old, and Larry Monahan, 33 years old, both of 629 South Ashland avenue, agents for the Florists' Drivers' union, No. 724, and Edward J. Rogers, 46 years old, 629 South Ashland avenue, secretary of the Excavating, Grading, and Asphalt Teamsters' union, No. 731.

All were formally charged with assault and released in bonds of $200 each pending a hearing Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Carmody.

When the Oak Park police picked up the five pickets later in front of the Jarvaras home and started to the station with them, the Chicago squad of Sergt. Andrew Carroll drove up and protested. They accompanied the arrested pickets and remained in the station until the Oak Park force decided the five had done nothing illegal and released them.

Slugged in His Office.

In Rogers' car, near the scene of the picketing, were found two .38 caliber police special pistols. In other cars were discovered a second pistol, a blackjack and two police clubs.

The attack on Poulos was made in the office of the small florist concern last evening. He was slugged by two men, but defended himself.

He then requested the protection of the village police and a squad sent to the place seized the two men when they returned. They are William Bibby, 32 years old, 1417 South 17th avenue, Maywood, business agent of the Garage Helpers' union, and E. J. Price, 43 years old, 629 South Ashland avenue, secretary of the Florists' Drivers' union. Price was charged with disorderly conduct and Bibby with assault.

The interest of the Chicago police in protecting the union members was explained last night by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the uniformed police.

"Since the acquittal of the T-N-T case defendants," he said, "the heads of outlaw unions, including Michael Galvin and Studdy Looney, have been attempting a comeback. About 30 policemen have been assigned to help guard the heads of the recognized unions from outlaw attack.

"These policemen have no right to protect anybody in the commission of an offense. The Oak Park affair will be investigated in the morning."

JAP ARMY MOVES INTO TIENTSIN AND RAIL ZONE

Nanking Defies New Tokio Demands.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 13 [Thursday].—The central political council at Nanking today balked at attaching its signature to the numerous documents the Japanese militarists have prepared covering China's agreement with Japan's demands. At the same time the situation in north China became more warlike.

A steady flow of Japanese troops arrived in Tientsin, both from the north, along the railway from Chinwangtao, and by ship from Japan.

The total number is thought to be nearing the 10,000 mark, for garrisons also are being established at all intermediate stations along the railway from Shanhaikwan to Tientsin and between Tientsin and Peiping, indicating possible preparation for a more extensive campaign in Inner Mongolia.

More Warships Arrive.

Additional Japanese warcraft arrived at Tangku, the port east of Tientsin. The Japanese are bringing an air armada to Tientsin, five bombers having arrived yesterday with the announced purpose of inspecting the evacuation of Chinese troops.

Yesterday a Japanese gunboat grounded in the Tientsin river, due, allegedly, to a delay on the part of the Chinese in opening a jackknife bridge quickly enough. This brought further Japanese protests.

Messages from Peiping state the Japanese are moving additional troops directly to Peiping from the Great Wall region, possibly planning occupation of the city. A state of uneasiness prevails there due to rumors that the Japanese are planning an aerial demonstration.

Japan's intention to link the business development of north China with military occupation was indicated in a report from Hsinking [Changchun], capital of Manchukuo, stating that the government controled South Manchuria railway is sending a delegation to Tientsin and Peiping for the purpose of taking over operation of Chinese railways north of the Yellow river and also to investigate the opportunity for Japanese investments in the occupied territories.

General Refuses to Sign.

The Nanking political council apparently is trying to salvage something from the wreckage of north China. The content and scope of the council's decision is still secret, but THE TRIBUNE learned the Japanese had demanded that War Minister Gen. Ho Ying-chin, who is chairman of the Peiping military committee, sign a formal treaty legalizing Japan's "new deal" in China.

Gen. Ho refused to attach his signature without definite instructions from the Nanking government's premier, Wang Ching-wei, and the political council, which is the highest government body.

"We have carried out the demilitarization of north China and removed all officials to whom the Japanese army objected," Gen. Ho is said to have declared. "We have eliminated all political and social organizations and scrapped every administrative organ, but I refuse to sign China's own death warant without orders from the national government."

Seek Financial Grip.

The new Japanese demands, some extending the original list of May 29 and the warning of June 9, are believed to include these points:

1. The national government must immediately make provision for the settlement of all Japanese loans in China.

2. Japan must be invited to participate in any future international loan to China.

3. Nanking must revise its newly established tarif schedule in so far as it unfavorably affects Japan's trade with China.

4. China must cease looking to western powers to offset Japan's position in China.

5. The national government must curb all anti-Japanese activity throughout China.

In addition it is reported the Japanese are demanding that Gov. Sung Cheh-yuan and his troops withdraw from Chahar province. The chief stumbling block was reported to be the Japanese demand for recognition of the puppet régime of Manchukuo and dissolution of Kuomintang [government party] organizations throughout north China.

Gen. Doihara Active.

This was partly confirmed in a Japanese message from Tientsin quoting Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, chief of the so-called special service bureau of the imperial Kwantung army, popularly known as the "Lawrence of Manchuria." The message stated:

"Drastic reforms in the principles and policies of the Chinese Kuomintang are necessary if China expects to enjoy a peaceful future."

Doihara declared further that the Kuomintang is a disturbing element because its nationalistic policies caused complications in China's relations with foreign nations and that had the Kuomintang been reformed earlier the country would not be in its present pitiable state but would have progressed in all directions. Doihara believed Japan's demands "represent the wishes as well as the best interests of the Chinese people."

The Shanghai Japanese newspaper Nichi Nichi yesterday claimed there was no need for special military agreement with the Nanking government, since acceptance of the Japanese army's demands will create a "corridor" across north China.

May Start Chahar "Purge."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 13.—[Thursday.]—The Japanese army may "purge" the Chahar province area of the troops under Gen Sung Cheh-yuan unless the Chinese accede to the stiffer demands made on Nanking, it was learned today.

The basis of the latest warning is the alleged mistreatment of Japanese special service officers by Gen. Sung's troops while they were being detained in Chahar. Kwantung army officials at Tientsin protested the incident.

[The incident took place at Changpei, several miles north of Kalgan. A Chinese magistrate questioned and detained for several hours a party of Japanese officers motoring without passports from Dolonor to Kalgan. The officers considered the questioning an "insult to the Kwantung army."]

Gen. Sung, governor of Chahar, has 300,000 men scattered in Kalgan, Changyei, and Kangchwang. The troops were at one time under the command of the ruthless "Christian general" Feng Yu-hsiang, one of the foremost anti-Japanese militarists.

The growth of the Chahar situation is shifting the crisis from the Peiping-Tientsin area northward to the Mongolian border zone and will have an important bearing on Japan's Mongolian policy.

Japan is expecting the Hopei province situation to be resolved by the appointment of a new provincial chairman and the appointment of a pro-Japanese committee to deal with Japan on the Tangku truce question.

Fear Outbreak at Any Time.

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—A Reuter's [British] News agency dispatch from Peiping tonight quoted foreign circles there as saying Japan, in presenting new and sweeping demands to China, had warned her she must not expect help from other powers.

Earlier Reuter's dispatches said an outbreak of hostilities in north China was feared at any time after midnight, and British officials were following developments with grave anxiety.

A near panic resulted from the new Japanese demands, Reuter's reported, starting an exodus of civilians who were moving southward in great numbers. All trains were reported booked for days ahead.

PAL OF FUGITIVE HOTEL SLAYER OF WOMAN SEIZED

The companion of the fugitive Anthony Madona when he shot to death Celia Mae Venable, 29 years old, as she lay in bed Tuesday in the Berwyn Beach hotel, 1049 Berwyn avenue, was arrested in Oak Park yesterday.

The prisoner, James Valindrus, alias Tony Abbate, 25 years old, was locked up in the detective bureau. Marie Norris, 26 years old, friend of the dead girl, who was with Valindrus, was also taken into custody for questioning. Sergt. John Fogarty, who arrested the two, would not reveal the location of the home of Valindrus' parents, where he and Miss Norris were found.

Valindrus said he met Madona at Clark street and Chicago avenue Tuesday morning, and the two drove in Valindrus' car to the Berwyn Beach hotel. "Madona seemed agitated," Valindrus said, "but I had no idea he was planning a murder. I went with him to Celia's room and heard the quarrel and shooting. Then, in a daze, I drove Madona to 1100 North La Salle street, where he got out. I haven't seen him since."

KING ILL; CANCELS ENGAGEMENTS; BRITAIN ALARMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12. — Widespread alarm was caused by the announcement today that King George is suffering from bronchial catarrh and must cancel all engagements for at least two weeks.

This announcement was made from Sandringham, the king's Norfolk home, where he has been for several days. It was signed by Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physician; Sir Frederic Willans, surgeon apothecary to the king, and his local Sandringham doctor.

May Be Serious.

It was stated that the king's condition is not serious, except that any bronchial affection may be dangerous to a man of his age.

The popular monarch went driving in a closed car at Sandringham shortly after the announcement was made. According to persons who caught a glimpse of the royal car the king looked well, but appeared fatigued.

The king's illness is probably a result of the strain of the jubilee celebrations. He stood these well until about a fortnight ago when he caught cold and it was uncertain until the last minute whether he would be able to ride at the head of his troops at the trooping of the colors on his 70th birthday.

Call Off Garter Service.

The Garter service in St. George's chapel at Windsor castle Saturday will have to be abandoned as the king is the sovereign of the order and must be present. The royal visit to the Ascot races next week also was canceled and it is not expected he will be able to receive the homage of American debutantes at the courts on June 25 and 26 or to attend the royal air force review at Mildenhall, Suffolk, July 6.

Queen Mary came to London to attend the opera tonight and the court ball tomorrow, at which the prince of Wales will lead his mother into the ballroom as his father's deputy.

LLOYD GEORGE, SNOWDEN FORM NEW DEAL PARTY

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Political, religious, and social figures, headed by Lloyd George and Philip Snowden, launched a nonpartisan movement today for a realistic "anti-war" policy by the next parliament and adoption of an economic and social "New Deal" program.

"The council of action for peace and reconstruction" was formed to obtain pledges from candidates in the next general election, which probably will be held in September or October, that they will support the program of the movement. A manifesto signed by 33 persons called a convention of interested groups here July 1, when a nation-wide campaign will be opened.

The signers said they were nonpartisan, not caring for the political connection of the candidates so long as they support the program. The manifesto calls for new deal methods in dealing with unemployment and an "agreement negotiated through the league of nations for all around abolition of offensive implements of war and abolition or control of private manufacture and sale of implements of war."

8 PERSONS HURT IN STREET CAR STRIKE IN OMAHA

Omaha, Neb., June 12.—(AP)—Attempts by police to disperse a crowd of 1,000 in South Omaha tonight after missils were hurled at street cars resulted in injury to eight persons. Three of the injured were struck by buckshot. Three policemen were hurt and 16 persons were arrested.

The crowd was composed largely of sympathizers with striking organized employés of the street railway company, the police said.

U. S. OUTLINES INSULL CHARGE; EVIDENCE BEGUN

Transfer of Assets Issue in Bankruptcy Case.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Whether transfer of more than $2,330,000 of the assets of the Corporation Securities company to stockholders and creditor banks during the depression of 1931-'32 was in itself a criminal violation of the bankruptcy act and a "grievous wrong" to Insull investors who lost $42,000,000 in the crash of this holding company was the issue outlined yesterday before a jury in the court of Federal Judge John C. Knox.

It was the day of opening statements and first testimony in the second federal trial of Samuel Insull, Samuel Jr., and Harold L. Stuart. They are charged by the government with violation of the bankruptcy act in issuing dividends and transferring assets of Corporation Securities company while allegedly knowing the company to be insolvent.

Whitaker Opens for U. S.

While previous acquittals in the Insull cases have led the defendants to anticipate that this will be their last trial, there was uncertainty over the outcome as Samuel E. Whitaker, special assistant to the United States attorney general, pointed a long, lean finger at the jurors and told them how simple and plain was the criminal action discovered here, and that their duty would be to find a verdict of guilty.

Added interest was given to this fresh exposition of the affairs of the great utilities holding company, as it comes at a time when legislation is under consideration at Washington that would drive all holding companies out of existence.

The trial is expected to be short, with the government taking about a week to present its evidence. Three government witnesses were heard yesterday and records and checks were introduced showing the transfer of funds as charged in the indictment.

Intent Appears as the Issue.

There is to be little dispute over the payments alleged, but much dispute over the purpose. While the government will claim that the circumstances of these payments to preferred creditors constitute proof of criminal intent, the defense takes the stand which has proved successful before, that these payments were part of the plan of Insull to save his companies from bankruptcy rather than to drive them into it.

Dates become of first importance in the trial. The government case as begun by Mr. Whitaker and carried into preliminary proof by witnesses examined by Forest Harness, another special assistant to the attorney general, sets the payment of $558,000 to stockholders of the corporation in the fall of 1931 as the first violation.

The defense as stated by Floyd Thompson, attorney for the Insulls, and Harry Ditchburne, attorney for Stuart, takes the stand that it was April 9, 1932, before Insull first admitted to himself that he could not carry on any longer. This was on the refusal of New York banks to give him further credit. The question of intent, therefore, comes into the pleadings if not into the law.

Two Features of Law.

Mr. Whitaker told the jurors that the bankruptcy act has two features which come into this case. The first is the transfer of assets "with bankruptcy in mind."

"This does not mean that he knew he was going into bankruptcy," said the prosecutor, "but that he thought it likely, or that he was apt to end there. We expect to prove to you that these transfers were made with this in mind.

"The second aspect is the defeat of the purpose of the act, which is that no one creditor is to be preferred in the distribution of assets. If the effect of the transfer was to prefer one creditor over another, then it was made with the purpose of defeating the operation of the act."

Five specific transfers were made as follows:

Nov. 2, 1931—$558,000 to stockholders.

Dec. 15, 1931—$390,000 in securities to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

Dec. 22, 1931—$1,000,000 to Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company of New York to apply on note to that bank. This was on money borrowed from the General Electric company on securities of the market value of $1,200,000.

Company Called Insolvent.

At the time of the transfers, the prosecutors said, the corporation was insolvent and the defendants as officers and members of the executive committee knew this. At the time of each transfer they were indebted to banks and other creditors for $20,000,000 and to the holders of serial gold notes they owed $24,000,000.

It was these gold note holders, according to Mr. Whitaker, who were left out in the cold, getting only the "cats and dogs" of the company assets in the crash.

Statements of the Defense.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Ditchburne outlined the defense. Taking each transfer, they pointed out that it was an act of good business judgment at the time, an effort to save something for stockholders. The issue of intent was again joined, with the defense resting on the action of Insull in throwing his entire personal fortune in the breach to save the company, borrowing $5,000,000 on his personal note. Insull has not a penny today, Mr. Thompson said.

W. R. Irwin, former auditor for Corporation Securities company; Sam Howard, trustee in bankruptcy, and John F. O'Keefe, former assistant secretary of the company, were the first government witnesses. Harold Huling, chief government accountant, began testimony concerning the organization of the company, and will be the chief witness at resumption of the trial this morning.

Ceremonial 'Marriage' Told in Common Law Husband's Suit to Break $650,000 Will Hearing of a suit to set aside the will of Mrs. Fannie Bishop Henderson, Aurora widow who died in 1931 at the age of 77, leaving virtually all of her $650,000 estate for construction of an old people's home on her farm, was started yesterday in federal court before Judge John P. Barnes.

Lionel R. Barbour of Detroit, a former assistant prosecutor of Wayne county, Michigan, brought the suit on the contention that he had been Mrs. Henderson's common law husband. A "ceremonial" marriage was performed in Detroit on Aug. 23, 1925, when he was 31 years old and Mrs. Henderson was 71, Barbour alleges. Common law marriages are legal in Michigan. The suit was brought in the federal court because citizens of two states are involved.

Cousins' Suit Dismissed.

An earlier petition brought in the Kane County court by five cousins of Mrs. Henderson charging she was not competent in 1922 when the will was drawn, was dismissed two years ago when the court found her to be "eccentric," but not incompetent.

William George, former Aurora banker and executor of the estate, is one of the defendants. The suit charges George with having obtained the probating order fraudulently and with having deliberately failed to notify Barbour of the action. It also is charged that George has not accounted for $185,000 of the estate. The banker recently filed an accounting of his trusteeship upon an order of court obtained by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Attorney Harold Shapero of Detroit, counsel for Barbour, also set forth his client's contention on the basis of fraud and because creation of an old people's home amounts to a perpetuity which is illegal.

Challenge Date Given.

Cassius Poust, former United States assistant district attorney, and John K. Newhall, former probate judge of Kane county, are defending the suit. In answering the suit's allegations, Mr. Newhall declared Mrs. Henderson had hired Barbour as her chauffeur and had sent him through law school. On the date of the alleged common law marriage, he declared, Barbour was not in Detroit, but actually in Mrs. Henderson's home in Aurora recovering from a broken leg, incurred when he was thrown over a wall by Alec Henderson, brother-in-law of Mrs. Henderson, who objected to the friendship.

Although admitting "ceremonial" marriages are legal in Detroit, Attorney Newhall declared Illinois law does not recognize such marriages of Illinois residents even when performed in a state where it is legal.

Barbour accompanied Mrs. Henderson on several trips about the country, the attorney explained, and she introduced him as her adopted son, or nephew, but never as her husband. They always had separate rooms at the hotels, he said.

Hear "Bridegroom's" Brother.

Herbert R. Barbour, 41 years old, of Detroit, younger brother of the plaintif, was the first witness. He identified a photograph of Mrs. Henderson, whom Attorneys Shapero and Harold Hershenson, Chicago, plaintif's counsel, alluded to as "Fannie," pending decision as to whether she was Mrs. Henderson or Mrs. Barbour. The witness said that at the time of the marriage "ceremonial" she appeared only 58 or 59 years old.

Judge Barnes put on his spectacles and asked for the photograph, which he studied intently. Barbour went on to describe how after the marriage, Fannie, as he called her, returned to Aurora while his brother went to law school at her request.

She told him she wanted the marriage performed as it was because she didn't want it said in Aurora she had married "some school boy," Barbour said. Meanwhile his brother wrote her daily, he testified.

"Do you know of your own knowledge that he wrote daily to his wife—or, Mrs. Henderson—rather, Fannie?" asked Judge Barnes.

The brother said he did. He said that he arrived at his mother's home in Detroit just after the "ceremonial," and that Fannie, dressed in black lace and earrings, told him she had played her own wedding march.

After the wedding ceremonial, he said, they and two witnesses other than the family went to an inn to celebrate. They then returned to the Barbour home and Fannie and Lionel occupied the front bedroom, he testified. Later he visited Aurora, Barbour stated, and found Lionel in bed with an injured ankle in "Fannie's regular bedroom."

Tells of Affection.

Fannie displayed considerable affection for Lionel, calling him "honey" and "dearie" and often putting her arms around him, Barbour testified at another point.

Meanwhile Lionel, a stalwart 6 foot man with iron-gray hair and pink cheeks, wearing a gray suit, a diamond insignia in his coat lapel and a diamond ring on the third finger of his left hand, complacently listened to his brother's testimony.

It is expected the trial will last two weeks. The plaintif will place 40 witnesses on the stand.

Mrs. Henderson was the widow of W. W. Henderson, pioneer resident of Kane county, and the daughter of W. W. Bishop, wealthy Kane county land owner. She left the money for the erection of the home, which was to be "preferably for aged married couples," in accordance with the desire of her father.

MISSING RECORDS IN SWEITZER QUIZ HINT BIGGER LOSS

Grand Jury Examines Bank Books Today.

Hitherto undisclosed collections of interest on public funds which he held as county clerk may increase the county's claim against Robert M. Sweitzer to more than half a million dollars, it was revealed yesterday. At present the default charged against Sweitzer, based on an audit by R. L. Pearce & Co., is $414,129, of which $72,243 consists of claims for interest which, it is charged, Sweitzer collected but did not turn over to the county.

The Pearce auditors, however, were unable to get a complete record of Sweitzer's interest collections. Their summary of the interest credits by banks on the funds deposited with them by Sweitzer, and of checks for interest issued to Sweitzer, runs back only to 1921. He held the office of county clerk from 1910 until last December.

Years' Records Missing.

Even during the period since 1921 interest records for several years are missing. Sweitzer had four major deposit accounts of funds which he held as county clerk, those of the general fee account, special fee account, escrow fund and tax redemption fund. It was in the redemption fund that the defaults of principal were found.

The Pearce audit contains no figures on his interest collections on the general and special fee accounts and escrow fund for the years 1927, 1928, 1929, and 1934. No interest records were found for the tax redemption fund prior to 1928.

An estimate of probable interest collections on the four funds since 1921 was made by averaging the collections noted in the Pearce audit. Upon this admittedly rough basis, interest collections since 1921 would be increased by $48,462.

Expect New Claims.

In addition there may be claims for interest prior to 1921 and for interest on the interest collections which Sweitzer retained, it has been intimated by members of State's Attorney Courtney's staf.

In this connection it was considered significant that the subpenas duces tecum issued by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, ordering the production before the grand jury of Sweitzer's public and personal bank records, all stressed records of interest payments.

Judge Sullivan issued four more of these subpenas yesterday. They were served on the City National bank, the National Builders bank, the receiver of the West Side Trust and Savings bank, and the Chicago Title and Trust company, as receiver for the Graham & Sons bank. The latter institution failed in 1917.

Sweitzer had approximately $75,000 of county funds on deposit at the time. He received an offset of personal notes for $40,000 which the bank held and later collected dividends on the remainder of the deposit from the receiver. The county never received any of these payments, the Pearce audit reveals.

Grand Jury to Get Records.

All of the subpenas issued yesterday, with four issued Tuesday by Judge Sullivan, ordered the production of the records before the grand jury this morning. According to usual procedure in such cases the records will be impounded for study by the state's attorney's auditors and presentation to the grand jury.

The grand jury, which started hearing evidence Tuesday on charges of embezzlement and withholding public funds from his successor in office, heard no evidence in the case yesterday. The prosecution staf spent the day going over the Pearce audit with representatives of the auditing company.

Push Treasurer Audit.

The county board will meet this morning, probably to make final choice of an auditing concern to conduct an audit of the office of county treasurer, which Sweitzer occupied from the time he left the office of county clerk in December until he was ousted by the board a week ago.

Representatives of Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery, George A. Rossetter & Co., and Price, Waterhouse & Co. conferred yesterday with the audit commission appointed by Clayton Smith, president of the county board.

All asked more time to consider the details of the proposed audit, and another session with the audit commission, expected to be the final one, was arranged for this morning before the county board meeting.

Ex-Treasurers Ready.

George F. Harding and Thomas D. Nash, former treasurers, said yesterday that they will be glad to give auditors who will examine the treasury books access to private records which they took with them on leaving office. It has been a practice of outgoing treasurers to retain canceled checks and deposit records, on the theory that they might need them as evidence if they were sued because of their official acts.

Mr. Harding, who was treasurer from 1926 to 1930, said that he will either give the auditors access to his records or turn them over to the board if some official will take responsibility for their preservation.

Will Cut Personnel.

County Treasurer Gill said yesterday that while he had not compiled exact figures on the matter, he has learned since taking office last week that Sweitzer, his predecessor, had been expending the appropriation for help in the office at a rate which would exhaust the fund before the end of the fiscal year.

As a result, Mr. Gill said, he expects to lay off between thirty and fifty employés, probably on Saturday. Department heads will be asked to name employés who can best be spared without impairing efficiency.

Winnetka Child, 3, Falls Out Second Story Window

Jo Ann Ellis, 3 years old, 1408 Asbury avenue, Winnetka, daughter of D. W. Ellis, an official of the Monarch Life Insurance company, fell from a second story window of their home yesterday. She was taken to the Evanston hospital, where physicians said she may recover.

CHICAGOANS WIN GOLD MEDAL FOR CHILDBIRTH AID

High Award Presented to U. of C. Scientists.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12.—[Special.]—The isolation for the first time in crystaline form of the active principle in ergot—a goal science has been concentrating on since 1875—was rewarded here today by the American Medical association with the gold medal in class 1 exhibits, given to exhibits of individual investigations on the basis of originality and excellence of presentation.

DR. FRED ADAIR.

The active substance, named ergotocin, was isolated on Dec. 12, 1934, in the department of chemistry, University of Chicago, and it has already been applied medically to mothers in a number of childbirths, effectively stopping afterbirth hemorrhages within fifteen seconds, when given intravenously in amounts as small as two-tenths of a milligram.

Follows 3 Years' Research.

The isolation of ergotocin, which, it is believed, will save the lives of many mothers, was accomplished after three years of research by the coöperative efforts of three physicians, Dr. M. Edward Davis, Dr. Fred I. Adair, and Dr. Gerald Rogers, and two chemists, Dr. M. S. Kharasch and Dr. Romeo R. Legault.

Ergot is a fungus which attacks rye, and, less frequently, wheat, barley, and oats. Although it has become of major importance in obstetrics, its early history is intimately associated with the history of civilization.

European midwives knew of the medicinal effects of ergot as early as the eighteenth century. It remained, however, for Dr. John Stearns of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., first to describe the use of ergot to the medical profession in 1807. Soon ergot became one of the most useful as well as one of the most dangerous therapeutic agents.

Other Medals Awarded.

The silver medal in the class 1 exhibits was awarded to Drs. Leonard G. Rowntree, J. H. Clark, and Arthur Steinberg of the Philadelphia Institute for Medical Research and Dr. A. M. Hanson, Faribault, Minn., for original investigations on the biological effects of the thymus and pineal glands.

These investigators found that the thymus gland, when fed to rats, will have a cumulative effect on the growth rate of succeeding generations, so that the tenth generation matures much more rapidly and grows to three times the size of the normal animal.

The bronze medal in this class was given to Drs. Jane Sands Robb, J. G. Fred Hiss and R. C. Robb, for original investigations on heart muscle-bundle physiology and experimental coronary lesions.

Certificates of Merit.

Certificates of merit in this class were awarded to Dr. Bede J. Harrison of the Vancouver General hospital; Drs. Aaron E. Kanter, Carl P. Bauer and Arthur H. Klawans of Rush medical college, University of Chicago, and Drs. Isaac Schour and A. G. Brodie of the University of Illinois college of dentistry.

The gold medal in class 2 was awarded to Drs. Stuart Harrington and Willis S. Lemon of the Mayo Foundation for Medical Education and Research, Rochester, Minn., "for excellent presentation of an exhibit illustrating the surgical treatment and clinical manifestations of various types of diaphragmatic hernia [inverted stomach] and intra-thoracic tumors."

Section Meeting Open.

The scientific section meetings of the first joint annual meeting of the American and Canadian Medical association got under way today with some 200 papers presented by specialists before the various sections.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, Canadian physician who looks out for the Dionne quintuplets, told a meeting of physicians' wives it was his hope to have the children under the immediate care of their mother at the earliest possible time.

Wed While Cadet

New York, June 12.—(AP)—Lieut. Harry A. Sebastian, former West Point football star stationed at Governors Island, will face trial by court martial tomorrow at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, on a charge of having violated army regulations by marrying Harriet Hagman Sebastian, former Vanities dancer, in 1931, while he was still at the military academy.

If he is found guilty the penalty can range from having his name dropped several files in the army promotion list to dismissal from the army.

A rift in the marriage was directly responsible for the disclosure that it was allegedly performed in violation of the rule which forbids cadets acquiring wives.

Two months ago the former dancer brought a separation suit against Lieut. Sebastian and the alleged facts about the marriage were made public in the court papers.

Col. Noble Wiley will preside over the court martial.

G. B. S. Is Riled Up Over Correct English Spelling

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—George Bernard Shaw had some harsh words to say tonight on English spelling. "English spelling is old stuff and nonsense and ought to be overhauled completely," the veteran playwright said. He asserted that no one could decide whether a person spells correctly. "I spell the way in which I think a word ought to be spelled, and who is to say whether it is right or wrong?" he asked.

ARTIST ORLOFF'S WIFE SUES GIRL FOR ALIENATION

Claims Miss May Herlihy Stole Affections.

Mrs. Tanya Orloff, 32 years old, 155 East Ontario street, filed suit for $25,000 yesterday in the Circuit court against Miss May Herlihy, charging that she alienated the affections of her husband, Gregory Orloff, mural and portrait painter, who has a studio at 111 East Chicago avenue. Miss Herlihy is the daughter of F. J. Herlihy, 191 East Walton place, wealthy head of the Mid-Continent Construction company.

In the bill, filed by Attorneys W. W. O'Brien and William B. Henry, Mrs. Orloff recites several methods she alleges Miss Herlihy used in securing the love and affections of her husband.

Charges Malicious Conduct.

The Orloffs were married Oct. 17, 1925, at Crown Point, Ind., the bill said. They lived happily until Miss Herlihy became acquainted with Orloff on Nov. 1, 1932, the bill declared. From then on, it is alleged, she began a course of conduct motivated by a "malicious and deliberate intent" to alienate Orloff's affections.

Miss Herlihy constantly sought the company of her husband, Mrs. Orloff maintained, and exercised numerous feminine "wiles, blandishments, promises, and entreatments," even going so far as to assure Orloff he would "make a great lover."

The Inspiration of Love.

Orloff was informed by his new friend, the bill alleged, that he had great potentialities as an artist but that his work was flat and unsuccessful as the "result of living with one wife for eight years." What he needed, Miss Herlihy assured Orloff, according to his wife, was "the inspiration of a great love," and that she [Miss Herlihy] "could inspire him to greater heights."

In April, 1933, Orloff held a successful one man show in the Allerton gallery, and he painted the murals in the Sears-Roebuck building at A Century of Progress. He and his wife separated April 1, 1934. No divorce action has been started. All alienation of affection suits will be outlawed in Illinois after July 1 by recent action of the general assembly.

GIRL TO BE NORMAL AGAIN AFTER BEING CRIPPLE FOR 10 YEARS

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., June 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harriet Menke of Neptune, N. J., became almost hysterical with joy today when her 11 year old daughter, Winifred, at whose bedside in Hasbrouck Heights hospital she had watched all night, awoke and was able to move her jaw like any other child.

Before summer ends, Winifred, who has been a cripple since her infancy, will be able to walk and talk and eat like normal children as a result of two operations, the second of which was performed yesterday.

It became impossible for her to swallow solid food. Her speech, too, was impeded. Now she will soon get her first taste of solid food.

Two months ago the surgeons built her a new hip socket and lengthened her right leg three inches by bone grafting, thus restoring it to the same length as her left leg and enabling her eventually to walk and skip and run.

Maine and Wisconsin Fan Political Flame.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—With allotment of 100 million dollars of work relief funds to Wisconsin and 10 million to Maine a political controversy of which much will be heard in the presidential election next year has been fanned into flame.

According to the Republican viewpoint these allotments mark the inauguration of the use of the 4 billion dollar work relief fund to make Democratic political capital in the interest of the reëlection of President Roosevelt next year. The Democrats retort that these allotments do not differ from others designed to take the unemployed off relief rolls and give them work on undertakings deemed economically and socially desirable by states and local communities.

Seems Politically Significant.

To the Republicans it seemed politically significant that the 100 million allotment to Wisconsin was made at about the time that the La Follette brothers declared against a third party movement in 1936. The La Follettes have organized their own party—the Progressive—which for some time was regarded a potential nucleus of a national third party that might draw the support of large numbers of radicals, notably left wing Republicans, now affiliated with the New Deal.

This danger to the President's candidacy for reëlection was averted by the declaration of the La Follettes that a third party movement next year would be premature and unwise. The pronouncement was regarded by the Democratic chieftains as equivalent to an indorsement of the Roosevelt administration and a pledge by the La Follettes to do all in their power to deliver the electoral vote of Wisconsin to the President. The 100 million dollar allotment to Wisconsin, which the Democrats are pained to hear characterized as a reward, was immediately forthcoming.

Just a Starter.

The 10 millions allotted to Maine furnish a starter for the 37 million dollar project to harness the tides of Passamaquoddy bay to the production of electric power to operate as yet nonexistent industries. Over this first venture in hitching the moon to mundane turbines the New Deal press agents are waxing positively rhapsodical. In view of the political element of the transaction, the Republicans pronounce it the first instance of the harnessing of the moon to a presidential candidacy.

The "Quoddy" project is the dream of Dexter P. Cooper, an engineer who is a friend of the President's of many years' standing and a brother of Hugh Cooper, who built the gigantic Dnieprostroy for the Russian soviets. But it was rejected as impractical and improvident by government engineers, including even two New Deal boards to whom it proved too visionary, and it never got anywhere till the Democratic politicians took it up and demonstrated its political value.

Political Value Cited.

It had been turned down by the PWA engineers in March, 1934, and was regarded as dead until the Democrats set out to capture Republican Maine last September. Gov. Louis J. Brann, Democrat, who boasted that he had got 108 millions for Maine from the federal treasury and was warning Maine voters to reëlect him if they wanted more, revived the project in an exchange of letters with Mr. Roosevelt, who promised a reconsideration of the plan.

Public Works Administrator Ickes made a well publicized inspection of the site during the campaign, and upon his return to Washington uttered some cautious expressions of interest. The Democrats carried Maine, and a review of the "Quoddy" scheme followed with tangible results when the works relief billions became available.

Power Commission Quoted.

In rejecting the scheme in March, 1934, the PWA board of review quoted the federal power commission as follows:

"This report states in substance that 'Quoddy' power is not cheap power. It is possible, under very favorable assumptions, with money at 4 per cent and no taxes, that the switchboard cost of power would be 5.63 mills per kilowatt hour. On this basis, with a 40 per cent load factor, steam electric power could be developed in approximately the same location at a cost of 5.93 mills. At 80 per cent load factor, the cost to generate with steam would drop to 4.16 mills, while 'Quoddy' power would remain at about 5.63 mills. It would be impossible to sell 'Quoddy' power in the metropolitan area of Boston because of the prohibitive cost of transmission, which would amount to some 3.15 mills per kilowatt hour.

"The commission believes it possible that existing unused water powers in Maine could be developed more cheaply than 'Quoddy' power. Also, that this development could be carried on in steps which the market could more easily absorb. No market now exists for the proposed great block of 'Quoddy' power."

Would Use Tidal Range.

The Passamaquoddy project provides for the utilization of the tidal range of a normal average tide of 18 feet in Cobscook bay near Eastport for the development of power. This bay will be made the controled basin or lower pool of the project by the construction of five rock earth dams, a navigation lock and a set of emptying gates across its outlets to the ocean. A power house of initial capacity of 166,670 kilo-volt amperes, but constructed for expansion to 366,674 kilo-volt amperes, completes this installation and generates electrical energy by the passage of water from the major pool [the ocean] to Cobscook bay.

To complete the project a power storage plant is necessary. This consists of a reservoir of ample storage capacity at an elevation approximately 130 feet above sea level. Excess or surplus electrical energy is used to pump water into this reservoir, thus converting electrical energy into potential hydraulic energy.

Possible to Extend Project.

Ultimately, it is possible to extend the project to include additional works embracing the Passamaquoddy bay, located partly in Maine and partly in New Brunswick, Canada. Permission of the Canadian government will be necessary for the complete development.

This Passamaquoddy project offers excellent work relief features, officials said, in a section of the country where over 40,000 employables are now on relief rolls. Fifty-two per cent of the money appropriated will be used to pay direct labor employed on such construction features as 2,500,000 cubic yards of rock excavation, 9,000,000 cubic yards of earth excavation and structures, using 700,000 cubic yards of concrete and 13,000,000 pounds of metal. Most of the balance will go to indirect labor on materials construction.

Different Problems Involved.

Several features of this job present difficult and interesting engineering problems. The emptying gates, which control the water level in the Cobscook pool, it was said, must be constructed to exhaust water with great speed during short periods of time.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FOR HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Carlo Notto, 25 years old, 858 Townsend street, was held to the grand jury on a manslaughter charge yesterday after admitting to a coroner's jury that he had fled after his automobile struck and killed a man on June 2 at Noble and Division street. The victim was George Rogaz, 47 years old, 1316 West Division street.

Notto was arrested yesterday after Sergts. Joseph Ponicki and Edward Kennedy of the Racine avenue police had searched all garages in the vicinity seeking to find the automobile that lost a hub cap in the accident. They discovered the car yesterday in a garage at 246 East Grand avenue, where Notto is a mechanic. Notto admitted having been the driver and said he fled because he was frightened. John Baran, 23 years old, 865 Milton street, whom Notto named as his companion, also was arrested.

With no deaths in Cook county yesterday from automobile accidents, the 1935 toll remained at 400. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 323 had been killed in trafic accidents within the city limits and 6,802 injured.

TWO NEW TITLES FOUND BY G. O. P. FOR ROOSEVELT

Grass Roots Conference Restores Hope.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In the wake of the Grass Roots conference, two new titles were applied to President Roosevelt yesterday in Chicago discussions of the effects of the midwestern Republican meeting at Springfield.

J. A. O. Preus, former governor of Minnesota, used the expression "The New Dealer" with the suggestion that all three words be capitalized.

Orville J. Taylor, who has aided the Republican county organization in an advisory capacity in recent years, coined the expression "Republican enemy No. 1." "He is more than that," Taylor went on. "He is conservative Democrat enemy No. 1, and he is constitutional enemy No. 1."

Compare Notes on Conference.

Both thrusts were received with loud applause at the weekly Republican round table luncheon at Henrici's restaurant, which naturally became a sort of comparison of notes on the Springfield conference.

Former Gov. Preus, who said that he went to the two day meeting like hundreds of others "simply to be counted" among the open opponents of New Dealism, said the conference gave unmistakable proof that the Republican party "is going to carry on."

"Possibly the greatest achievement of the conference," he said, "is to show our judiciary that there are people in this nation who appreciate their courage in construing the constitution correctly and destroying the ill thought out schemes of the administration."

Expects Votes from Democrats.

Mr. Preus asserted thta in the coming campaign the Republican party will "absorb a tremendous amount of strength from Democrats."

On his way from Springfield to his farm near Manhattan, Kas., Dan C. Casement, president of the Farmers' Independence council and one of the first aggressive battlers among the farmers against the AAA, expressed regret that there had been a sort of compromise in the Springfield creed declaration on the subject of agriculture. He referred specifically to two short sentences in the creed.

"One of these sentences," he said, "is a mere catch phrase without meaning. Unfortunately it employs the exact words often used by Secretary Wallace in repetitions of one of his senseless assertions. That sentence runs: 'The farmer is of right entitled to a fair and proportionate part of the national income and to receive a parity price for the product of his farm in domestic markets.'

"As a matter of fact, neither the farmer nor any other citizens has any right or title to any share of the nation's income except such as he can honestly earn by his own unhampered efforts.

"The other sentence is, in its implication, even more destructive of the high purpose which the conference almost accomplished. It says: 'So long as we have a protective tarif for the benefit of industry we should give to agriculture corresponding benefits for that portion of the products of the soil which goes into domestic consumption.'

"The theory underlying this assertion evidently has its genesis in the belief that two wrongs make a right. Furthermore, it gives sanction to the policy of bestowing benefits, a policy which is the actual basis of the New Deal doctrin against which the conference expended itself in righteous invective."

HOUSE RELAXES PROFIT CURB ON U. S. WARSHIPS

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—A bill to liberalize a 10 per cent restriction on profits on naval construction contracts, imposed by the Vinson treaty navy act, today was passed by the house and sent to the senate.

Opposition representatives kept the measure before the house for three hours, but after a motion to send it back to the naval committee lost, 209 to 130, it was passed without a record vote.

Proponents of the bill contended that by permitting profits to be calculated on a yearly rather than the present individual contract basis, the measure would permit shipbuilders to recoup on one order a loss sustained on another.

Under the measure contracts and subcontracts for specialized scientific equipment would be exempted from the 10 per cent profit limit.

Horner Names 3 Trustees to Normal School Board

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—(AP)—Three members of the state normal school board today held appointments from Gov. Horner. They are Jacob Alschuler of Aurora, Mrs. Reed Green of Cairo, and Roswell B. Winnebago County to Hold July Grass Roots Rally

President Back at Desk; Plans an Early Message

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight returned to the White House to launch his first major offensive on the Supreme court decision which shredded his New Deal.

En route to his official desk after four days of relaxation at his ancestral home at Hyde Park, N. Y., and an excursion to West Point to deliver the commencement address to graduating cadets, the President said he will have an important message to deliver to congress next week.

Although the President refused to amplify his announcement, it was believed that the message will relate to federal control of the liquor trafic. The federal alcohol control commission was dealt a lethal blow in the same Supreme court decision which made a dodo of the NRA blue eagle.

Alcohol Head on Train.

The presence of Joseph H. Choate, FACA director, aboard the presidential special confirmed the report that the message would relate to liquor control. Mr. Choate joined the special after an overnight journey from Washington to confer with Mr. Roosevelt.

When the President made the announcement at a press conference aboard his returning special he was asked whether the message related to a new tax program. He waved the question aside.

It was felt that the message might relate to taxation upon business firms in an effort to salvage NRA principles. Following the conference White House aids said they did not believe the President would deliver a message suggesting imposition of a tax upon those who might manufacture goods without meeting administration set regulations on minimum wages and child labor.

At West Point earlier today the President, who is reported to be pondering means of circumventing the constitution which was invoked to kill the NRA, heard 276 cadets take a solemn oath to defend the historical guarantee of American liberty.

In his address to the graduates the President made a plea for the assurance of peace and emphasized that he was doing his bit toward such assurance by signing bills calling for an increase in the national defenses. He also called upon the new army officers to be ambassadors of his policy of "the good neighbor" in their contacts with other countries.

"The greatest need of the world today," he said, "is the assurance of permanent peace—an assurance based on mutual understanding and regard. During your careers you will go to many stations at home and abroad, enjoying unusual opportunities to mingle with our own and other people, to learn their points of view, and to appreciate their aspirations.

"If you strive at all times to promote friendship and to discourage suspicion, to teach respect for the rights of others, and to decry aggression, to oppose intolerance with a spirit of mutual helpfulness—then, indeed, your service will be of full value to your government and a full source of satisfaction to yourselves."

Talks on National Defense.

On national defense the President stated on some occasions in the country's history the army has been reduced to an unjustified level. He said that the army was maintained to promote tranquility and to secure the country from aggression.

At West Point the President was joined by Mrs. Roosevelt, who flew from the University of North Carolina, where she delivered a commencement address yesterday. She accompanied Mr. Roosevelt to Washington and with him reviewed in the evening the major parade of the Shriners, who are holding a convention in the capital.

ROBINSON LASHES "GRASS ROOTS" AT DRUG BANQUET

Only Obstructionists, He Declares.

Jonesboro, Ark., June 12.—(AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson tonight lashed out at the Republican grass roots rally at Springfield, Ill., branded his party's opposition as "merely obstructionists," and declared "it is not conceivable that the country will turn from Roosevelt back to Hoover."

Honor guest at a banquet of the Arkansas Pharmaceutical association, in convention here, Robinson presented a sharply worded indictment on the Springfield gathering. He said that immediate national budget balancing was impossible without abandonment of relief, that the ordinary expenses of government were well within revenues, that "enormous increase" in tax returns disclosed a revival of business.

Cites G. O. P. Demands.

"The only constructive suggestion [at Springfield] made in addition to those which are embraced in the Roosevelt administration policies is the often repeated demand for the balancing of the budget," said Robinson. "The budget cannot be immediately balanced unless the various forms of relief now being carried on be abandoned. This cannot be done just now without danger to millions of our people who have not yet been able to obtain employment.

Wallace Sees Similarity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Republicans at the "grass roots" conference in Springfield, Ill., failed to devise an agricultural policy which differs greatly from the New Deal's AAA, according to the view expressed today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

"It looks like there's no agriculture issue in the next campaign," Wallace opined when asked to comment on the declaration of the "grass roots" meeting.

Ignoring the fact that the Republicans called for the McNary-Haugen export debenture plan instead of the AAA domestic allotment system, Wallace referred to the fact that both the Republican conference and the AAA asked that the farmer be given a bigger cut of the national income.

"It sounds similar to our statement of objectives as written in the AAA," said Wallace.

3 MORE RALLIES ON GRASS ROOTS BASIS PLANNED

Mountain, Coast Sections Display Interest.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Preparations were under way today to follow the Republican grass roots conference of ten prairie states with similar regional meetings for other areas. Following a general plan announced some weeks ago the eight mountain states are talking of a roundup in Salt Lake City and the coast states of a meeting in San Francisco, Portland, or Seattle.

Dates have not yet been set, but at headquarters here word was that the meeting of the grass rooters here Monday and Tuesday keyed the rest of the west to action. Another gathering of states east of Indiana is expected to be held in Cleveland.

Fighting Spirit Stirred.

Messages from other states, west and east, are to the effect that reaction to the Springfield meeting and Lincoln pilgrimage has been to shake Republicans out of the defeatist atmosphere and to stir the old G. O. P. fighting spirit. Among the proposals is to hold one gathering in Philadelphia as a journey to the shrine of America's constitution.

Delegates lingering here today say the two greatest documents to come out of the convention were the addresses of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, on "Save the Constitution," and Mrs. George B. Simmons of Marshall, Mo., the farm wife who gave her experience and observation of the acts of the New Deal, the NRA, and the AAA right from the grass roots viewpoint. The declaration of principles and policies by the 5,000 delegates likewise is regarded as giving the grass rooters something constructive as well as critical to present.

Provide Permanent Committee.

To keep the grass roots movement permanent the conference yesterday provided for a permanent committee of five members from each of the ten midwest prairie states. They were to be picked by a caucus of the delegates or, failing that, by the state national committeeman and committeewoman.

Harrison Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, and head of the conference group, says that after the full list of names is received, a meeting will be called to discuss a program. It is proposed for one thing to keep the prairie fires burning with roundups of small units in the ten states.

It is probable that the general policy of this week's grass root roundup will be followed in keeping these gatherings free of presidential candidacy booms and from control by old political factions and self seeking office hunters, and to give young Republicans, the women and the veterans a good share in the proceedings.

So far as the old line leaders go, one phrase in yesterday's session was widely quoted. It was the remark of George Olmsted of Des Moines, Ia., chairman of the young Republican committee in his convention speech:

NEW DEAL IS A GAME WITH DEUCES WILD, GOV. TALMADGE SAYS

"The New Deal is a game of deuces wild—and there are plenty of deuces running around in Washington!"

In these words Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia summed up his case yesterday against President Roosevelt's administration. He spoke at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Morrison hotel. Talmadge is one of the leading Democrats who have opposed the New Deal policies.

The governor attacked the government's competition with private business as exemplified in the Tennessee valley authority, and charged that President Roosevelt has repudiated his campaign promises of economy in federal administration.

"In the TVA the government would have you believe it can make power cheaper than can private industries," Talmadge said. "That is not true, because the government is filled with politicians. The government in business pampers crooks and weaklings."

21,058 FAMILIES TAKEN OFF STATE RELIEF ROSTERS

Warm Weather and Short Funds Reduce Rolls.

A drop of 21,058 or 6.7 per cent in the number of relief families during May was announced yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. It was the greatest monthly decrease since the expiration of the Civil Works administration, which artificially reduced the relief load with its "made" jobs more than a year ago.

In May, 291,977 families received relief, compared to 313,035 in April. In March there were 322,000 families on the rolls.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the IERC, attributed the May reduction to the limited funds in May, due to the hitch over the Hopkins sales tax bill and the usual downward trend in the relief load with the approach of summer.

Record Amount Asked.

Despite shrinkage of the relief rolls, the IERC has for June a record breaking budget of $14,809,882. Of this, however, an estimated $2,590,000 was asked to clear up debts or unmet needs hanging over from the crisis. These included rent, gas and electricity bills, clothing, and household goods. In addition, nearly $1,000,000 has been paid back to the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation corporation.

At the time this budget was drawn up it was expected that there would be 295,000 families on the relief rolls in June. In view of the later figures, which indicate that the case load may be cut to 285,000 families this month, it appeared that the IERC will not require the full amount of the budget.

Report Decreases Downstate.

Of the 291,977 families receiving relief during May, 145,869 were in Cook county and 146,108 downstate. Of the 101 downstate counties, 95 reported decreases. Ford county had the largest decline—43.3 per cent under April. Twenty-two other counties showed decreases of from 15 to 42 per cent.

Mr. Reynolds explained that the May figures were not affected by the present state-wide reëxamination of cases. Under this plan all except the newest relief families have been notified they are off the rolls until new applications for relief have been investigated and accepted.

In the second week's operation of the plan [last week] relief officials effected a reduction of 7.7 per cent in the number of cases put through the investigation mill. The same percentage was obtained the first week.

Reject 1,501 Reapplications.

The compilation of last week's reports from 68 downstate counties showed that 27,426 families were notified they would have to reapply for continued relief. Of this total, 19,379 reapplied, of which 1,501 were rejected.

In Cook county 27,358 families were put on notice, but most of these cases are still under investigation. Only 8,136 cases were examined and 318 were rejected. The Cook county relief staf was having difficulty in carrying out the reduction plan because of having to catch up on work piled up during the recent halt in relief activities, due to lack of funds.

LONG INVOKES FRIED OYSTERS, POT LIKKER, TOO

Reads Constitution, Hugo in NRA Filibuster.

one of the four senators who aided Long by propounding rambling questions that gave him a breathing spell, asked at one point whether Long would yield the floor to him on condition that he could regain it after seeking to effect an agreement.

Long said he didn't want to yield the floor and Senator Lewis B. Schweltenbach [Rad., Wash.], a newcomer, again served notice that there would be no unanimous consent.

"The new members of the senate don't propose to sit here and let the senator from Louisiana run the senate as he has been doing for five and a half months," Schweltenbach said. "We are through. If the senator yields he will not regain the floor."

"There are ways to get the floor without the consent of the new members," Long retorted, "but I'm not through yet. I'll be here another 24 hours. This thing may not be settled till Sunday night."

The NRA expires Sunday night by limitation, and that was the reason for so much concern on the part of the administration leaders.

Keeps After Long.

Schweltenbach was the spokesman for the "freshmen," and he continually interrupted Long with his warnings and threats.

"I want to say that the new members are disposed to sit here tonight and tomorrow and from now on to stop the senator from Louisiana from running this senate," he said.

"We don't propose to see the greatest deliberative body on earth turned into a circus."

At various times during the night impartial senators sought to effect agreements, but Long would not agree to anything that would preclude him from further talk before the final vote. The administration leaders would not agree to anything except letting Long "talk himself to death."

During the night senators milled about, entering and leaving the chamber and conferring in huddles. There were bitter scowls on the faces of Senators Harrison and Barkley, and the freshmen sat back grim and determined. A few senators dozed off, and some even left the chamber for a few hours of sleep, to return later.

Has Little Assistance.

Although the late Senator La Follette holds the one-man filibuster record, veteran senators say Long's feat was far more remarkable because he had so little assistance and was unable to employ the device of frequent calls. Only one quorum call may be had, without unanimous consent, between transactions of business.

What most amazed the spectators was Long's sense of humor, which his adversaries lacked, and his even tempered, if often affected, urbanity under the hottest fire. He laughed good naturedly at the most vicious thrusts, and when he turned them into boomerangs for his foes the galleries laughed with him.

Glances at Clock.

At 2:40 a. m. Long looked up at the clock and said:

"It's almost 3 o'clock in the morning. It'll soon be time for the senior senator from Texas to make his annual speech on prohibition. If he don't I'll make it for him. He hasn't got around to the obituary yet."

A few minutes later he said: "It's only two days till Saturday, when most of these senators will be wanting to take a bath."

Jokes at Eleventh Hour.

Shortly before 11 o'clock last night, when Long had been going almost 11 hours, he told a story in his canebrake style that made a great hit with the galleries.

"You know, I'm like my uncle," he said. "My uncle was a great man. He went into a saloon one night and ordered a drink. The drink wasn't made right and he was afraid the bartender, a young man, would lose his job. So he put his foot upon the rail and said, 'Son, I'm gonna stay here all night and show you how to mix drinks.' So he stayed there all night and showed the boy how.

"My uncle was like that. He was always a-helpin' somebody else. So, senators, I'm gonna stay here all night and teach this senate how to act—how to be a senate. We'll learn something about the constitution before we get this thing settled."

Long's Special Salad Dressing.

When Long passed the eleventh hour of his speech and went into the long distance one-man filibuster records, he regaled the senate with another of his "cookin' recipes," this time for "Roquefort cheese salad dressing."

For fifteen minutes he discussed the proper ingredients, and when to put them in and how to stir it to "the proper consistency for one who appreciates the culinary art."

"And, senators, it should be eaten with lettuce," he said, "head lettuce, about a quarter or a half a quarter is the proper portion for each person."

Long said there were only two men in the United States who knew how to make Roquefort cheese salad dressing, that he knew more than the other man, and that the other man was dead, anyway.

Long then asked unanimous consent to have his recipes published as a senate document and have 100,000 copies distributed.

He undertook, at one point, to give his recipe for chicken pie, but progressed only to the point of saying "never boil a gizzard" before his line of thought was interrupted.

How Uncle Got Religion.

Later on Long again reverted to his uncle, telling the story of his baptism. His uncle was something of a sinner, given to gambling and strong drink, and his wife grieved about this. But one day a Baptist preacher converted the old man and he went down to the river to be baptised.

"Just as the preacher got him into the water up to his waist the 10 of spades floated out," Long said. "Then they went a little further and out came the jack, then the queen, then the king, and finally the ace. His wife called out to the preacher, saying 'O, parson, bring my husband back, he's lost.' But her son was standing by her and he yanked at her dress. 'Let him alone maw,' he said. 'If he can't win with that hand he never will win.'"

Others Help Long's Fight.

Long had started out playing a lone game. This was encouraging to the administration leaders, but late in the day Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.], author of an amendment holding up the NRA resolution; Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], and Senator Pat McCarran assisted in the parliamentary strategy to give him breathing spells and still retain the floor.

At 5 o'clock he sent out for coffee and strained consomme. He gulped those between phrases and kept on shouting. At 7 p. m. Senator McCarran called for a quorum. That permitted Long to leave the floor and grab a bite to eat.

The determination of the administration leaders to wear him down, just as they did three weeks ago when he filibustered against a joint session to hear President Roosevelt's bonus message, was indicated when Long sought to get an agreement for a recess and vote on reconsidering the Gore amendment at noon today. Senator Harrison, manager of the NRA resolution, said he would agree to that on condition that debate be limited to ten minutes on the final vote.

Would Let Long Finish.

"I object," said Senator Black. "I believe it is the will of the senate to stay here and let the senator from Louisiana finish his speech if it takes till sunup."

Long then asked Vice President John N. Garner whether he could make a unanimous consent request to require all senators to stay there and listen to him.

"In the first place," Mr. Garner replied, "the senator cannot make that request. In the second place, the chair feels that it would be torture."

Huey Seeks Roll Call.

Long then asked whether it would be in order for the clerk to call the roll and ask each senator whether he wanted to leave or remain there and hear the speech. Mr. Garner suggested Long himself ask the senators individually. Thereupon the Kingfish obtained a roll call and started calling the roll.

Before Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] could reply, however, Senator Robert La Follette [Radical, Wis.] objected on the ground that Long could yield only for a question.

At that point Long had to resume the reading of the constitution, with remarks thereon, from which he had departed three hours earlier.

Basic Law vs. New Deal.

When his voice had become hoarse after three hours of shouting Long began what he called "a lecture on the United States constitution," reading an annotated edition, together with the footnotes, paragraph by paragraph.

Long paused with each provision to cite some New Deal law or action which he said had "swept it away." When he came to the clause conferring on congress the power to punish piracy upon the high seas, he immediately jumped to Vincent Astor's "five million dollar yacht, Nourmahal" and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, "the little."

"Instead of regulating the Nourmahal it regulates us," he said.

Long was inspired by the pot-likker and oyster frying idea when he inquired whether the senators didn't have some social engagements to keep.

"I had seven social engagements tonight and I was going to show them all how we fry oysters in Louisiana," he said. "I ask the stenographer now to give me seven copies of the recipe that I am going to give so I can send them to these people and explain why I wasn't there."

Long described in minute detail the process of preparing, frying, and serving oysters, and then took up pot-likker.

"Pot-likker," he said, "is the residue of the co-mingling of the turnip greens and the side meat—the stuff that's left over in the bottom of the pot."

"What pot?" asked Senator Barkley.

"The trouble with turnip greens," Long went on, "is that they never get them clean. You have to wash them plenty."

Long picked up a waste basket and demonstrated how much water to put in with the greens, while the galleries rocked with the spectators' laughter, and then explained that you have to boil the greens a long time.

"Not too long, but a long time," he said.

Sorry to Delay Senators.

Long continually lamented "the shame of keeping these senators here away from their social obligations" and, on one occasion, said he regarded it as "a downright discourtesy to the Shriners."

"I don't want to be discourteous to the Shriners," he declared. "There are some people who think I'm a Catholic, but that ain't so. I'm a member of the Baptist church—a white Baptist."

Huey read at length from the Supreme court's opinion in the Schechter poultry case, with interpolations of his own that kept the galleries tittering.

Selecting Chickens by Code.

"Eighteen chickens, eighteen counts," he said. "Why under that code a man had to be blindfolded to take a chicken out of a coop. It was against the law for him to see what he was getting. One dominecker rooster would send a man to the penitentiary for conspiracy to violate a law of the United States."

Senator McCarran interrupted to ask Long what he thought about Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's remark calling the Supreme court justices "nine old men in kimonos."

"That's about like old Hugh Sittin' Bull Johnson," Long said.

Long asked the senators whether they knew why they were staying there all night and then answered himself:

"We are here to keep the United States senate from having the right to do what the constitution says it shall do. The constitution says the President shall make appointments with the advice and consent of the senate. Mr. Farley says 'No, we won't do that.' They're trying to wear down our physical powers. It's our last stand for the constitution."

Huey said the first man he ever saw that reminded him of Farley was "a fellow at the peep hole out west one time when I got in a poker game and lost some money."

Gets His Second Wind.

Early in the evening Long's physical stamina seemed to be waning and his voice was so hoarse that he could hardly talk. By 10 p. m., however, he seemed to have recuperated amazingly, and was roaring with all his customary volume. He ranged over the floor waving his arms and springing up and down, his eyes popping and his bushy hair falling into his face. He was quaffing regularly from a glass of something resembling eggnog.

Senator Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.] interrupted once requesting Long not to talk so loud, lest he wake people up. Long stopped Minton from then on with this rejoinder:

"I'm sorry I woke up the senator because he's much better off when he's asleep. He ought to go off in the cloakroom and take a nap for himself."

During the evening Long spent more than an hour reading from Victor Hugo's "By Order of the King," concerning the debate in the house of lords on revenues for the prince consort of Queen Anne.

By implication he likened Prince George to President Roosevelt, "living off the fat of the land."

"That speech might well have been made in the United States senate on June 12, 1935," he said.

What Started It All.

The beginning of Long's speech just after noon followed an administration victory in a preliminary skirmish in their efforts to remove an amendment requiring senate confirmation of all government employés receiving more than $4,000, from the NRA extension resolution.

The amendment submitted by Senator Gore was adopted Tuesday by a vote of 43 to 38 and Long immediately made a motion to reconsider, hoping that a motion to table could be carried and thereby clinch the amendment. Overnight, however, the administration forces rounded up enough votes to defeat the motion to table by a vote of 44 to 37. The question was then on the motion to reconsider, and Long immediately began his filibuster.

Despite the fact that the NRA will die by limitation next Sunday night unless the extension resolution is passed by both houses and signed by the President, in the meanwhile Senator Harrison, chairman of the finance committee, professed not to be worried about the Long filibuster.

The resolution, as desired by the Roosevelt forces, permits voluntary agreements, but sanctions exemptions from the anti-trust laws only to the extent of carrying out collective bargaining, minimum wage, maximum hour, and child labor provisions. It prohibits "unfair competitive practices which offend against existing law," and at Senator Borah's request this was to be made to include "the Sherman anti-trust act."

Long Starts Filibuster.

After the motion to lay Long's motion for reconsideration on the table had been defeated, the "Kingfish" was required to filibuster against his own motion in order to forestall action on the NRA resolution.

Long denied, however, that he was filibustering and expressed surprise that any senator could oppose the Gore amendment requiring senate confirmations. He accused President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley of a "conspiracy" to violate the statutes requiring confirmations. Long quoted the penalties for conspiracy. Moving on to the NRA itself, Long said if the senators had listened to him when the act was passed "they wouldn't be in this mess now."

"They are trying to bring back this blue buzzard cooked up in a different way," he shouted. "It reminds me of boarding house hash—when they served you something you wouldn't eat they'd bring it back the next day in the form of hash, so you wouldn't know what was in it."

Praises Court, Raps President.

Long praised the nine justices of the Supreme court for their NRA decision and assailed President Roosevelt for saying it put the country back in the "horse and buggy days."

"I wonder whether that statement was a threat or a promise," Long said. "I was coming up from Louisiana on the Southern railway when I read about that, and along the way I saw man after man plowing with bulls. That's the way things are in the south. They'll have to make an improvement before they reach the horse and buggy days."

Long worked himself into one of his characteristic exhibitions, bellowing and shouting, arms flailing, and eyes rolling, as he denounced the senate and the whole congress for abdicating in favor of the President.

FRYING OYSTERS, HUEY LONG STYLE, TOLD TO SENATORS

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—In the course of his record breaking filibuster against the NRA, Senator Huey P. Long gave the following recipe for "oysters Louisiana."

"As I was going to illustrate about these oysters that I got from New Orleans, I bought this frying pan, 8 inches deep and 14 to 16 inches or 17 inches in diameter, and I bought a ten pound bucket of cottonseed oil lard, but I forgot to get a strainer and when I got to the place to fry the oysters I had everything there except the meal and the strainer.

"The lady had some meal, but she did not have any salt to salt the meal with, and that was the only bad thing about it. The strainer which they had was not the best strainer in the world, but I could use it all right. However, they had no salt for the meal.

"But I took the oysters the way they they should be taken and laid them out on a muslin cloth about 12 of them and then you pull the cloth over and you dry the oysters. You dry them, you see, first with a muslin cloth, and then you take the oysters, after they have been dried, and you roll them into a meal which is salted. I did not have it salted this night, but it should have been salted.

"You roll these oysters in the dry meal. You do not want to cook the meal or put water in the meal at any time or anything like that.

"Just salt the meal and roll the oysters in it. Then let the grease get boiling hot. You want the grease about 6 inches deep. Then you take the oysters and you place the oysters in the strainer, and you put the strainer in the grease, full depth down to the bottom. Then you fry those oysters in boiling grease until they turn a gold-copper color and rise to the top, and then you take them out and let them cool just a little bit before you eat them.

"Now most people cannot tell when an oyster is done. They do not know when it has been fried enough. You must put them on the bottom of a skillet. You have got to have them totally submerged, and you wait until they rise to the top, and when they rise to the top, a golden copper color, then the oyster is cooked just exactly right, and then you take the strainer up out of the grease in the dish and the oysters are there, and you let them drip for a little while and allow them to cool a little and then you eat them."

Educating the Missus

COMING home from the theatre
I just felt like a snack
AND a cool glass of beer.

SO I opened a bottle of SCHLITZ and let some of
THAT delicious amber
GOODNESS delight my throat.
"I'LL take a little,"
REMARKED the wife.
WELL, we finished three bottles.
"I never liked beer before,"
SHE said, "but this is different."
"SURE," says I, "because the SCHLITZ people know how to GIVE you beer at the peak
OF full-ripe mellow flavor.
SCIENTISTS call it Enzyme Control.

ENZYMES are something Mother
NATURE puts into things like fruit
TO make them ripen nice and LUSCIOUS. She tells these Enzymes
WHEN to start but not when to stop.
THAT'S why fruit gets over-ripe.
OF course, Enzymes are in all beer
WHEN it's being brewed.
THE trick is to control them by TEMPERATURE, timing and INGREDIENTS so that the beer is PERFECT. Schlitz does it
SCIENTIFICALLY. That's ENZYME Control . . . and that's why

SCHLITZ tastes better and
IS better. And that's why
I'M going to have one more
BOTTLE before we go to bed."
"GOOD," says the Missus, "ME, too!"

COL. M'CORMICK CALLS AD MEN TO FREEDOM FIGHT

Warns That Their Liberty of Speech Is in Peril.

A warning that the publishers of the nation have a struggle on their hands to protect the freedom of advertising was sounded yesterday by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in an address before the convention of the Advertising Federation of America at the Palmer house.

Col. McCormick, who, as chairman of the freedom of the press committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, led the fight that won the insertion of the constitutional guarantee of freedom in the newspaper code of the NRA, told the advertising executives that they were entitled to the same protection under the constitution as other individuals.

Text of the Address.

Col. McCormick's address follows:

"Mr. Toastmaster, ladies and gentlemen of the Advertising Federation of America: My thesis is that you are entitled to the protection of the laws of this country, that you don't belong to a category inferior before the law, that you are as much entitled to the protection of the constitution as the other citizens—a doctrin, I may say, which is not in practice in this country today.

"You derive your rights from the first amendment to the United States constitution as follows:

"'1. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for redress of grievances.'

Freedom of the Press.

"'Freedom of the press' means the free use of the press to all people. A mistaken idea has gone abroad that the 'freedom of the press' is a special privilege of newspapers. This error grows out of an old expression whereby newspapers were called 'the newspaper press.'

"Then, as the evils of press censorship passed out of our minds, when the phrase 'freedom of the press' was used, people began to believe that it was freedom of the newspaper press which was referred to. The freedom of the press is the freedom of that press which had been enslaved, and that was every press and every use of the press.

Old Tax Is Recalled.

"This statement will become the plainer to you when I say that the verbiage of one of the old taxes on knowledge under which the newspapers and other forms of printing were restricted was as follows: 'Every person possessing a printing press or types for printing, and every type founder was ordered to give notice to the clerk of the peace. Every person selling types was ordered to give an account of all persons to whom they were sold. Every person who printed anything also had to keep a copy of the matter printed, and write on it the name and abode of the person who employed him to print it.'

"It has often been said that the freedom of the press cannot be defined. This has often been said by those who wish to restrict its terms.

"The freedom of the press can be defined. Other people can define it better than I am able to, but I have defined it and will read you a fair definition at some considerable length.

Freedom of Press Defined.

"The freedom of the press would be abridged by any law passed by congress which would license, censor, confiscate, enjoin, or especially tax the press, or introduce libel upon government, or constitute the judge of the libel or judge of the law, or prevent truth from being pleaded in defense of a libel, or unreasonably raise the cost of production or unreasonably decrease the return from publishing by indirect means, as these would abridge its freedom as effectively as would excessive taxation; interfere with the transmission of news by telegraph or otherwise; confine the liberty to write for publication or the liberty to publish to any fraction of the population, or prevent any citizen of the United States from printing, writing for publication, or from causing any writing to be printed.

"And, finally, anything that would unreasonably interfere with the freedom of the press, in any way which may ever be invented.

An Unlimited Prohibition.

"For if the framers of the constitution had merely wished to protect the press against those forms of abridgment which had taken place in the past and about which they knew, those masters of the English language would have used the appropriate phrases, but knowing that the mind of man is fertile in expedients, and feeling confident that new methods of abridging the freedom of the press would be devised, they created a prohibition absolutely unlimited.

"James Madison, known as the father of the constitution, and therefore the greatest authority upon its interpretation, pointed out that in the United States the legislature and the judiciary, as well as the executive, are curtailed by the first amendment. Hence, liberty of speech and press is secured not only from previous censorship of the executive but from subsequent restrictions imposed by the legislature and the judiciary.

An Equality of Freedom.

"Freedom of the press stands on an equality with freedom of speech and freedom of religion.

"It has the same rights and the same limitations. Acts wrongful in themselves may not be done under their mantle. Thus polygamy may not be practiced under guise of freedom of religion, or fraud under guise of freedom of the press.

"But opinions may be expressed without restraint in either, the speaker or writer being subject to prosecution for libelous or fraudulent expression, or subversive expression.

"Freedom of the press does not warrant any fraud in any form, and federal laws properly defining fraudulent advertising and providing punishment therefor will not transcend the first amendment, according to the recent opinion of Chief Justice Hughes, that this form of legislation is confined to the states by the tenth amendment to the constitution.

Restraint of Trade Not Excused.

"Freedom of the press does not excuse restraint of trade, as the verdicts of guilty against Wallace's Farmer and others show.

"But congress in the recent language of Mr. Justice Cardozo may not run riot in its definitions, nor may it license the printing of anything, including advertising, or put a censor over advertising, nor make oppressive rules under any pretense whatever, as has been done in the security act and as is proposed in the AAA bills.

"When the department of agriculture objected to an advertiser using the following phrase: 'Most little pigs go to market, but the best little pigs go to Jones,' it not only made itself ridiculous, but it violated the first amendment of the constitution. For the advertiser has the same right to literary imagery as the orator or the poet.

No Power of Censorship.

"The department of agriculture has no power to censor advertising and congress cannot give it that power.

"Let it be borne in mind that the advertiser has as much right to the freedom of the press as the editor. The smallest shopkeeper has as much right to the freedom of the press as the President of the United States.

"If, in his recent criticism of the Supreme court, the President had used the vehicle of a message to congress, he would have been protected against any prosecution for contempt of court by the doctrin of privilege. He did not use that means. He called in the newspaper reporters and gave them an interview.

"He was still protected against a prosecution, not by virtue of his office, for no citizen of the United States has any right which does not exist for every citizen. He was protected by virtue of his freedom of the press, which provides against the offense of 'scandalum magnatum' under any guise or by any authority.

Two Kinds of Advertising.

"Mr. Roosevelt was advertising his opinion of the Supreme court. Yesterday some other gentlemen in Springfield, Ill., advertised their ideas of Mr. Roosevelt. I am not trying to speak in lighter vein; I am speaking in intense seriousness.

"The only difference between them and bond houses or food processors is that the former, Mr. Roosevelt and the conference in Springfield, were advertising their views at the expense of the newspapers, and the latter, the bond houses and the food processors, advertise their views at their own charges.

"Surely it is a strange doctrin of law that deadhead advertising should possess liberties withheld from advertisers who pay their way.

Rights of the Advertiser.

"An advertiser has as firm a constitutional right to express his opinion upon the merits of an article, whether it be a security, a toilet preparation, a proprietary medicine, or a product of the farm at any stage from the field to the consumer's table, as has President Roosevelt to express his opinion of the Supreme court decision, or the 'Grass Rooters' to criticize President Roosevelt, for to all of us the first amendment gives the right and the liberty 'to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience.'

"The securities act cannot give power to censor the press. Its proponents claim it is an act to benefit the country. Its opponents claim that its purpose is to destroy the market for private investment.

"Whatever purpose it may have can give it no more authority than was given to the sedition law, which was intended to preserve the republic, or more authority than could be given to a law passed by congress on the subject of religion for the purpose of saving the souls of people according to the formulæ of the majority then in congress.

True, Too, of the AAA.

"What is true of the securities act is true of the AAA act, and any other act which bases an act of government and the governing of the people upon a censorship.

"I am quoting from Prof. Salmon's work upon the 'Newspaper and Authority.' Wrote this eminent lady: 'Politicians are past masters at making the worse appear the better reason, and their skill was never more clearly shown than in the early years of the eighteenth century, when the arbitrary suppression of individual journals that might be obnoxious to the government but did not transgress the law was too impolitic a course to be adopted, and it was therefore resolved to impose a general stamp of one halfpenny for every half sheet upon all periodical publications,' Prof. Salmon wrote in 1923.

"Politicians of 1933 exceeded those of the eighteenth century in the cunning of Belial.

Hits Laws Against Advertising.

"The present laws against advertising stand on exactly the same footing before our constitution as the taxes on knowledge which were outlawed by the first amendment to our constitution.

"In a movement to create a new economic and political order congress has passed laws abridging the freedom of the press in two ways—to prevent the advertiser from exercising his freedom of print and to reduce the available income from printing.

"After censorship and licensing passed from the English jurisprudence the parliament of Queen Anne enacted the taxes upon knowledge. These were taxes upon printing and they were threefold: They were taxes upon advertising, taxes upon paper and stamp taxes upon newspapers.

Taxes at Last Repealed.

They were finally repealed, and in their repeal an organization was perfected to work for the repeal. It decided to work against all three methods of taxing knowledge, the taxes on advertising, the taxes on paper and the taxes on circulation.

"The authority on this phase of English history, Mr. Collet, wrote: 'The advertising duty stood first as being one for which no argument was possible, and its removal proved a great boon not only to trade but to workers.'

"This is not the first time that I have shown that advertisers are entitled to the protection of the first amendment of the federal constitution. When a Mr. Murray, in Lynn, Mass., was deprived of his Blue Eagle, which incidentally might have been opposed as a form of stamp, for language in an advertisment, the committee on the freedom of the press protested that Mr. Murray was exercising the right to utter and argue freely according to conscience.

Murray Deprived of Right.

"He was deprived of his right to publish, his freedom of the press was destroyed because the freedom of the press is not a special privilege to the owners of the newspapers or the owners of the presses, but is a privilege of every American citizen which congress may not pass any laws to abridge.

"The Associated Press has been extremely hesitant to enter this controversy for fear of the charge of commercialism, but at its annual banquet its president, Mr. Frank B. Noyes of Washington, echoed these words and gave them the formal approval of the association.

"Mr. Murray's Eagle was afterwards restored, but in the meantime Mr. Murray had failed.

Calls Advertisers Into Fight.

"I come before you today to ask you to join the newspapers in their fight to preserve the freedom of the press. In the great contest which has been going on in this country for three years, and which is not yet ended, to decide whether the principles of arbitrary government shall be allowed to cross the ocean and crush all that the revolution gained, the constitution organized and the bill of rights guaranteed, practically every right of freedom was swept away in the first rush of absolutism.

"According to Mr. Gilbert Montague of the New York bar, in an address at the University of Michigan, at which six justices of the Michigan Supreme court were present, only the newspaper publishers stood firm.

"He said in his address: 'In all previous struggles for preservation of human liberty the bar had been in the forefront of the fight; but in this NRA despotism the bar has been singularly inactive, partly from indifference and partly from economic pressure, and the battle is being fought and won by newspaper publishers, newspaper editors, and newspaper columnists.'

A Point Strikes Home.

"And he closed his address with Henry of Navarre's famous letter to his friend Crillon: 'Hang yourself, my dear Crillon! We have won a great battle, but you were not there!' And from the letters he received he judged that this particular point in his address struck home.

"May I conclude with two quotations from Alexander Hamilton, the first when, out of power and chastened by adversity, he was defending a friend sentenced to imprisonment in violation of the freedom of the press?

"He said: 'Never can tyranny be introduced into this country by arms; these can never get rid of a popular spirit of inquiry. It is only by abuse of the forms of justice that we can be enslaved. An army can never do it. It is not thus that the liberty of this country is to be destroyed. It is to be subverted only by a pretense of adhering to all the forms of law, and yet by breaking down the substance of our liberties.'

"The Supreme court has bravely upheld our constitution, but, as a consequence, the court itself is in peril, and violent changes of the constitution are advocated.

Rights Depend on Manliness.

"At long last our rights depend not upon any court but upon our manliness in upholding them.

"Said Hamilton of the proposed amendment to protect the freedom of the press: 'And from this I infer that its security, whatever fine declarations may be inserted in any constitution respecting it, must altogether depend on public opinion, and on the general spirit of the people and of the government. And here, after all, as is intimated upon another occasion, must we seek for the only solid basis of all our rights.'

"Our rights were gained by effort and courage and the daring to incur peril. A generation which has not the courage, a generation of individuals who have not the courage, to risk their individual welfare to protect these liberties will lose them and will deserve to lose them."

Addresses Ad Men

An example of advertising waste is to be found in the anti-war series of advertisments now appearing in various publications John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co., declared yesterday before the convention of the Advertising Federation of America at the Palmer house.

Mr. McKinlay pictured an advertisment showing a rosy cheeked baby boy with "all the wrack and ruin of war" behind him.

"Apparently there is some one so unmindful of the lessons of thousands of years of history as to believe that war may be prevented by advertising," he said. "Appeals to fear never yet kept a people out of war and that is all that I see in the advertising for which somebody is paying a good deal of money.

He Suggests Some Realism.

"A realistic recognition of the lessons of history would justify over that baby boy's picture the words: 'He who fears to die does not know how to live.'"

For ridding the advertising business of racketeers, Mr. McKinlay said, some had suggested a code involving policing.

"Of course, codes are not quite so fashionable as they were a little while ago," he remarked, referring to the Supreme court decision holding NRA unconstitutional, "and policing would be found just as difficult as it has been in the case of other codes. I have no faith whatever in compulsory methods.

Believes in Natural Forces.

"I believe that if the profession gets too close to the border line of fairness to the public, natural forces will creep in to correct such abuses."

Mr. McKinlay declared that the campaign to cleanse the advertising profession must be on an educational basis.

Emily Newell Blair, chairman of the consumers' advisory board of the NRA, told the advertising men that they would have to meet the new wants of the consumers. She said that the consumers were much more careful of their money than in the past and were interested in the quality of the things they purchased.

MARLEN E. PEW SEES NEW DEAL PROGRAM UPSET

The Supreme court decision against the national recovery act has upset the entire New Deal program and repudiated the whole idea that there can be centralized control and regimentation of business, Marlen E. Pew of New York, editor of Editor and Publisher, told the Inland Daily Press association in convention at the Palmer house yesterday. The convention closed with a round table discussion of technical publishing problems late in the afternoon.

"Administration circles in Washington have been left in near panic as a result of the ruling, and apparently can find no loophole through which to rescue the New Deal," Mr. Pew said.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

CHACO WAR ENDS TOMORROW; FOES SIGN ARMISTICE

Agree to Settle Dispute by Direct Negotiations.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, June 12.—Representatives of the governments of Paraguay and Bolivia signed an armistice agreement at noon today. Firing will cease in the bitter three year war for the Gran Chaco at noon Friday and the two nations will try to settle their disputes by direct negotiations.

After an eleventh hour hitch, caused by Paraguay's objection to uncertainty as to when the truce should take effect, an agreement was finally reached early today. It was the result of conferences lasting several weeks between representatives of Paraguay and Bolivia and six neutral nations—the United States, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, and Uruguay.

The American Participants.

Alexander W. Weddell, American ambassador to Argentina, and Hugh S. Gibson, his colleague in Rio de Janeiro, both participated in the negotiations and both signed the armistice along with representatives of the other nations.

At the termination of the signing ceremony Foreign Minister Manuel Elio of Bolivia and Foreign Minister Luis Riart of Paraguay embraced. Their wives, one of whom has four sons in the Bolivian army and the other three sons in the Paraguayan army, kissed each other, weeping.

Three Months to Negotiate.

According to terms of the peace formula direct negotiations between the contending parties to settle the century old territorial dispute must begin within three months, after which the world court at The Hague will be called upon to render judgment in the event that direct negotiations fail.

This would imply interminable litigation concerning Bolivia's claim that the entire Chaco territory is hers by virtue of a concession from the Spanish crown, and Paraguay's contention that her title is still a better one, namely, that of long uninterrupted possession.

It is possible, however, that an effective solution of the whole Chaco dispute—hitherto scouted as visionary—may yet come up for practical discussion between the parties.

Solution Suggested.

One such solution consists of Paraguay's cession to Bolivia of a river outlet to the Atlantic, in return for Bolivian recognition of Paraguay's sovereignty in the Chaco. It is noteworthy that a feeler in this direction was made a few days ago when a Buenos Aires newspaper, La Razon, quoted an unnamed ambassador as envisaging some such solution of the conflict.

Buenos Aires and other South American capitals greeted the agreement ending the war with prolonged celebrations. The celebrating reached delirious heights in Asuncion and La Paz, chief cities of the warring countries.

In the three years of the war, fought chiefly in jungle and swamp but with modern guns, more than 100,000 men were killed. At present the Paraguayan armies seem to hold an advantage, being in possession of most of the disputed territory. At some points the battle front traverses recognized Bolivian land.

CHICAGO URGED TO MARK FLAG DAY TOMORROW

Mayor Kelly yesterday issued a proclamation asking Chicagoans to observe Flag day tomorrow by displaying the Stars and Stripes at their homes and places of business. Flag day was founded by the American Flag Day association, which was started in Chicago in 1890 by the late Dr. Bernard J. Cigrand.

Patriotic organizations in the city and county are planning special meetings tomorrow in observance of the day. The Palmer post of the American Legion will hold an open meeting at Stanislaus hall, 2330 North Lorel avenue, in the evening, at which George Hime, Cook county chairman of the Americanism committee of the Legion, will speak.

Another observance is planned by the Elks, who will meet in the evening in their headquarters at 174 West Washington street. The Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold exercises at their annual state encampment in Kankakee.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Useful Arctic Dogs

June 12, 1935.

THE Samoyed dogs which are to show their pulling power Saturday in connection with THE TRIBUNE's horse and mule pulling contest, are true all 'round working dogs in their native Russia and Siberia. In their homes along the arctic circle, they pull sleds, herd reindeer, and perform other canine tasks.

The pulling contest, to which the public is cordially invited, is to start at 9:30 a. m., daylight saving time, in a meadow near Weisbrook station, a mile and a half southwest of Wheaton. From that hour until the competition and accompanying festivities are over, the seven handsome Samoyeds will be on exhibition. The dogs belong to Mr. and Mrs. John Earnshaw of Crete, Ill.

If the German shepherd dogs that live on THE TRIBUNE's Wheaton experimental farm should wander over to the portion of the farm near Weisbrook station, Saturday, their eyes very likely will pop with amazement to see the seven snow white Samoyeds doing the work of horses, along with some of America's finest draft teams. The shepherd dogs may resent the idea.

Spectators who view the Siberian animals closely will observe that although their coats are beautifully white, their eyes are dark as a protection against the glare of the snow in their arctic homeland.

The Thurow boys on the Yorkville experimental farm have been doing considerable arguing this week about their pet teams of work horses. The horse pulling contest is, of course, the cause of all of this conversation. The rules of the contest do not permit the entry of any teams owned by THE TRIBUNE, so there is no way for the boys to settle their arguments about the respective merits of their teams. Anyway, Louis insists that Dolly and Dan, his favorite work team, could outpull Clarence Thurow's Pat and Jerry. Both of the boys will be at the Wheaton experimental farm Saturday morning to watch the contest beginning at 9:30 a. m., and to size up the horseflesh that will be represented in the competition.

The job of planting corn on the Yorkville farm was completed last week. Altogether there are 485 acres planted in corn on the farm, a big percentage of this being grain corn.

Clarence figures that it will take about 100 acres of silage corn to fill the three silos on the farm. Since he doesn't have that many acres planted he very likely will have to cut some of his grain corn to be used for silage. Just how much will have to be cut naturally will depend upon the condition of the crops this year.

The four row corn planter has "earned a pension" for its valiant service during the spring season, and now is "in retirement" in one of the big barns. The boys are looking it over now to make sure that it will be all set for the next planting season.

The job of cultivating comes next. The tractor which had been used with the four row planter was hitched to the cultivator yesterday [Tuesday] and the boys were using it in a 50 acre plot at the south end of the farm. There was also a horse drawn cultivator in this field and another in the 85 acre plot on the north side of the river. The corn on that side of the river is well out of the ground now.

ITALY SEEKS RAIL LINE IN ETHIOPIA, LONDON HEARS

Would Quit War Venture for Concession.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—A new plan for settling the Italo-Ethiopian dispute is being seriously considered in London, Paris and Rome, according to the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Herald.

Under the scheme, which is of Italian origin, Italy, it is said, would give a definite undertaking not to take military action against Ethiopia and settle the boundary question by arbitration in return for a concession from Ethiopia for building a railway from Massawa, the Italian Red sea port, through Ethiopia to Mogadishu, port of Italian Somililand.

The railway would pass to the west of Addis Ababa so as not to cross the French railway—in which the Italians now have a share—from Addis Ababa to Djibouti.

Demand "Railway Zone."

The Italians claim that such a concession would be a reasonable fulfilment of the promise of economic and commercial facilities given by Ethiopia in the treaty of 1928 and which they maintain never were kept.

They also claim it is in accordance with the Anglo-French-Italian treaty of 1906, which, while guaranteeing Ethiopian independence, recognized the district between Eritrea and Italian Somaliland west of Addis Ababa as one in which Italy has special interests. But the Italians, the diplomatic representatives learned, make another demand which may prove the crucial point.

To safeguard the railway and in view of the conditions prevailing in Ethiopia the Italians want a "railway zone" on either side of the line which would be policed and for certain purposes administered by the Italians. The French government is reported to be favorably inclined to the proposal, but the British still are "studying." The views of the Ethiopian government so far as known have not yet been ascertained.

Charges Bribery of Chiefs.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopa, June 12.—(AP)—Ethiopian officials today accused Italian agents of attempting to buy the support of some chiefs of the province of Ogaden across the frontier from Italian Somaliland.

The charge was made shortly after Ethiopia, in an energetic note handed the Italian minister here, strongly protested what she termed "characteristic aggression" by Italian colonial troops along the frontier.

The note, which Foreign Minister Herouy signed, replied to Italy's complaint concerning an alleged clash near the Tafari Katama frontier posts. Italy blamed the occurrence on Ethiopia, but the latter charged Italy was to blame.

When Emperor Haile Selassie visited the Harrar region recently, officials here asserted, Ogaden chieftains who came to Jigjiga to salute him laid at his feet exhibits of clothing and sums of money which they said Italians presented them in an effort to buy their support.

3 ARCHBISHOPS REVOLT AGAINST GREEK CHURCH

Arrested in Fight on Gregorian Calendar.

ATHENS, June 12.—(AP)—A religious revolt stirred Greece today with the arrest of three archbishops of the Greek church as a precaution, authorities said, against possible violence.

The archbishops had severed their connection with the church and urged the clergy to follow them, accusing Archbishop Chrysostomos of betraying the church's interests by accepting the Gregorian calendar.

A statement by the three described the Gregorian calendar as "a sacrilegious western invention" and also accused the archbishop of tolerating Roman Catholic, Protestant, and communist propaganda. They will be placed on trial Friday.

Greece as early as May, 1923, abandoned the Julian calendar, but an opposing faction has been celebrating church feasts by that calendar since.

Pope Gregory XIII. in 1582 ordered abolition of the ancient Julian calendar because of its errors in intercalation and its replacement by one received in almost all Christian countries under the name of the Gregorian calendar. The principal use of the calendar in the church is to find Easter.

Announce Plebiscite Plan.

Meanwhile Greece today definitly was promised an opportunity to say with ballots whether she wants ex-King George to return to the throne. Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris made the announcement after conferring with President Alexander Zaimis. No date was set for the plebiscite.

Earlier M. Rhallis, Royalist deputy, disclosed that the former king's secretary had written him to say George was ready to come back to the throne whenever his people called him.

It was announced leaders of all political parties would meet under Zaimis' presidency to determine conditions under which the plebiscite will be held. It was believed, however, difficulty would be experienced in winning Republican factions over to the idea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 12.—The bullet riddled body of Juliano Guerrero, police investigator in the recent kidnaping of the millionaire Antonio San Miguel, was found on a highway near Havana today.

Spurred by this latest defiance, authorities speeded up their search for the San Miguel kidnapers, who demanded $286,000 ransom before they released their victim. Four more arrests were reported, making a total of twenty persons who have been seized for the snatching.

San Miguel was freed last Saturday after being held three days.

Charges False Arrest; Would Tie Up $200,000.

Mrs. Mary Dahlberg Chapin, former wife of Bror G. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex company, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Superior court against Huntley Chapin, member of a wealthy Buffalo, N. Y., family. The bill charges cruelty and asks alimony and an injunction to restrain Chapin, who is now in Mexico City, from proceeding with a divorce suit he has brought there.

Mrs. Chapin has been living at 14 West Elm street since her return from Mexico in April. The bill alleged that Chapin had tried to prevent her from leaving Mexico by "falsely and maliciously" charging her with the theft of his typewriter. The complaint was dismissed.

Eyes Blacked, Bill Charges.

The bill, drawn by Attorneys Samuel A. Rinella and Joseph Barbera, says that the Chapins were married Nov. 14, 1933 in Conejo, Colo. On June 16, 1934, while the couple were living in Chicago, Chapin struck his wife in the face and blackened her eyes, according to the bill, and on Oct. 17, 1934 he again struck her and left her for two days.

The bill alleged further that on March 15, 1935 at Mexico City, Chapin cursed his wife and beat her and then deserted her. For the next few weeks, the bill said, he continued "to make life miserable" for her.

On April 10, Mrs. Chapin was on a train bound from Mexico City to Chicago and was nearing the American border when Chapin had her arrested on the larceny charge, the bill said. The charge was brought "only to embarrass her and injure her reputation," according to the bill, and was dismissed on April 16 as being without foundation.

About to Receive $200,000.

Chapin has an income of $1,000 a month from a trust fund in the estate of his grandfather, the late Charles Huntley of Buffalo, and on June 20 will receive the principal of the fund, estimated at $200,000, the bill says. The bill asks that he be enjoined from transferring or incumbering his assets and that in addition to suitable alimony, and attorney fees in the present suit, Mrs. Chapin be reimbursed for her expenses in fighting the larceny charge in Mexico. Attorney Rinella said that he expected to come into court within a few days for a preliminary hearing on the bill.

Dahlberg, who lives at 999 Lake Shore drive, divorced the present Mrs. Chapin in April, 1932. He alleged that she had deserted him on Jan. 23, 1931, and had gone to live on the island of Majorca in the Mediterranean sea.

Charges Alimony in Arrears.

She did not contest the divorce, but in May, 1934, she filed a petition, through Attorney Rinella, charging that Dahlberg was in arrears $41,250 in alimony and a settlement agreed upon when they separated. Dahlberg made a temporary payment and the petition is still pending.

At the time of the divorce from Dahlberg, Mrs. Chapin was given the custody of their adopted daughter, Alma Lee, now 12 years old, for nine months of the year, Dahlberg to have the girl during the summer months.

Chapin, who is 30 years old and a Yale graduate, was divorced from Mrs. Mrytle McLaughlin Chapin of Chicago in 1931.

Plot "To Blow Up" Tracks Solved; 3 Boys "Confess"

Dixon, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Solution of what had been believed to have been a plot to blow up the Chicago and North Western tracks through Dixon was announced today by Sherif Ward Miller. Three small boys, who said they had been trying to pick up railroad signals, admitted placing a crude electrical device discovered by section hands on the main line yesterday, Miller said. No action will be taken against the boys.

Ex-Actress Dead in Mystery; Hunt Former Indian Convict

Mrs. Minnie Conney, 64 years old, a former actress, was found dead late last night in her antique shop at 23 East Ohio street under circumstances which, the police said, indicated she might have been slain by an Indian ex-convict.

Lieut. James Devereaux of the Chicago avenue police ordered a search for the Indian, Andrew E. Singer, who was paroled recently from the Michigan City, Ind., prison and had at times made his home in Salvation Army shelters. He is known to have quarreled with Mrs. Conney last evening over her refusal to cash a check for him.

Bruise Found on Neck.

The Conney shop occupies the first and second floors of an old residence and the body of Mrs. Conney was discovered lying beside an ancient chaise longue on the second floor. Her clothing was in disarray, her spectcles had fallen into a wastebasket near by, and there was a small bruise on the neck.

The police were notified of the death by Charles Slaton, a roomer residing on the third floor. He saw the body as he glanced in while on the way to his own quarters.

Attention was first turned to the Indian by Isidore Conney, husband and business associate of the woman, who returned to the shop soon after the arrival of the police.

Husband Tells of Quarrel.

"I went out about 7:30," he said. "My wife was quarreling with the Indian, who wanted her to indorse a check so he could cash it. He seemed to be drunk, but not in a violent mood, and I went on."

The police were unable to find Mrs. Conney's keys, which she habitually carried, or a considerable sum of money the husband said she had. Francis Messenger, a second roomer in the house, reported that when he went down the stairs at about 9 p. m. he saw a "dark complexioned man" standing at the second floor stair landing with a purse at his feet.

"I told him he'd better pick up the purse," Messenger said. "He said loudly, 'That ain't my purse. It's my wife's.' Then he went into the second floor salesroom. I went on downstairs and out, mostly because I was scared of the man."

Messenger could not be sure, he said, that the man was an Indian.

Sent to Prison for Robbery.

Police records show that Singer was sent to Michigan City on a robbery conviction. While there he requested Salvation Army officials to assist in getting his parole.

Mrs. Conney met him on trips to the Salvation Army warehouse at 2258 Clybourn avenue, where she purchased second hand goods for resale. John Coates, watchman at the warehouse, reported that the Indian broke into a shed there Tuesday night to sleep. He charged that Singer had stolen a small sum of money from the warehouse yesterday.

The 12 o'Clock club, a tavern, is on the ground level under the Conney shop. Patrons of this place were unaware of the death until the police started their investigtaion.

MINNEAPOLIS EDITOR'S SUIT LOST IN COURT

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—[Special.]—The case of Arthur Kasherman, publisher of the Public Press, demanding that the city of Minneapolis, Mayor A. G. Bainbridge and Chief of Police Michael Johannes show cause why they should not be restrained from interfering with distribution of the Public Press was thrown out of court today by District Court Judge William C. Leary. Kasherman charged that police had seized nearly 20,000 copies of his publication several weeks ago.

Judge Leary's action followed argument by an attorney for the defendants that a Minnesota state law prohibited circulation of any publication containing only items concerning crime and prostitution.

The issue of Kasherman's paper which was seized fell within this classification, it was argued. The issue charged that police gave "protection" to vice and gambling resorts.

Kills Himself in Hotel, Leaves $71 for Cremation

Walter V. Wornick, 14044 Ward avenue, Detroit, shot and killed himself yesterday in his room at the La Salle hotel, where he had registered early Tuesday morning. Wornick, a draftsman, left a note directing that $71 in his pocket be used to cremate his body.

MINE PAY PARLEY OPENS IN HOPE OF AVERTING STRIKE

The joint conference of Illinois mine owners and union mine workers, called to negotiate on a wage and hour contract for the next twelve months, opened here at the Majestic hotel yesterday with both sides hopeful an agreement would be reached to exempt this state from the threatened national strike of union coal mine employés.

During the day the group held an organization meeting, appointing W. J. Jenkins, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, permanent chairman. Thomas Hunter, union leader from District 12 at Springfield, was named secretary. The group is to begin the actual negotiations today.

The owners and miners were left without a contract by elimination of the NRA codes. The miners will continue to work under the old agreement until midnight Sunday, but after that time, if a new agreement is not reached, the men will walk out. It was indicated here yesterday the union workers would ask a 50 cent per day increase over the base wage of $4 per day and a reduction from seven hours' work to six hours' work a day.

SEIZED AS WINDOW THIEF.

Julius Jansen, 42 years old, was arrested yesterday, charged with smashing a window of the Ries Iwan company, dealers in smokers' supplies at 131 West Lake street, and taking pipes and tobacco from the display.

FINLAND AGAIN TO PAY SHARE OF ITS WAR DEBT

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—Finland officially notified the state department today that, as usual, it would pay its semi-annual war debt instalment of $165,453 on June 15.

Great Britain, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Rumania have announced they would default on payments due June 15. All other European war debtor nations also were expected to default.

Finland is the only war debtor nation which continues to meet its obligations in full and promptly on the due date.

FATAL LEAP IS HELD SUICIDE.

Mrs. Rosalie McManamy, 42 years old, 11717 South Michigan avenue, who was killed on Tuesday when she leaped in front of an elevated train at the State and Van Buren station, committed suicide while temporarily insane, a coroner's jury determined yesterday.

HOUSE STANDS PAT ON POWER TAX EXEMPTION

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Horner administration leaders suffered the second major defeat on the Hopkins relief plan today when the house refused to recede from its amendment exempting sales of industrial power from the 3 per cent sales tax. By a vote of 69 to 44, members kept the exemption in the bill which would assess public utility services under the increased tax. Then the utility bill was sent to third reading for a passage roll call tomorrow.

In vain Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago attempted to secure approval for a comprise amendment which would cut the utility tax to one and one-half per cent until Jan. 1, 1937, and one per cent thereafter. By the same votes the majority of the house—in a coalition of Democrats and Republicans—refused to agree. Adamowski fought for nearly an hour, but was finally forced to give up.

Will Cut Revenue.

Gov. Horner had hoped that the exemption would be stricken, for it will cut anticipated revenue from six millions to about three millions five hundred thousand dollars.

The utility fight preceded introduction in both houses of a bill to continue the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission for two years from Aug. 1. Despite all the objections raised from the Republican minorities to the present system of administering relief no changes are made in the new bill, which will be sponsored in the house by Representative Adamowski and in the senate by Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton].

Mayor Kelly of Chicago arrived here late today to back the handbook licensing bill which is expected to be called for passage tomorrow. The measure was amended tonight to make it applicable only to Chicago by providing it would affect cities of more than 500,000 population. Downstate opposition is expected to be minimized by this move.

Votes to Dismiss Contests.

The house elections committee this afternoon voted to dismiss the contests brought by two former Republican members, Miss Josephine Berry of the Woodlawn district in Chicago, and Roger F. Little of Champaign, majority leader during the Emmerson administration.

Miss Perry was defeated by Bernard J. Kewin, Democrat, by 2,381 votes, last November, according to the canvass. Her attorney, Allen Healy of Chicago, told the committee this afternoon that she had been deprived of 9,000 votes.

Little was declared defeated by E. E. Sturdyvin [Dem., Champaign] by 54 votes. His counsel insisted that evidence showed Little leading by 21 votes. But the committee by a strict partisan vote of 15 Democrats to 7 Republicans voted to recommend dismissal to the house.

Adamowski secured consent of the house to take the much discussed criminal code from the judiciary committee and place it on second reading on the house calendar. Yesterday a similar motion was unsuccessful. Tonight it carried, 80 to 25.

Pass Sewage Bill.

Without debate, the house tonight passed the Weber bill to permit the Chicago sanitary district to charge industries for treating industrial waste dumped into the sewage system. The vote was 85 to 11.

The district would be empowered to decide the amount of compensation to be paid to the district by any applicant who sought to discharge waste in excess of 10,000 gallons daily.

PLAN OPERATIONS TO MAKE 13 BLIND CHILDREN SEE

Bluefield, W. Va., June 12.—(AP)—Thirteen boys and girls, many of them blind since birth, are waiting in a Bluefield hospital for operations they hope will restore their sight. They came from the State School for the Blind at Romney, picked by a Bluefield surgeon as those to whom he believes he may restore sight.

The state welfare department is backing the movement to give light to the blind—paying the expenses of their stay in the hospital.

Dr. J. E. Blaydes is volunteering his service in performing the delicate operations, carrying on a work he began three years ago.

DIES IN RELIEF SHELTER.

Anthony Montvilli, 51 years old, was found dead of heart disease yesterday in his bed in the relief shelter at 659 Hobbie street.

State Constitution Faces New Attack by Democrats

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Indications that Illinois' 65 year old constitution is to be assaulted again with the "wrecking bills"—the two senate measures that were stricken from the house calendar last week—were seen here today.

Gov. Horner appears to be lending his friendly coöperation to the proposed new attack. The governor is speeding toward Biloxi to attend a governors' conference, so his stand could not be learned, but it was through his publicity bureau that a statement was released today predicting action to reinstate the two bills in the house.

Measures Are Defended.

"Early action in the house of representatives for reinstatement of senate bills 280 and 357, providing for straight party votes on constitutional proposals," read the statement, "was seen today as Senator James C. Mayor [Dem., La Harpe] issued a statement defending the measures and terming them progressive."

The "wrecking bills" provide in brief that "straight" party votes under certain conditions may be counted as for a constitutional amendment. If a state party convention indorses a constitutional amendment or a proposal to call constitutional conventions after the legislature has submitted the question, the proposal may be printed on the party ticket in such a way that ballots marked with a cross in the party circle shall be counted for the proposal.

It is contended by the bills' opponents, who come from both Cook county and rural Illinois that the measures would turn the constitution over to the custody of the bosses and machine of the party in power. The state's basic law, every section of it including the bill of rights, they say, would be subject to the caprice and whim of political machines.

Senator Mayor, who introduced the measures, said that his aim was to get an income tax. It has been figured that about 88 per cent of this tax would come from Cook county; that other industrial cities would feel its weight; that small wage earners would be hardest hit, and that the farmers would be faced with the possibility of double taxation.

So sweeping, however, are the provisions of the "wrecking bills" that among the potentialities lurking behind them are threats to all guarantees of human rights. What has been gained through centuries of struggle would be subject to change through mass voting if supported by a dominant political machine, according to opponents.

The dangers in the bills have been seen by both Democrats and Republicans. The measures were slipped quietly through the senate and were only stopped when on second reading in the house. After they had been stricken in that chamber many senators said that had they realized the full significance of the bills they never would have voted for them.

Horner's Action Surprises.

The governor's tacit approval of the proposed new effort to pass the senate bills came as a surprise to members of his party, although he had previously favored Senator Mayor's measures. In scratching them from the house calendar Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], majority leader, took the lead and was supported by nearly a unanimous vote from the Republicans and Democrats.

Denunciation of the bills has come from many members of the governor's party. Mayor Kelly asserted that they are utterly "bad"; the Cook county Democratic party is said to be strongly opposed to them, and six years ago Michael L. Igoe, new United States district attorney at Chicago, denounced a similar measure advanced in Gov. Emmerson's time when Igoe was the Democratic house leader.

AGE OF MACHINERY NEEDS NEW LAWS, RICHBERG DECLARES

Galesburg, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—The constitution of a political government must provide for a developing economic government or that political constitution will prove a mockery, Donald R. Richberg, late head of the NRA, declared at the commencement exercises of Knox college here today.

Richberg said: "The free man found himself drifting back, not into voluntary service to a liege lord, but toward involuntary dependence on the irresponsible controlers of an economic system."

"Every instinct and reason convinces me of the perils of a monetary inflation," he added, "but there are perils of which the whole nation is aware lurking also in a credit inflation.

"We are constantly adjured to rely upon the laws of supply and demand, although no agreement can be reached upon the statement of what these alleged laws are, or how they operate."

TWO WOMEN DIE, 5 HURT IN BLAST OF FIREWORKS

Elkton, Md., June 12.—[Special.]—Two young women lost their lives and five other workers were injured today in a fireworks plant explosion on the second floor of a garage building where they were employed during the Fouth of July rush season.

State's Attorney E. D. E. Rollins vowed an intensive investigation of the explosion, especially since it was the second fatal one of its kind here in ten days.

Miss Thelma Dunlap, 21, died in the flaming building and Mrs. Catherine Daniels, 27, died of burns several hours later.

COMPLETE ROUT OF CHINCH BUGS IS CALLED NEAR

Chinch bugs would be so completely routed by continued wet weather for another 10 or 15 days in Illinois as to make it unnecessary to protect corn fields with creosote barriers, W. P. Flint, University of Illinois entomologist, said yesterday.

"The situation is the best in five years," Flint stated. "While danger of infestation has not disappeared, threat of serious damage is lessening each day, with damp weather and rain prevailing."

If it becomes necessary later on for farmers to build barriers against the pests, creosote will be available from the $2,500,000 federal appropriation for this purpose, Flint said.

Schools Report Ready.

Ready for submission to the senate is the first report of the Illinois educational commission that was appointed by the governor to study the school problems of the state and make recommendations for remedial legislation.

The report recommends the appropriation of $2,700,000 to place all elementary school districts on a minimum basis of parity in payment of claims on the school distributive fund for 1930, 1931 and 1932. The report considers this emergency legislation to aid financially distressed schools. A bill appropriating this amount has passed the senate and is now in the house.

On permanent school legislation, the commission stated that it has not had time for a complete study of the problems. It recommends that the commission, or a new one, be authorized to continue the work.

By a vote of 12 to 3 the senate public utility committee late tonight reported out the truck regulation bill of Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] with a recommendation that it do not pass. Senators have been besieged for days with thousands of telegrams denouncing the bill, which would have brought all trucking under the control of the Illinois commerce commission. Senator Williams said he would not try to obtain the passage this session of another bill that would have increased the license fees paid by truck owners.

DELAY IN PAVING BRINGS PROTESTS OF BUSINESS MEN

Asphalt Laying Pact Here Recalled.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—State Highway Engineer Lieberman today received a telegram from the Broadway-Clark-Devon-Loyola Business association of Chicago complaining about the condition of Ashland avenue in the two short blocks between Devon and Arthur avenues.

The message said there have been numerous accidents in the trafic that has been using the concrete foundation of the pavement since last autumn while the contractor has done nothing toward laying the asphalt surface called for in the specifications.

Blames Asphalt Layers' Group.

Lieberman said the contractor, G. L. Tarlton of East St. Louis, Ill., has been unable to get labor to finish the job. Chicago asphalt pavers, under the administration of a former mayor, killed competition from outsiders by conspiring with certain union leaders, according to evidence presented in suits designed to break the paving ring several years ago.

"There has been little evidence in the last two years of any attempt to revive the paving combine, with control of labor as an enforcement agency," Lieberman said. "But we are proceeding with caution in this case to be sure that any pressure by the state on the contractor will not tend to limit competition for contracts on Chicago streets."

The highway department has been told that the excuse given by union agents for not furnishing labor to Tarlton is that he was unfair to their organization on a Public Works administration contract in East St. Louis. Lieberman said the East St. Louis trouble was settled months ago.

Part of City Beautiful.

In the meantime this small section of Ashland avenue remains unsightly, if not hazardous. This section was to have been built from the "Chicago beautiful" bond issue that widened Western and parts of Ashland avenue, as well as La Salle street. Graft exhausted the bond money before the projects were finished.

The state last year awarded a contract for the job to be financed with gas tax money to close a gap in this cross-city artery. The right of way was opened, the curbs built, and the foundation was laid last fall. The asphalt toping was to have been done early this spring.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 12.—[Special.]—Grant Carveth Wells, explorer, author and lecturer, filed a bankruptcy petition today. He listed assets of $4.50 in cash and liabilities of $11,350.02. Among his creditors are his present and former wives, and they recently clashed in Superior court here when the first wife, Mrs. Luard T. Wells of New York City, won a $5,000 alienation of affections verdict from Wells' present wife, Mrs. Zetta Robart Wells of Weston.

The first Mrs. Wells is listed as a creditor for $2,000 and the present Mrs. Wells for $1,450. Creditors include the St. Regis hotel in New York for a $1,450 bill.

West Point Examination Passed by Colored Youth

Felix Kirkpatrick, colored, 18 years old, 2970 Prairie avenue, appointed to the military academy at West Point by Oscar De Priest, colored congressman, just before he retired from office, has passed his preliminary physical and mental examinations and has been ordered to report at the academy on July 1. Norman J. McGuone, 20 years old, 6605 University avenue, was notified yesterday that he was one of the winners in competitive examinations for the 25 presidential appointments to West Point. McGuone, a private in the Chicago Black Horse troop, has just completed two years of study in civil engineering at the Armour Technical institute.

KIDNAPER'S WIFE TELLS LAWYER'S DEATH THREATS

Ben Laska Accused as He Questions Woman.

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 12.—Testimony of alleged death threats by one of two lawyers involved in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case was heard today from Mrs. Clara Feldman, wife of the convicted kidnaper, Albert Bates. Her statements were aimed at Ben B. Laska, Denver attorney, who is defending himself before Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught.

"I didn't say to you that I'd cut your throat, as the government has tried to show, did I?"

Story Is Unshaken.

"Yes—you did," Mrs. Feldman answered. "You said to me that if I didn't take your instructions you'd have my throat cut."

With much arm waving and striding across the courtroom floor, Laska carried on a bitter cross-examination but failed to shake her story. He was warned by the court to restrain himself in his manner of conducting the examination.

Mrs. Feldman was the first witness introduced to show how Laska entered the alleged kidnaping conspiracy. The government claims that Laska and James C. Mathers, Oklahoma City lawyer, knowingly accepted fees which were part of the $200,000 ransom.

According to the prosecution's picture, Laska was a sinister figure who came upon the scene after the kidnapers had collected the money for the release of Urschel, an Oklahoma City oil millionaire, in 1933. Laska, the government contends, was paid $10,000 to defend Bates, while Mathers allegedly received a $1,000 fee.

No Money Given, She Says.

However, Mrs. Feldman admitted under Laska's questioning that she had not given him any money, and United States District Attorney W. C. Lewis has said he has no witness to prove Mathers' acceptance of ransom money.

She did tell how Laska had instructed her to go to Chicago to avoid being captured with the ransom money, and how she had followed his instructions.

Urschel was on hand at the proceedings again with his wife. Together they have been following closely the testimony of the various witnesses.

SAVE COLORED YOUTH FROM LYNCH CROWD AS NOOSE IS READY

Munfordville, Ky., June 12.—(AP)—Saved from lynching after a band of 30 irate men had him perched on a shaky bedstead with a noose ready, Raymond Curry, 19 year old colored youth, was in jail at Elizabethtown today awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to rape Mrs. Esther Jolly, 18, a bride of two months.

Town Marshal Burt Hodges and Dr. Maher Speevack of Munfordville rescued the youth from the barn of Henry Jolly, the victim's father-in-law, where the men had made ready for an impromptu hanging.

Marshal Hodges and Dr. Speevack argued that the group was not positive they had the right man, because Mrs. Jolly had not made an identification. They suggested a wrench with which the attacker struck his victim be taken to Munfordville for finger print identification, and that the law be permitted to take its course.

The arguments of Hodges and Dr. Speevack were backed up by Ernest O. Doutaz, a railroad detective, who helped get the suspect out of the barn and to the Munfordville jail.

WALEYS PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO KIDNAP CHARGE

Tacoma, Wash., June 12.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley, speeded to Tacoma by airplane from Salt Lake City, pleaded not guilty late today to two federal charges in the $200,000 kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser. Department of justice agents said they have confessed to that crime.

While the hunt for William Mahan, ex-convict supposedly implicated by the Waleys, went on from Butte, Mont., to Canada on a new set of "hot clews" the Waleys formally denied guilt of both "Lindbergh law" and mail fraud charges.

Woman First to Plead.

Mrs. Waley was first to plead. She faced the commissioner, while her husband chewed gum and slouched near by.

Commissioner Fitch read the complaint and asked her if she had an attorney.

She answered: "If it's all the same to the court, I'll waive a hearing and plead not guilty."

Both the Waleys, who had been represented as working with the government agents toward a solution of the $200,000 ransom kidnaping, seemed amused. Waley also waived preliminary hearings.

The pleas of not guilty were puzzling to outsiders in view of justice department reports that the Waleys had confessed, implicated Mahan, and led officers to a cache of more than $90,000 of the ransom money in the mountains near Salt Lake City.

Bond was set at $100,000 each on the mail fraud charge, but no bail was set in the Lindbergh law case by United States Commissioner H. G. Fitch, before whom they were taken strongly guarded.

Taken to Secret Place.

As swiftly as they were brought, the Waleys were spirited away in separate motor cars to some undisclosed place immediately after the court session, which lasted less than 30 minutes.

Federal agents declined to comment on reports that they had been moved to Seattle for safekeeping.

It was reliably reported they were accompanied by Harold Nathan, assistant chief of the federal bureau of investigation.

Others Sought in Canada.

Police of British Columbia kept watch for a tan or light brown coupé bearing a Utah license which the United States border patrol reported entered Canada at Nelway, B. C., June 3, hopeful of rounding up confederates of the Waleys.

A Maetaline Falls, Wash., pawnbroker said he believed one of the men in the car, who exchanged a watch with him, was a member of the kidnap gang.

However, police found that two bills passed in Kelowna, B. C., which were believed to have been part of the kidnap money, do not tally with any numbers on the ransom cash list.

SPAIN RESTRICTS USE OF FARM MACHINERY TO AID UNEMPLOYED

MADRID, Spain, June 12.—(AP)—As a step toward relieving farm unemployment, the ministry of labor today issued a decree forbidding the use of machinery for more than 50 per cent of the labor on any farm. Land owners may be subjected to heavy fines for supplanting more than half the manual labor with machinery.

At Seville, the Andalusian harvesters and land owners signed an agreement by which a minimum of five pesetas [about 70 cents] will be paid for an eight hour day and by which no women or children under 16 years of age shall engage in the harvest.

DENIES GUILT IN BOND CASE; BAIL $100,000

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—Arrested in possession of a $10,000 bond said to have been stolen, Martin Smith, Kansas City race track follower, was held in lieu of $100,000 bail today. Federal agents and city police searched for other persons believed to have bonds stolen in a $590,000 robbery in New York Dec. 13, 1934. Smith pleaded not guilty when arraigned. Detective Chief Thomas Higgins said Smith did not have a criminal record.

TEST ALARM BRINGS POLICE.

Eight police squads sped yesterday to the South Chicago Savings bank, 2959 East 92d street, when the bank's burglar alarm in the station sounded, but upon arrival learned it was a test alarm.

PAN-AMERICAN GOT AIR MAIL FAVORS, SAYS FARLEY REPORT

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—In a report to the senate on its investigation of foreign air mail contracts, the postoffice department said today it was "clearly evident that the Pan-American Airways has been shown favoritism by former officials" of the department.

The report, made public by the special senate committee which investigated ocean and air mail contracts, was signed by Postmaster General Farley and recommended that rates of pay for foreign air mail be cut 25 per cent to effect a saving of $1,692,041 annually to the government.

The department also recommended a revision of services, which, together with the cut in rates, would save the United States $2,084,669 a year.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE ISSUE.

The declaration of principles adopted by the Grass Roots convention is the best statement of the grounds of opposition to the New Deal thus far formulated. There is nothing novel in it. It is in fact a restatement of the American creed. The American people from their birth as a nation have believed in it and we are confident a great majority believe in it today. We have been told by the individuals who have suddenly sprung up to be our rulers that it is outworn. Its restatement at Springfield will clarify public controversy and set the real issue between the New Deal and its opponents clearly before the great jury which must soon decide it.

"We believe," says the creed, "in the constitution of the United States."

In other words, we do not believe the American form of government belongs to the horse and buggy period to be replaced by an executive backed by a burocracy unlimited in scope or authority by the constitution.

"We believe," says the creed, "that the constitutional separation of the powers of government into legislative, executive, and judicial should be maintained."

In other words, we do not believe in a legislature whose function it is to obey the orders of the executive merely to give his will the form of law. We do not believe in the abdication of the responsibilities and powers of congress through vague and sweeping delegation of power to the President and his burocracy or in the destruction of the power of the courts to declare the acts of congress and of the executive invalid when repugnant to the fundamental law of the land embodied in the constitution.

"We believe that the maintenance of the independent sovereignties of the federal government and the several states as guaranteed by the constitution is vital to the maintenance of the American form of government——"

In other words, we do not believe in the invasion of our states and local communities by an army of burocratic snoopers and bosses directed from Washington and the substitution for home government of home affairs by executive decrees inspired by the ambition for power inherent in every burocracy and regardless of the varied needs, standards, and character of the American states and regions.

In short, as the declaration admirably summarizes: "We believe in individualism and in individual enterprise, as opposed to communism, socialism, Fascism, or any other form of collectivism, no matter in what form it masquerades, whether as a 'new deal,' a 'planned economy,' or otherwise.

"We believe that our American system of free enterprise is the one above all others capable of providing the great mass of the people with a substantially higher standard of living and greater economic security, without loss of freedom through an ever widening distribution of property ownership among American families.

"We believe that the successful functioning of the American system demands that the competitive system be maintained and fostered and that individual initiative be encouraged.

"We believe that, once economic freedom is destroyed, political liberty must suffer the same fate; and that, aside from the contribution to material progress, there is a moral value to liberty which justifies any sacrifice to preserve it."

These are the gist of the Grass Roots declaration of essential Americanism. They are the real issue raised by the New Deal. There will be an anxious attempt to deny the issue exists. Denials come easily from a régime which stands upon a wreckage of solemn promises and pledges, a wreckage unprecedented in American history. But the words and works of the New Dealers, of the President, and the cabal to which is now consigned the government of the United States rise up to deny their denials.

A NEW HEALTH RESORT.

In a talk in Iowa the other day Admiral Byrd prophesied that Little America might become an international health resort. This advertisment will be resented in California, where so many good Iowans go before they die, but apart from debate on the relative merits of health resorts it is not prudent to dismiss too lightly claims for Antarctica which may seem at least exaggerated. We refer on this point to the experience of Sir Ernest Shackleton's party reported in his record of the expedition of 1914-'17, published under the title "South." It will be remembered that after the loss of his ship Shackleton and his party, in small boats, reached a rocky islet, called Elephant Island, a terrible place swept by perpetual gales, by rain, sleet, and snow. There they huddled in a shelter of overturned boats, sails, and piled snow while Shackleton put off with five companions in a twenty foot boat in a desperate but successful attempt to reach the Falklands and organize a relief.

Twenty-two men remained behind at Elephant Island until rescued, 128 days in a continuous battle with cold, rain, and sleet and the hurricanes which sweep over the antarctic seas. Some of the men had been frostbitten badly and all were weak from their struggle to reach the island. Their food supply eked out with fish and wild fowl would not have the approval of a dietitian, but in spite of over four months of hardships such as the history of desperate adventure has seldom equaled, when Shackleton, returning with his rescue party, anxiously shouted, "Are you all well?" The answer was "All safe, all well." The party in fact, though weak from inadequate food and the long strain, were in better health than when the leader left them.

The adventures of Byrd's better planned and equipped expedition read like a vacation cruise compared to the harrowing experience of the Shackleton party. Little America is not Elephant Island, but travelers in the arctic regions of North America have testified to the health building qualities of the arctic climate and it is quite possible that some day health seekers may have resorts along the arctic circle. But the access to Little America over the wildest body of water on earth, the Antarctic ocean, or by plane through the ferocious gales that blow above it is not precisely a strong feature of the project. Little America may be very healthy, but getting there is not.

MORE BROKEN CHINA.

In the case of Manchuria it was explained that the country was not a part of China and consequently could be removed from Chinese misrule without impairing the territorial integrity protected by various pacts and agreements and treaties, including the nine power treaty. This subtle argument did not make much impression on the league of nations or the American state department. The chief member nations of the league, however, were shrewd enough to let Mr. Stimson, the American secretary of state, get far out in front of them in registering a protest, and before the American secretary thought to look about him he was alone in his adventure. True, the league of nations in its corporate capacity did much later take a verbal stand, but all that came of that was the disappearance of Japan, slamming the door, from Geneva. Mr. Stimson had been made to carry most of the responsibility for protests entirely futile.

In further progress of the Japanese military policy in China it appears another section, the four northern provinces, may be separated from the rest of the country and given some such treatment as Manchuria received. Again the American state department is reported as exercised over the Japanese expansion. Mr. Hull has been singularly discreet and has not followed the impulsive precedent of Mr. Stimson. No doubt Mr. Stimson was quite right, but diplomacy can be wrong when it is right. It is not judged for its intentions, but by its results. What has happened to American interests in Manchuria is not reassuring. Other national interests also have suffered, the most conspicuous case being in oil. American and British companies were unable to compete against the monopoly and closed up shop.

An extension of trade barriers into China proper following the detachment of another area might be a matter of serious concern. Mr. Hull is reported as much concerned. The traditional American policy has worked for the open door in China, but never before has that policy encountered such complications. The United States is really striving to keep its relations with Japan what they ought to be. Impulsive diplomacy will be of no use here and the state department may well study Mr. Stimson's failure before it commits itself to any adventures which might prove to be worse than profitless.

Editorial of the Day

[Kansas City Star.]

One of the inconsistencies of government management is exposed by Frank Carlson, representative in congress from Kansas, in the minority report his congressional committee has made attacking the policy under which arid lands are being reclaimed to agriculture while, at the same time, farmers elsewhere are being paid to curtail production on arable lands.

For twenty-five years the department of the interior has been spending federal money to construct dams to conserve water for use in irrigating land that was desert waste, making it productive of added food supplies. Need for work relief projects has added greatly to such spending.

In the meantime, the department of agriculture, faced with an overproduction of foodstuffs, has sought to limit acreage and production and to take out of cultivation great tracts of so-called marginal lands. All through this natural wheat and corn area there is idle land, made idle by a government policy of paying farmers not to farm.

Farmers in this agricultural area have been contributing funds as taxes for a generation to pay for reclamation projects which, on completion, put their products into competitive markets, beating down prices through surpluses.

The answer to Representative Carlson, when the administration gets around to it, probably will be that the department of agriculture will remove from competition, through the purchase of marginal lands, areas of comparable production. That will be fine, if and when the government does it. It would be the only possible excuse, under existing conditions, for reclaiming land nature had made desert.

Even then it would not solve the problem of surpluses. The country has been led to believe in the last two years that there is too much land capable of producing foodstuffs; that with the restriction of foreign markets, America must look more and more to domestic consumption. Yet with the scope of markets narrowing, with surpluses piling up at home and with farmers being paid for not farming, the reclamation projects continue.

To people reared in communities where one may go around the next corner, sit down and talk with a neighbor and correct an apparent wrong, it would seem simple to bring these two departments at Washington together and work out a coördinated plan. Otherwise the farmer in this area will continue to accept pay for raising less and contribute a part of it for reclamation projects that will compete with him in the markets. And that doesn't sound like sense.

AN ARMY LIEUTENANT is going to be court martialed because a suit for divorce has revealed he was married when he was a cadet at West Point, the rules of that institution requiring that a soldier-student shall not have a "horse, dog, mustache, or wife." Which should make the girls ask congress to do something about it. The idea of a wife being classed with a horse or a dog and, of all things, with a mustache! And, besides, the law ultimately works great harm, for the first thing a cadet does when he gets out of West Point is to buy a polo pony (on installment), get him a Airedale, raise a mustache, and hustle over to the county clerk's for a marriage license. Prohibiting anything just makes a person want 'em more.

"MASTER OF FREE MASON'S LODGE Is Jailed in Germany on the Charge of Sedition."—Headline. All right, Nazis, you may get away with that and you may not, but if you're hunting trouble just run a member of the Kiwanis into one of your old hoosegows and see what happens to you.

AND THE MASTER of the Free Masons that the Hitler boys pinched belonged to a lodge to which Frederick the Great belonged. The Master Free Mason told this himself to the Nazis, which is bad. They'll be ransacking every house, store, factory, barn, garret, and cellar all over Germany now to arrest Frederick the Great. The Nazi cops are extremely active even if not so highly intelligent.

A pillared church upon a treeless hill
Mistakes a nightingale for whip-poor-will;
A measured harrow has the look of yield
Waiting for autumn in a silent field
Deep in old knowledge, though the dream be rare
To the lowly tenant, he with lantern there
Finds seed and thistle and the ancient thirst

Through wild plum thicket, playing Jack and Jill—
Bouquets of children scatter on the hill.
Where bridge and gateway meet the winding road
The bearded Amish and the Mennonite

Deep in the gold of Indiana Dunes
There must be dryads and there must be runes:
Where time is waiting it is they who feed

Cedar and spruce in conscious avalanche
Transcend the landscape with a hawthorn branch;
Old benefits no newer god would ask
Though metaphor is but a sham for speech
And summer language always out of reach,
Where steel and sunset mingle in the west
So strength and beauty challenge in the breast.

COME OUT, New Dealers, Brain Trusters, and Democrats generally. Come up out of your cellars and storm caves. The grass roots cyclone has passed on. But, oh, look! See what that tornado did! It took the roof right off the "New Social Order" and lifted the More Abundant Life right off its foundations and pitched the darned thing clear over into the next county. Gosh!

AND I'LL BET A COOKIE Mr. Farley is walking around among the brain trusters down in Washington with a terrible frown on his face as he demands in irate tones, "Which one of you smart guys was it who forgot about grass roots so we could have had that kind of convention for us Democrats? It was a bad break, and the Republicans beat us to it. Come on, now, you smart guys; which one of you was it forgot to think up grass roots?" And when the guilty brain truster is found out it's going to be just too bad for him, that's all.

SONG FOR JUNE.

Who lie on the hill,
With lips so silent
And arms so still;
All their bright, high passion
Lost in the ground,
Away from sight,
Green lie the fields
In the hot June sun,
All avid for life
As the sweet hours run.
And drunk with the white
Of the lilac tree,
I wait for one
To come to me
Whose lips are not silent
Whose arms are not still. . . .
Oh I weep for the lovers
Who lie on the hill!

YOUNG JAMES ROOSEVELT chides the Grass Rooters for cheering for Abraham Lincoln as the great apostle of state rights. James seems to think that Mr. Lincoln wasn't so awfully strong on state rights; that it was two other fellows, Jeff Davis and Bobby Lee. Well, that's one point of view. Anyhow, Mr. Lincoln thought real well of the Union and the Constitution.

GALL BLADDER DISEASE AND ANGINA PECTORIS.

MOST of us understand that it is often unsafe to identify pain in a particular area of the body with a definite disease. Sometimes this correlation is exact, as, for example, pain that is felt when pressure is applied to the region of the appendix usually means trouble in this vicinity. But pain alone is not enough. We must couple with the symptom considerable additional information in order to arrive at a correct diagnosis. Every physician knows that abdominal pain, particularly in children, may mean pneumonia and not appendicitis, although the location of the pain and the accompanying symptoms may point directly to disease of the appendix.

It is also true that pain in the region of the gall bladder may not indicate gall bladder disease at all. On the contrary it may mean disease of the blood vessels of the heart [coronary disease] or failing heart muscle. Furthermore, the converse is true. Pain that simulates angina pectoris may be due to gall stones or gall bladder infection.

A few weeks ago my attention was called to a patient who was being studied for possible gall bladder disease. The symptoms seemed to indicate trouble in this area. The gall bladder and surrounding structures were found to be normal. An electrocardiogram, however, showed damage of one of the principal blood vessels supplying the heart muscle. The narrowing of this important vessel was the cause of the pain.

Another case was that of a woman, aged 44, who complained of shortness of breath and pain in the region of the heart on the slightest exertion. A reasonable diagnosis was made by her physician, namely, angina pectoris. There was considerable tenderness over the gall bladder area, and an X-ray examination disclosed a greatly enlarged and infected gall bladder. With removal of this organ all the heart symptoms disappeared. Actual cases of both types could be multiplied indefinitly.

There seems to be some relation between gall tract disease and the heart, and there are many instances in which the patient will complain of palpitation, rapid heart, shortness of breath, and other heart symptoms—all of which will completely disappear upon removal of an offending gall bladder. Certain heart symptoms, therefore, must not be viewed as prohibiting surgical attack upon the gall bladder region. On the contrary, such a procedure may be the means of relieving the heart.

An analysis of over 900 cases of gall bladder disease showed that nearly 40 per cent of the patients complained of palpitation, rapid heart, or anginalike pain. It is well known that pain from the liver region may be referred upward into the chest and typify an attack of angina. This study demonstrates also that infection in the liver area, if absorbed into the circulation, may give rise to degeneration of the heart muscle sufficiently extensive to cause symptoms of heart failure.

We must recall that the patient who complains of a simple digestive upset may be suffering from a heart condition. Because of heart weakness the circulation is sluggish in the stomach, the liver, and the intestines, and the blood is unable to leave these organs at a normal rate. Congestion or, as we say, stagnation results in a decided interference with the function of these structures. We frequently find an enlarged liver not because of liver disease but as the result of an excess amount of blood gorging this important organ.

The close relationship between the several parts of the body must be kept in mind. Disease of the heart rarely if ever originates in that organ. It comes from somewhere else. The more information we acquire about pain and its meaning, the further must we trace the symptom in order to find its primary source. It is much like searching for the source of a river with a multitude of lakes, tiny tributaries, and springs to bewilder us.

TINGLING TONGUE.

D. M. K. writes: I was troubled with a tingling tongue for two years and saw several well known physicians both here and in Europe. They did everything they could, but I was not helped. A local doctor at home advised me to use a tongue brush with peroxide, and after using this for about two months the tingling disappeared. I have never been bothered since.

REPLY.

Possibly an infected tongue with enough local irritation to bring on the nerve symptoms you describe. The tongue brush, to remove putrefying food débris, should be used by many persons.

HEADACHES.

Mrs. L. B. writes: For the last year I have been troubled with headaches in the front part of my head. Whenever I stoop over I get dizzy. My tongue is always coated.

REPLY.

Frontal headache may be due to gastro-intestinal upsets, to some sinus difficulty, or possibly to some disease of the brain. Dizziness often accompanies high blood pressure, middle ear disease, or what is known as Meniere's disease. Careful examination to determine the exact cause should be made.

AN AIRPLANE FLIES FASTER LOADED THAN EMPTY
BILL VENN

This is another surprising fact about aviation, that a plane can fly faster with a load than when it is empty. The reason for this lies in the fact that a loaded plane must have a greater lift on each square inch of the wing area, and in order to secure this a greater speed is reached.

INDIANA.

New Castle, Ind., June 8.—The platform of the Democratic party in Indiana pledged economy in our government and the people of the state elected the present administration under the pledge of the party to cut the expenses of government by reducing boards and commissions and officeholders. They have been disappointed. The 1935 legislature created 16 new boards and commissions and the pay rollers have been more than doubled. One of our leading Democratic papers said editorially several times that the state highway police department should be abolished and that no one ever saw a state highway policeman unless it was at a football game or a political rally, but that was all forgotten when the legislature convened and much time was taken in how to appoint more highway cops and how to get rid of Al Feeny, who really was trying to make the department nonpartisan and workable.

It is rather interesting to look into the police setup of Indiana. The state tax board has its host of ferrets and snoopers who run all over the state to tell the assessors how to run their business; the public service commission have their disciples operating in every corner of the state; the gross income sales tax department is burdened with inspectors, investigators and other parasites to threaten us and eat out our substance; and every other department of state, including the state board of education and the state board of health, is likewise operated. The conservation department has its separate police force to tell us how to bait our hook or hold the fishing rod. Every one of these employés is a commissioned police officer who has authority only in his own line of work. In other words, they do not have general police powers. The whole bunch flit here and there on good salaries and expenses paid and I really believe they wear badges so they won't get in each other's way. The new milk control law has its army of officers coming from the czar of milk in Indiana and the alcoholic beverage commission now has its own police department commissioned by the czar of booze.

Why do we have our police departments in our cities and towns, and what do we elect county sherifs for if they are not to police the state is what we want some one to tell us. Instead of advocating the consolidation of townships and counties I want to advocate the consolidation of boards and commissions, bureaus and committees, police departments and inspectors and the abolition of a lot of them. Instead of destroying home rule I want to see it reëstablished. I hope to see the day when I can hit the present setup right in the jaw and hit it hard.

State Representative.

INFERIOR AMERICA.

Chicago, June 9.—I am glad that half of the Sky Ride is down so we only have to hear the other half of it. When you make all this noise about nothing—considering the times in which we live—I would hate to have to hear the noise you would make if Chicago had steel towers such as Europe knew how to build fifty years ago; or hanging sky rides such as one can see over and across bays of southern Europe with steel towers much more separated and with restaurants and even dance halls inside of these towers; or cable railways [funiculars] such as Europeans have to transport people to the very tips of high mountains; or floating cities that cross the Atlantic in little over four days—including our flagship, the S. S. Leviathan, that, of course, was also built in Europe for—like it or not—Europe knows how to do it better, bigger and more majestically whenever she wants to do it.

Surely, traveling Americans have to laugh at the way you picture Chicago things for nontraveling people. You know too well that no important city in Europe would approve the eyesores you call bridges; none of the gas stations, parking lots, dilapidated houses, elevated railway structures, and countless other things in the very heart of Chicago that tell of the little taste and civic pride of its inhabitants and municipal government. Therefore, if you discard your praise chanting horn and use your paper to instill more esthetic and civic pride among builders you will be serving much better our city.

A REVELATION.

Aurora, Ill., June 4.—All doubt has been removed as to President Roosevelt's egotism. Because the Supreme court broke up his little plans for a socialist dictatorship of the proletariat, he wants the constitution changed.

He threatens us with dire predictions of 36 cent wheat and 5 cent cotton. Perhaps he is right; he has succeeded with Commissar Wallace in practically destroying our world cotton and wheat market.

Thanks to the Supreme court, President Roosevelt has been forced into the open where his socialist dictatorship plan is at last bared to the public.

Chicago, June 10.—We voted for park consolidation, believing it would save expense and more could be done for the parks. It does not work that way, not for the little parks. Take the park opposite Lowe avenue from 67th to 69th street. Formerly one and sometimes more men were stationed there. Now there is no one, and the once beautiful small park is all but a ruin.

Chicago, June 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In painting my house I intend to furnish the paint and have a man paint the upper part and I will do the lower part, having the man who paints the upper part do the work for a specified sum. 1. Would that be contract work? 2. In such a case, if the man falls and hurts himself while on the job, could they collect damages from me?

1. Yes, in the sense that it would be done under a contract. Evidently you are attaching some importance to this word beyond its apparent importance to us.

2. On the facts stated, we would incline to the opinion that the employment was casual, so as not to be covered by the compensation act, and it would follow that you would not be liable in absence of proof of negligence on your part.

BRITISH CONSENT TO BIG NAZI NAVY ANGERS FRENCH

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 12.—The possibility that France will demand naval parity with Great Britain and thus automatically with the United States if the British consent to the restoration of the German navy was indicated in semi-official circles here today.

This is the first French reaction to the official communication by the British government on the nature and progress of the London naval conversations. While the full details of the report received from the British foreign office have not yet been revealed, diplomatic observers consider it as substantiating press dispatches from London stating that the British have accepted in principle the German demand for naval rearmament up to 35 per cent of the British strength.

French Perturbed.

This seriously perturbs the French, because they allege it would give the German navy actual superiority over the French in European waters. The French position is that if the British are silly enough to compromise their position as rulers of the sea it is their own lookout, but that they have no right to free Germany from the Versailles chains at France's expense.

Just what the French expect to do about it is not clear. After Minister of the Navy Francois Pietri and Premier Pierre Laval have conferred over the British memorandum it is believed that France will send the note to all signatories of the Washington treaty redefining her naval policy in the light of German rearmament.

In this note France would protest strongly against the revision of the multilateral treaties by bilateral agreements, and propose a new naval conference, including Germany this time, to revise the Washington and London ratios all around.

Renew Nazi-British Talk Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—Joachim von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's special representative, will return to London tomorrow from Berlin and resume Friday the naval conversations with the British.

Should the Anglo-German talks result, as seems possible, in an agreement for a German fleet 35 per cent the size of the British according to categories, Germany would be free to build more than 200,000 tons of new ships. The existing fleet totals 187,586 tons.

U. S. Hopes for Agreement.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—The hope of the United States that the British-German naval conservations in London would lay the foundation for a general reduction of naval armaments was voiced today by William Phillips, undersecretary of state.

Phillips issued a formal statement announcing the United States had informed the British government of its hope. He said:

"The American government indicated that it was sincerely hopeful that the results of these preliminary conversations might lead to a common viewpoint among the leading European naval powers as to a mutually acceptable proportional standard for their fleets, and that this in turn would contribute to a general agreement between the principal naval powers for a future limitation and reduction of naval armaments in line with the principles of the Washington and London treaties."

Phillips said no steps had been taken for the calling of a general naval conference.

CALLES WARNS CARDENAS; CRISIS SEEN IN MEXICO

MEXICO, CITY, June 12—(AP)—A potentially serious political situation was developing tonight as an aftermath of the declarations of former President Plutarco Elias Calles strongly criticizing political and economic conditions in Mexico.

Speculation in political circles centered about the nature of the reply, if any, that may be made by President Lazaro Cardenas to statements of the "strong man" recalling the developments that led up to the resignation of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio three years ago.

While repeatedly emphasizing he was friendly with Cardenas, Calles told the press an effort to divide the congress into "Cardenistas" and "Callistas" was being made and issued a reminder of what happened to Ortiz Rubio when the same thing took place.

It was reported but not confirmed that Ignacio Garcia Tellez, secretary of education; Gen. Francisco J. Mujica, secretary of national economy, and Silvano Barba Gonzales, chief of the department of labor, had resigned.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 12.—Every German girl who attends a "woman's school" must serve three weeks with a family which has a new born baby or in a hospital for babies, and another three weeks with a family with many children.

Professional schools for women, which formerly played a big part in the life of German women, have been reorganized by order of Bernhard Rust, minister of culture, to include the above compulsory services. The schools will be converted into plain "women's schools in which the girls will be brought up to be mothers and housekeepers."

Race, the national soil, the mission of people of Germanic blood and Nordic culture are included in the curriculum. In music, the emphasis will be placed on "cradle songs, children's songs, spinning songs and mother tunes," according to the program published today.

Meanwhile, more than 100 workers, their foreman and the plant director of the Germania bakery were arrested in Duisburg today and charged with tolerating unhygienic and "unbelievably dirty conditions in their plant." The bakery is the biggest in the district. Most of those arrested are Catholics.

The workers and the director of the plant had several conflicts with the local secret police, who charged them with not listening to the speeches of Nazi chieftains broadcast for their benefit, and for "failing to understand National Socialist principles."

The official Nazi papers declare that the plant will "resume work under the leadership of a tried National Socialist director."

Communist Torgler Released.

BERLIN, June 12.—(AP)—Ernst Torgler, former Communist leader in the reichstag, who has been in jail since his acquittal in 1933 in the celebrated reichstag fire trial, has been given his liberty, it was disclosed tonight.

Strict secrecy surrounded the release of Torgler, whose case had aroused world-wide attention.

It was understood he promised not to reside within the city limits of Berlin and has settled with his family in a quiet spot about thirty miles from the capital.

The 44 year old Torgler surrendered voluntarily to police shortly after an apparently incendiary fire ruined much of the German parliament building Feb. 27, 1933. Torgler, Marinus Van Der Lubbe, Dutch brick mason, and three Bulgarian refugees, Georgi Dimitroff, Blagoi Popoff, and Wassil Taneff, were brought to trial. All were acquitted save Van Der Lubbe, who was later beheaded.

LITTLE FLOWER GIRL KNOWS HER SAILORS; GOBS KNOW IT NOW

San Diego, Cal., June 12.—[Special.]—Shifting nervously on its collective feet a crowd of nearly 500 sailors from the United States fleet waited outside the west entrance to the exposition grounds here today and scanned the turnstiles for an expected somebody.

"Gotta date buddy?" asked one gob to another.

Actress Who Died in Plunge Will Be Buried Today

Hollywood, Cal., June 12.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at St. Mary's of the Angel Episcopal church for Miss Pepi Lederer, 25, who died Monday in a plunge from the sixth floor of Good Samaritan hospital. Miss Lederer, who is a niece of Marion Davies and the daughter of George W. Lederer, New York theatrical man, played small parts on the stage and screen.

A. G. Arvold Is Elected as Outer Guard by Shriners

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Leonard P. Steuart of Washington, D. C., was advanced to imperial potentate of the Shrine, in the sixty-first annual conclave here today. A. G. Arvold of El Zagal temple, Fargo, N. D., was elected for the coveted imperial outer guard position. Seattle, Wash., was chosen for the 1936 conclave to be held July 14, 15, and 16.

DANZIG NAZI HEAD SWEARS TO OBEY LEAGUE IN CRISIS

Fires 600 to Cut Budget, Save Currency.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 12.—(AP)—Danzig's currency apparently was saved from disappearance today for the time being, but how and under what conditions remained a secret of the Nazi government.

The gulden will remain and there will be no more devaluation "unless the population fails to obey the government's exchange restrictions," announced President Greiser of the senate to a special session of the volkstag.

Swears Fidelity to League.

He read a number of budget slicing decrees entailing the dismissal of 100 school teachers and 500 functionaries. Greiser then astounded his listeners with an unprecedented step for Nazis by swearing fidelity to the league of nations and Sean Lester, league commissioner, and announced the government henceforth would faithfully carry out the league's guarantee constitution and obey league dictums.

Destruction of this constitution has been a Nazi object since they came into power in 1933.

Turning to Poland, Greiser predicted Polish-Danzig relations would become better and better. Whether this indicated negotiations for Polish money are still continuing and the Nazis wanted to please the Poles, or whether they have been completed and the public is being prepared for a shock, was not clear.

Denies Polish Domination.

He denied, however, Poland had in any way obtained a political stranglehold, but went no further into how the financial problem was solved.

The arrival here of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, at the special request of Adolf Hitler, was connected with the whole situation, but again official secrecy made it uncertain whether he had conceded a last minute grant to a Danzig bank or whether he came to help local Nazis over their toughest governmental crisis.

In addition to the dismissal of functionaries salaries of higher officials are to be cut and all German citizens drawing pensions from the reich must return to Germany.

BISHOP RALLIES YOUTH TO IDEAS OF CONSTITUTION

An appeal for preservation of the constitution as the continuing guarantee of opportunity for youth was made yesterday by the Most Rev. William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, at the 37th annual convocation of De Paul university. Degrees were conferred on 536 students by Rev. Francis V. Corcoran, president of the university.

Blaming the drift from prosperity on "those who thought they were sufficient unto themselves" and to "too much experimentation," Bishop O'Brien called for youth's support of "splendid ideas that were written, and written indelibly, into the constitution."

Crossroads of U. S. History.

"We are living at a time when a great many people do not accept God," he said. "We are living in a period of chastisement. In the last few weeks the country has come to a crossroads of its history. You cannot reach the zenith of your powers without faith in God, in the traditions and constitution of this country, and in service."

Loyola university's 65th graduating class of 733 students, to whom degrees and certificates were awarded last night in the Loyola stadium, were addressed by Rev. John W. Hynes, S. J., president of Loyola university of New Orleans, La.

"America stands today at the crossroads of extreme capitalism and extreme communism," the speaker declared. "The great body of American citizens are hesitant, doubtful, but sane. You are accepting your responsibility of laying the foundations for a middle road, of making it broad and smooth and safe, so that all men may travel it in amity, harmony, and good fellowship."

Mother of Ten Gets Degree.

President Samuel Knox Wilson, S. J., of the university, presented the degrees. Of the graduates, 506 were from the Chicago area. Oldest of them is Mrs. Mary V. Donlon, 54 year old mother of ten children, who lives at 3056 Palmer square.

Seventy-seven girls were given degrees by Mundelein college yesterday also, Bishop O'Brien making the presentation. Commencement exercises for the first graduating class of Little Company of Mary school of nurses were held in the afternoon in the auditorium of De Paul university.

Northwestern university's law school will hold its annual alumni reunion and class day exercises today.

Alumni will meet at 10 a. m. today in Levy Mayer hall on McKinlock campus and the exercises will be held at 3 p. m. in Lincoln hall, followed by the installation of members into the Order of the Coif, national scholarship fraternity. Yesterday the dental school held its annual homecoming clinics for alumni and the annual senior-alumni dance was held at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Other Exercises Tomorrow.

Commencement exercises will reach their height tomorrow on the Northwestern university campus with the dedication of a new flag pole in the morning, baccalaureate services tomorrow night in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston, and the annual "illumination night" festivities. Commencement exercises will be held late Saturday afternoon at Dyche stadium.

Victim of 2 Robbers Dies Following Beating

Walter Gill, 22 years old, who lived in the Catholic Youth Organization home at 2044 South Michigan avenue, died in the Mercy hospital yesterday a few hours after he had been beaten by two colored robbers in 30th street near La Salle street. The robbers struck and kicked Gill after he told them he had no money.

STEER A COURSE FOR DEMOCRACY, GRADUATES TOLD

"We have nothing to gain and everything to lose by turning either to the right or left from our present form of democratic government," Rabbi Louis L. Mann of the Sinai temple told 307 high school graduates last night at the Hirsch High school commencement in the Hyde Park High school auditorium.

"Fascism debases itself by the ruthlessness of regimentation without freedom of press, assembly or speech," said Dr. Mann. "Either Fascism or communism would be a curse for America. Democracy is still the hope of the world."

Commencement exercises were held last night at Hirsch, Bowen, Foreman, Spalding branch, and Tilden [two year courses] high schools.

Mayor Kelly is scheduled to make the commencement address at Lane Technical High school tonight. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, will talk at the Sullivan High school exercises. Other schools holding commencement programs today or tonight are: Wright, South Side and Medill Junior colleges; Austin, Calumet, Crane, Englewood, Farragut, Fenger, Flower, Harper, Harrison, Hyde Park, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Lake View, Lindblom, Manley, Marshall, McKinley, Medill, Morgan Park, Phillips, Roosevelt, Senn, Steinmetz, Sullivan, Tilden, Tuley, Von Steuben, and Waller.

COMPLETE JURY FOR DEATH PLOT TRIAL OF WOMAN

Rockville, Md., June 12.—(AP)—The jury which will try Mrs. Annie Lyddane on charges of conspiracy to murder was selected late today, after the regular jury panel was long exhausted and bailifs scoured the streets for additional talismen.

The state charges Mrs. Lyddane entered into negotiations with four men and made a down payment for the killing of her husband and Mrs. Josephine Beall.

The trial of John Martin Boland, first of the defendants, which was concluded yesterday, had its repercussions today when contempt citations were issued against four employés of the Washington Herald, and the American Newspapers, Inc.

The citations grew out of a story carried by the Herald this morning stating that the three judges who heard the case had found Boland guilty. The judges had announced they had reached a decision, but would not hand it down until the other cases were concluded.

672 ROCKFORD HIGH GRADUATES.

Rockford, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Diplomas will be presented to 672 Rockford senior high school graduates at commencement exercises Friday morning.

Mother Graduates

Omaha, Neb., June 12.—John J. Wilters of Omaha, and Charles Wilters of Milwaukee, 85 year old twins who think they may be "about the oldest twins in America," held their annual reunion here today. They were born in Germany and both left home at the age of 14, later serving in the British merchant marine. Charles settled in Milwaukee in 1872 and was a city fireman for 37 years before being pensioned. John, before coming to Omaha to live with a married daughter, farmed near Lemars, Iowa.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Julius Griecco, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Roland Alexander, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; George Banbow, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Henry Kanya, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

Neal Rosenholm, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge William V. Brothers.

Three union officials on trial before a jury in Judge Cornelius Harrington's Criminal court on charges of attempting to extort $10,000 from the owners of the French Casino took the witness stand yesterday in their own behalf and denied the charges. Under questioning by Defense Attorneys Harold Levy and Abe Morowitz two of the defendants, George McLean, international vice president of the bartenders' union, and Max Caldwell, business agent of the waiters' union, admitted they called a strike, but said it was for legitimate reasons.

William Brooks, business agent for the Stationary Engineers' union, the third defendant, told the jury under questioning by Attorney James M. Burke, that he was just an innocent bystander.

1935 MARRIAGES KEEP PACE WITH THOSE LAST YEAR

Cook county entered June, the marrying month, on about even terms with 1934 so far as marriage licenses were concerned, according to records made public yesterday by Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage license bureau.

In the first five months of this year 14,779 licenses to wed were issued, Summerfield said. This was 233 less than the total of 15,012 for the same period last year. The year 1934, he asserted, was the first normal year for the marriage license bureau since 1929.

Divorces for the first five months this year increased over 1934, although the number of such cases filed decreased, according to the records of John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, and of Frank V. Zintak, clerk of the Superior court. A total of 4,360 divorce suits were filed in the two courts and 3,862 were granted.

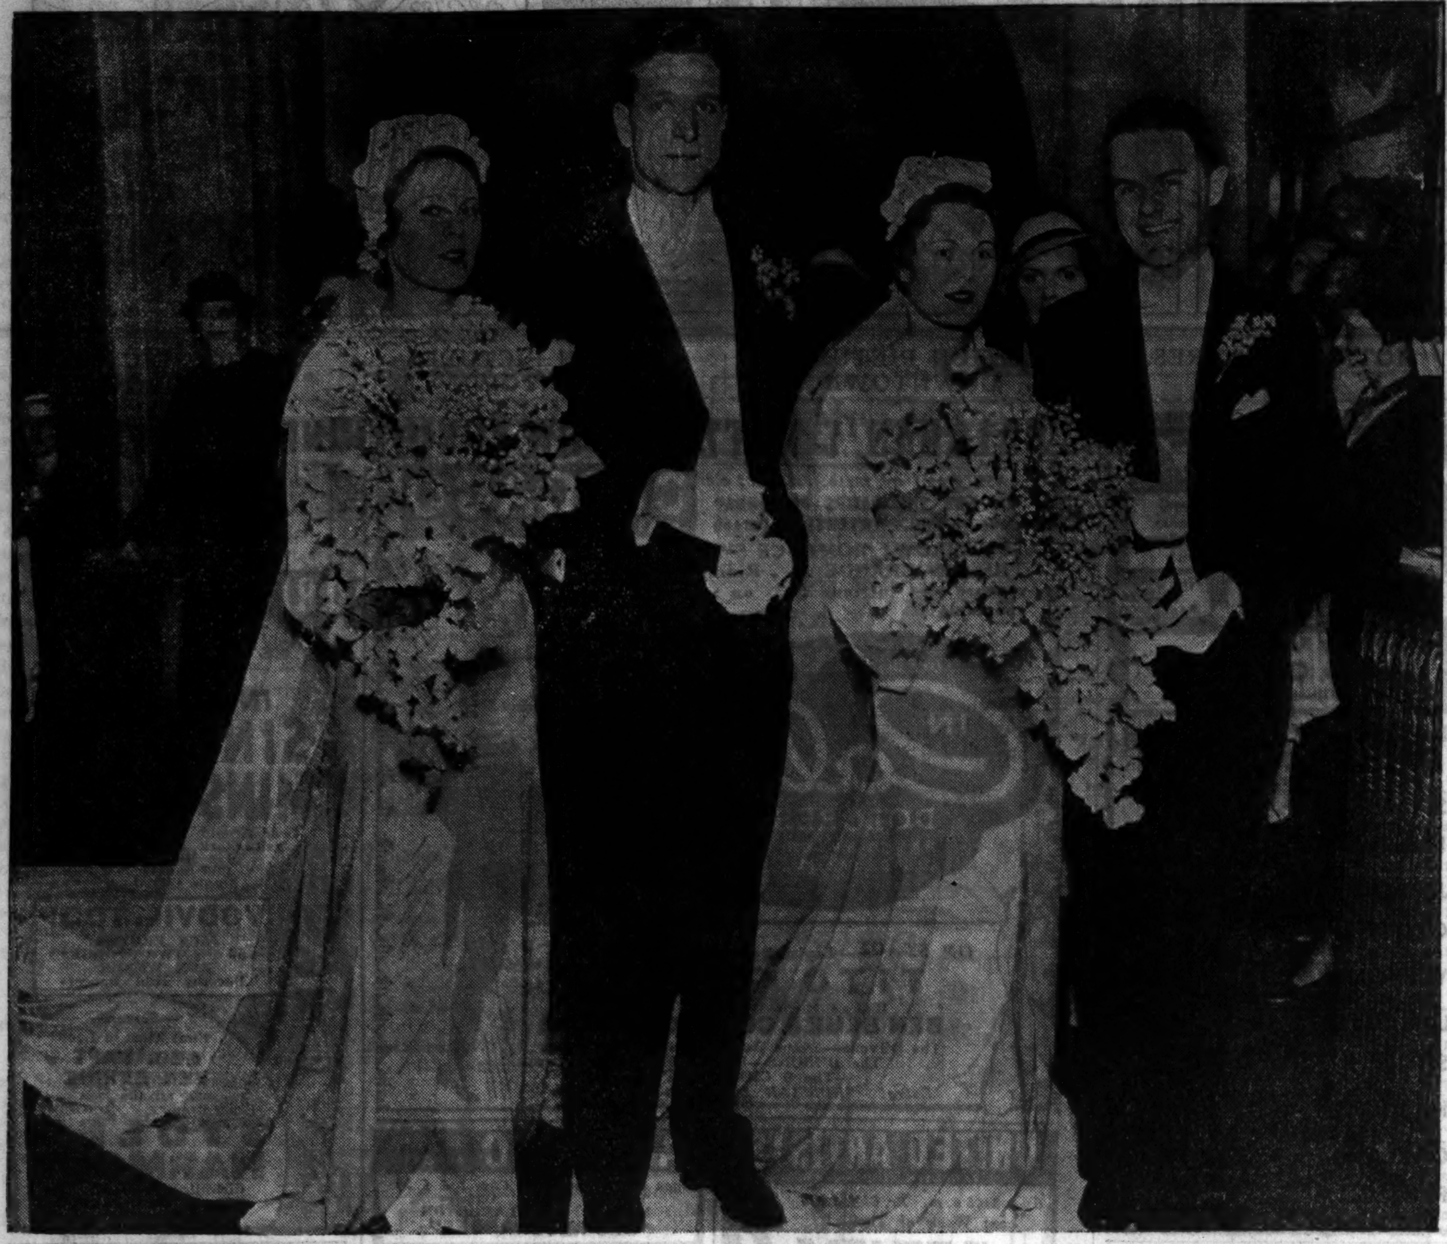
Dodd Twins Married at Beautiful Ceremony



Mrs. David Brown Richardson (Lois Dodd), Mr. Richardson (left), Mrs. Harris Bradbury Burrows III. (Helen Dodd), and Mr. Burrows at St. Paul's church.

Dodd Sisters Wed at Double Church Rites

A wedding ceremony as beautiful as it was unusual took place in St. Paul's church at 8:30 o'clock last night when Helen and Lois Dodd, the lovely twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Dodd, became brides.

In a service double in every detail, with the Rev. Donald W. Crawford repeating each vow twice, Helen was married to Harris Bradbury Burrows III., son of Mrs. Harris B. Burrows Jr. of Cleveland, and Lois was married to David Brown Richardson, son of Judge and Mrs. David Arthur Richardson of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The chancel was banked with cybodium fern, white peonies, stock and madonna lilies, with tall white tapers forming the only source of illumination.

The twins, blonde and charming, wore tight fitting gowns of ivory satin, buttoned snugly down to the hips, where they swirled into a redingote effect and a long train. Berthas of rose point framed their faces. Their veils were of Brussels lace, held in place by tiaras of rosepoint. Each carried a bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley and white sweet peas.

Lois came to the altar on the arm of her father, while Helen was given away by her brother Donald. Preceding them to the altar were their intimate friends, Mrs. Justin Dart and Mrs. Walter Scott Trude Jr., who were their only attendants.

Crawford Bennett of Oklahoma City, Walter Scott Trude Jr., Henry L. McIntyre, Justin Dart, James Miller, and Stewart Brown, the latter both of Cleveland, were ushers.

Mrs. Dodd, mother of the twins, wore platinum gray lace with tangerine velvet. Mrs. Burrows wore dusty pink lace. Mrs. Richardson wore Eleanor blue. All were hatless.

Many out of town guests viewed the ceremony. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Callaway of Fowler, Ind., and Mrs. George William Farrar of Ottawa, Ill.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Makinney of 7351 Euclid avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jane, to John Kyle Anderson on June 11 in Chicago.

Mrs. James Arthur Martin of Evanston announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances, to Robert Lindsay Woodcock Jr. on May 29.

Miss Phyllis Mahrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mahrick, 5608 Milwaukee avenue, will be married Saturday to Joseph Thennes. The wedding will be followed by a breakfast at the Orrington hotel in Evanston.

Grace Moore Sets Record for Curtain Calls in London

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Grace Moore, Tennessee born singer, scored a sensation tonight as Mimi in "La Boheme" before a glittering audience of London's fashionables and galleries packed with loyal film fans.

She took 15 curtain calls after the final act, which was believed to be a modern record for historic Covent Garden hall.

Queen Mary, who seemed deeply moved by the final death scene, started to leave after the second curtain call, but came back and applauded the American for the third time. As Miss Moore curtsied low the queen bowed and smiled at her.

During intermission Miss Moore's Spanish husband, Valentine Parara, said she had been offered a contract by the Metropolitan in New York for the next season, but "unfortunately the Metropolitan is not paying much money these days."

An attack of catarrh that caused King George's doctors to order two weeks' rest for him kept him from hearing what is understood to be his favorite opera, but other members of the royal family occupied two boxes

Pastel Tinted Hose Startles Style World

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They may start a riot, but pastel tinted hosiery provide the newest excitement in town. They are exquisitely sheer, two thread, and therefore just a film of color. You wear them with dead white outfits, white silk suits, white ensembles of simple dress and jacket with belt or scarf or trimming matched to the hose worn with white footwear. You'll find a light powder blue, a clear yellow, a very pale lettuce green, a misty pearl gray, and two shades of rosy coral suntan.

The pearl gray tone would be effective with all the romantic pearl gray chiffon dance dresses, the gray linen suits and one piece dresses and with silvery gray silk evening gowns, and also a perfect color with silver slippers.

The rose suntan shades are lovely for evening with flowered chiffons, with midnight blue or inky black chiffons and nets. The tanned shades are good for street and spectator sports clothes in white and high colors.

If you are tired of the usual hosiery shades and yern to startle the bystanders, this is your chance. You'll have to see them to appreciate their filmy perfection and gloat over the very moderate price mark.

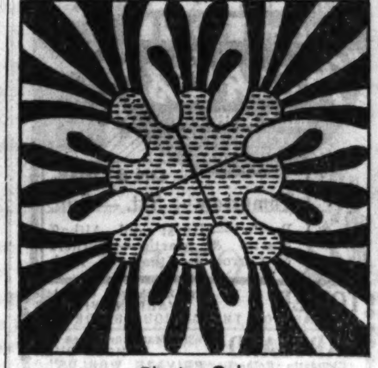
Quilt Block Is Example of Free Hand Designing



Charter Oak.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Much of the applique quilt work done a hundred years ago was the result of free hand cutting. "Charter Oak" is a perfect example of this designing, and it is an exceptionally beautiful block especially when appliqued in green and gold on a white ground. This is one of two popular patches of the same name. The block shown today measures 14 inches square when completed. Fifteen applique squares are combined with 15 plain ones for an entire quilt.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Academy Class Will Re-enact Program of '74

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR 61 years John V. Farwell has kept the program of the commencement exercises at the Lake Forest academy in 1874, for he was a member of that graduating class. Not long ago he gave it to the academy and as a consequence one of the interesting features of this year's commencement events will be a reënactment Saturday afternoon in which this year's graduates will impersonate those of 1874 and will give, just as seriously as did those lads of more than half a century ago, a program that is certain to be humorous today.

Young boys had more time for preparing original essays in Latin, Greek, German, or French in those movieless days, and for three days the exercises went on. Saturday's skit will last but an hour, however, and will start at 3:30 o'clock. John McWilliams III. of Pasadena will take the part of Illinois' lieutenant governor of 1874, William Bross, and will give an address similar to the one Mr. Bross gave to the academy graduates of that year.

The program of events of this year's commencement exercises, the 77th, will start tomorrow night with a dance and will end Sunday with a luncheon in the gymnasium. The graduation exercises will be held Sunday morning with Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., delivering the commencement address.

One of the principal parties of the many for Miss Katrina McCormick and Courtlandt Dixon Barnes Jr., who are to be married Saturday afternoon in Washington, will be a dinner that the bride's godmother, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, will give tonight at her Washington residence in Massachusetts avenue. The entire bridal party—there are 16 in it—and those of the out of town contingent who already are in the capital city for the wedding will be Mrs. Longworth's guests.

After dinner Mrs. Longworth and her guests will go to Mrs. James Freeman Curtis' fashionable club to dance. Mrs. Curtis, well known as one of Washington's most popular hostesses, now presides as hostess in the club which until recently was her home. Incidentally, it is one of the finest and most historic residences in the capital.

Tomorrow night the bride's mother, Mrs. Albert Gallatin Simms, and Mr. Simms will give a dinner and dance for Miss McCormick and Mr. Barnes at their Georgetown home, where the wedding reception will be held Saturday. Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick are among the Chicagoans who will be in Washington for the wedding. The bride is their niece, her father, the late United States Senator Medill McCormick, having been Col. McCormick's only brother.

Many Entertain for Two Brides.

The last few days of this week are busy ones for Jane Ripley and Katherine Street, both of whom will become brides on Saturday afternoon. Both ceremonies will occur at 4:30 and both prospective brides will be fêted right up to the nuptial moment.

Miss Ripley, who will be married to John Carroll McGuinn at 4:30 in the Holy Name cathedral by the Rev. Joseph Phelan, who baptized her, held

THE following letter probably explains why case workers have to be pretty intelligent before they get jobs with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. It was sent to the medical department, southwest district, Cook county bureau of public welfare, from a client who inclosed a prescription the doctor had left. According to Dorothy Lee's translation he is complaining about the fact that his grocery order was too small and his flat not rented. He says he hasn't any kind of income, that his wife is sick, and he wants Mr. Murphy to look over his case. With that as a starter perhaps you can make it out:

A SMALL distraught woman boarded a street car in front of the county hospital, wandered up front, and stood hanging to a strap, apparently too upset to observe there were plenty of empty seats. A drunk sprawled on an otherwise empty seat heard her sobbing, finally got to his unsteady legs and reached her side.

"Lady," he said, weaving perilously, "please take my seat."

As she sat down, completely surrounded by empty seats, he drew himself up with pride and addressed the empty rows: "Whassa matter with you guys? Couldn't any of you give a lady a seat?" he growled.

THE REV. ALBERT BUCKNER COE of the First Congregational church in Oak Park was addressing the children of the Sunday school who were gathered, after the usual Sunday morning procedure, about the baptismal font. One little fellow was very eager to talk and he chattered gaily.

"I am going to tell you a story about two little bears," Dr. Coe began.

Elbow Beauty

The latest whimsy of one of our greatest beauty specialists is, of all things, little protective girdle affairs that you snap around your creamed elbows before you tumble into bed. It sounds a little bit on the nutty side at first—but when you reflect on how nearly all our elbows need prayerful attention maybe it isn't just whimsy.

And there's this much about the idea. When women have beauty aids at hand they serve as beauty reminders. Any woman with ageing elbows as dark and wrinkled as prunes who makes the small investment required to own a pair of these elbow girdles is bound to give her elbows attention every night. She'll reach for her tissue cream, or perhaps a bleach cream, and do some systematic massaging. Then she can snap on the soft pink little pads and sleep the easy sleep of the woman who knows she's doing a good beauty deed and isn't smearing up the bed while she's at it.

The little pads are washable, which is an added virtue. You can coat the elbows with as much cream as you like and because the pads fit snugly, being held on the inner side with two elastic bands there's no danger of cream getting near either bed linen or night dress.

Naturally the maker of these pads thought of a cream before she thought of the pads. She has a cream that's simply great for elbows—another thing for you to think about if you'll be going in for sleeveless frocks this summer. It softens and bleaches the rough dark skin.

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sherif of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. Pietro Sanchez runs the general store of the Big Sur valley. While calling there Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a run-in with Ramon. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting expedition. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega, hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his help, and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch.

INSTALMENT IV.

LION HUNTER'S CAMP.

Chris tethered Bingo and the pack horse in a grassy spot by the creek and picked up his rifle. "How about foraging for some real supper before we take on any detective work?"

Giving a peremptory whistle, Chris started up the creek bed, pretending to take it for granted that the dogs would follow, but watching keenly out of the corners of his eyes to see if he had won them over yet or not.

After a moment's hesitation Tom gave a short bark and started after him, with Jerry following close behind.

Seeming not to notice, but with a chuckle of satisfaction at the success of his tactics, Chris made his way over the slippery moss covered stones, avoiding the pools that were left by the thin trickle of water, and climbing up on the bank to skirt the occasional bowlders that blocked his way.

He had just leaped back to the creek bed from one of these detours when a low growl from Jerry pulled him up short.

Motioning the dogs to heel, he stood still, straining his ears for any unusual sound, but the silence was unbroken except by the distant roar of the ocean and the low murmur of the wind through the redwoods.

"You've got to be smarter than that," he warned reprovingly, as he started up again. "No false alarms allowed."

After proceeding another hundred yards or so there was a second growl from Jerry, mingled with a sharp bark from Tom.

Following the direction of their gaze Chris looked up at the bank. He could see nothing but the steep mahogany colored slope with its thick covering of redwood needles, and the stately redwoods themselves, standing in serried ranks, broken here and there by a glossy leafed madrona tree.

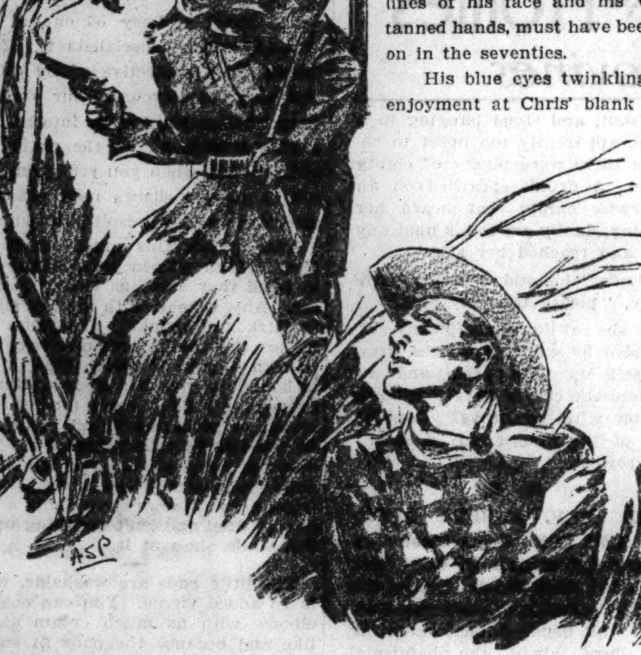
Turning back to the dogs with a still sharper reprimand, Chris broke off short and whirled round again, as a strong drawling voice chimed in with—

"Don't blame the dogs, mister; I reckon they're got better ears than you have."

Standing beside one of the trees on the bank, which he had evidently used as a shield before, was one of the most striking figures Chris had ever seen.

An old man with a shock of curly white hair and very bright blue eyes was laughing at him silently, like an Indian. He stood straight as an arrow, a magnificent figure, without an extra ounce of flesh. His six feet and more of height indicated an astonishing vigor for his years, which, judging from the lines of his face and his veined, tanned hands, must have been well on in the seventies.

His blue eyes twinkling with enjoyment at Chris' blank astonishment, he waited for him to speak with an immobility that again reminded Chris of an Indian.



Suddenly the watchful silence was broken by a shot!

"Where in hell did you come from?"

As he asked the question Chris glanced up the steep slope that rose perpendicularly behind this surprising apparition. It would have been impossible to scramble down that without giving a warning of his approach; and he could obviously not have come toward him down the creek bed without having been seen.

Once more the stranger gave his silent laugh, his shoulders shaking in true Indian fashion.

Chris noted the strangely tutored quality of his slow drawl. It seemed to match a certain aristocratic bearing about him that persisted in spite of his shabby hunting clothes and the worn moccasins on his feet.

Even as Chris watched him he stepped suddenly behind the tree that had sheltered him before, disappearing completely, and without the slightest sound to indicate any movement. A moment later he reappeared and made for the next tree with a gliding, swinging stride that was utterly noiseless.

"It's easy enough to trail any one when you know how." He came to a halt and looked back at Chris, his eyes shrewdly narrowed as he glanced from him to the dogs. "It's kind of early for a hunting trip."

There was a world of hidden meaning in this statement of fact, but Chris chose to ignore it.

"You seem to be equipped for hunting yourself," he observed, glancing significantly at the rifle that was slung across the stranger's shoulders.

"I'm always equipped for hunting," he answered, "but never for a hunting trip."

Again he watched Chris with his alert immobility. His figure seemed as still and rooted to the ground as the trees surrounding him, but his blue eyes were all the more alive, by contrast, as they studied Chris with a keen appraisal.

Deciding to play the stranger's own game of silent waiting, Chris returned his gaze and waited for his next move. The dogs stirred restlessly at his heels, but he motioned them to keep quiet.

He had a strong desire to pass the inspection he was being subjected to and have a chance to know more of this strange old man. He had something of the quality of a stag or some other shy wild animal that would vanish at the slightest false move.

Quicker than the eye could see, the old man pulled a gun and his shot rang out like the echo of the first one, it followed so immediately upon it. A cry of pain from among the redwoods farther up the canyon and a crashing of brush testified to the accuracy of his aim.

He waited a moment, listening intently, then with the observation, "He's vamoosed," he leaped down the bank and with quick springing strides came over to Chris.

"Nothing but a scratch," Chris glanced indignantly at the blood on the hand that he had instinctively clapped over his arm. "I must say you have a hospitable crowd down here!" He pulled out his handkerchief and the old man helped him tie it around his arm.

"That was intended for a warning," he said finally, after he had deftly bandaged the slight wound. "An Alvado does not miss from that distance except by intention. He evidently did not see me, or he would have waited." he added, with satisfaction. "He will not be using his right arm for some time."

"An Alvado!" Chris exclaimed. "How do you know it was one of the Alvados? And why should he shoot without provocation?"

"I know, because I saw him. My eyes are much older than yours, but they can see farther. As for provocation, being a stranger down here is all the provocation that is needed. If you are wise you will take the warning and hunt elsewhere."

For a moment Chris seemed to ponder this advice, which so exactly matched that of Pietro Sanchez, then he stubbornly shook his head.

"It takes more than that to turn me away from an undertaking," he declared.

"Is a hunting trip then so important?"

For a moment Chris had an impulse to tell this strange old man the whole story of why he was there, but he checked it. Bill Benton had warned him about taking any one but Pietro Sanchez into his confidence.

Chris was abruptly pulled back from his thoughts by the sudden realization that his companion was laughing again, with his queer, silent laughter.

"Have it your own way, son," he drawled finally, "but how about coming back to my camp for supper? I've got some good venison just waiting to be eaten."

"Sure I'll come." Chris gladly snatched at this chance to find out more about his strange host. "Where are you camped?"

Home Church Seeks Return of Clark Gable

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 12.—[Special.]—The 30 year old preacher from Hopedale, O., who came out here representing the prayers of a small town Methodist Episcopal congregation to talk to, reclaim, and inspire Clark Gable to a more religious future, was still trailing the movies' best known combination he-man and lady's heart flutterer today. The star is untalked to and unreclaimed.

Arriving in Hollywood last week, the Rev. Mr. Samuel J. Williams encountered difficulties well known to local tradesmen and autograph seekers in being unable to find somebody who would tell him Gable's secret telephone number.

Gable's studio was unappreciative of the lanky and earnest young theologian's mission and no contact was volunteered there. Before the home missionary from Hopedale had penetrated deeply into any of Hollywood's circles, Gable, who [in the opinion of his many friends, many acquaintances and still more numerous Hollywood well wishers from afar] had seemed in no special need of regeneration at this time, had gone to Catalina Island to perform the high-spot rôle of Fletcher Christian, the sincere mutineer in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Confiding to others that his special mission concerned Gable rather than all of Hollywood, the Rev. Mr. Williams bought a ticket for Catalina. He said: "I expect to stay here until I see Clark Gable. Too many folks home are praying for the success of my mission. I do not anticipate failure. We wish to save Clark Gable's life for Christ and righteousness, winning it from motion pictures because he still is an active member of the Hopedale church." The women of his congregation, the preacher said, want Gable to turn evangelist.

"Of course there is little hope for many others in Hollywood," Mr. Williams said.

The expectation here is that the earnest young preacher probably will see more of the glass bottom boats at Catalina than he will of Gable. The latter's studio considers that Gable has a mission of his own: To gladden moviegoers all over the world.

Pert Kelton, movie comedienne, has plans to sing in grand opera next autumn. She is a coloratura soprano and sings in Italian, French, and German. She was a professional singer before entering movies and has been under the voice training of Jeannette Hughman here for a year.

John Warburton and Mrs. Lucille Morrison, wealthy divorcée, are to marry in August, according to Warburton.

Good Morning!

her parties in leash until Tuesday, when Mr. McGuinn arrived from San Francisco. That afternoon four of the ushers, A. Bradley Eben, Joseph Griffen, Edward Lawler Jr., and Richard Dooley, gave a cocktail party at the Edgewater Beach hotel, followed at 8:30 by a dinner at which Miss Lillian Fraser was hostess.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smythe entertained for the couple at cocktails, followed by a dinner at the Palmer house at which Edward Finnegan was host.

Today Miss Lura Schreiner will give a cocktail party at her home on Scott street, and tonight John L. Nelson will entertain at dinner at the Edgewater Beach. Rehersal will be at 5 o'clock tomorrow at the cathedral, but due to the fact that it is the birthday of the maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Kellogg, Mrs. Ripley has waived rights to the bridal dinner to allow Miss Kellogg to hold a double celebration at her parents' home at 1420 Lake Shore drive.

Saturday at 8:30 the bridal party will go to high mass in the chapel of the Holy Name cathedral, returning to Mrs. Ripley's home for a quiet breakfast.

Among the out of town wedding guests will be J. Henry Smith Jr. of Grosse Point, Mich., nephew of Mrs. Ripley, and his fiancée, Miss Marion Blakelee of Grosse Point, who will meet her relatives-to-be for the first time.

Gives Luncheon for Miss Street.

Miss Street's fiancé, James Reid Shannon, also arrived Tuesday, but from Denver, bringing his sister, Virginia, who will be a bridesmaid, with him. The first party for the couple was a luncheon yesterday by Mrs. John Merriman at her Evanston home.

Today Mrs. Edward F. Rogers will entertain at luncheon at the Indian Hill Country club in Winnetka for the bridal party. After luncheon the men will play golf and the girls will swim in the pool. This afternoon Mrs. Thomas Knorr, Miss Street's sister, who will be her matron of honor, and her husband will entertain at a cocktail party at their apartment at 1340 North Dearborn street. Tonight the bridal party will be the guests of Mrs. Arthur Garrett and Mrs. Garrett Conway, together with their daughters, Barbara Garrett and Louise Conway, at dinner at the Drake.

Tomorrow afternoon will be set aside for the bridal rehersal at Christ church, Winnetka, to be followed by the bridal dinner at the home of Miss Street's mother, Mrs. Harry L. Street. Saturday noon Mrs. Dan Smythe of Winnetka will entertain the party at luncheon.

The young Frank H. Armstrongs, who returned last week from their wedding trip, are spending this week house hunting in Ann Arbor, but they will be back in Winnetka in time for a tea his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong, are giving on Sunday in their handsome house on Sheridan road.

Young Mr. Armstrong has to go to summer school to make up the law studies he missed while he was ill in the early winter and those he missed later while he was honeymooning, so he and his bride will spend the summer in Ann Arbor.

Miss Mary Armstrong, who is to make her debut next fall, has arrived at home from Sarah Lawrence college and later in the summer she and her elder sister, Jean, will go west for several weeks on a ranch. Next year will be her last one in college.

Mrs. Frank Armstrong will have not only a debutante sister-in-law next season but also a debutante sister, for Nancy Bastien, who was graduated from the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry this year, will be presented at a tea in the autumn. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien, are planning to vacation on a western ranch this summer also. Miss Bastien arrived at home yesterday from a house party which she attended after leaving Dobbs. Mr. and Mrs. Bastien were at Dobbs for her graduation, going there directly from landing after a two months' European trip.

Entertain Tonight for Jean Wilhelm.

The Prentice Porters are entertaining at the Onwentsia club tonight for Miss Jean Wilhelm and Daggett Harvey, who will be married on the 22d of this month.

The Thursday night buffet dinner-dances at the club are immensely popular and every week a gay crowd assembles to dine and dance at this Lake Forest club.

Tomorrow night Miss Jean Schweppe will give a dinner for Miss Wilhelm and Mr. Harvey at the Lake Forest home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, and on Saturday the Lloyd A. Laflins will entertain with a dinner-dance at their Lake Forest home for the couple. That afternoon Mrs. George A. Richardson will give a shower for Miss Wilhelm and the next day Durand Smith will be a luncheon host at the Shoreacres club. That night Miss Deborah Butler will have a supper party for Miss Wilhelm at the Lake Forest residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Butler.

Mrs. Paul Walker gave a small luncheon yesterday for the Marquis and Marquise de Montemuro of Madrid, Spain, who have been at the Hotel Knickerbocker for several days, seeing Chicago. The Spanish grandee and his wife leave today for Canada, where, after a visit, they will sail from Montreal for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker plan to spend the summer in their apartment at 900 North Michigan with occasional weekends at Oconomowoc with their brother, George W. Dixon, or at the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton.

A dozen of Barrington's loveliest gardens will be open Saturday from 2 to 6 o'clock to visitors who wish to take advantage of the Garden Club of Barrington's "open garden day."

Mrs. Schuyler Thurber and Mrs. Robert Hilton are in charge of the showing, to which the admission will be 50 cents.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's not too likely that new brides and brides-to-be are finding time to read cooking columns these days, what with the bustle and scurry of wedding plans. Still we've been hopeful in dedicating special space to them, such as our shortcake and our well meant advice on the care of the wedding gifts of cooking equipment.

Right now it seems a good idea to talk about pie making. Pie is essentially a masculine dish, and as such should be listed in the accomplishments of the lassie who's contracting.

Actual recipes for the making of pie crust might well be pooh-poohed by the bride who already is fortified with that major necessity, a good standard cookbook. Rather, we'd like to give a few extra pointers that will insure really perfect pastry.

First of all it's up to you to find out just what kind of pie crust you'll be expected to turn out. Some people like a short, mealy crust; others a decidedly flaky crust with a shinier surface; and still others hold out for a sort of cross between the two—a short, flaky crust.

The first of these, the short, mealy crust, is made like this: First warm the shortening [don't melt it, just warm it slightly] until it can be easily worked with the fingers or a wooden spoon. Combine it with the flour and salt with a pastry blender, two knives, or your own dainty fingers until it has reached the consistency of fine meal. Then quickly and lightly stir in the water, at room temperature, and roll the dough out immediately.

For a flaky crust the main thing is to keep all of the ingredients cold. Cut in the shortening only until the mixture is coarse and granular in appearance, and add only enough ice water to hold the stiff dough together. Chill the ball of pastry before rolling and bake immediately after rolling.

The compromise type of crust goes together like the flaky kind, only for it you cut in only half of the shortening. Roll the dough to the thickness of about a half inch and dot the top of it with small bits of the remaining fat. Fold the dough, thus topped, in thirds, and roll out again to fit the pie tin.

A few general rules hold good, no matter what the type of pastry you choose to make. Always handle the dough lightly, for one thing. When adding water do so cautiously, in this manner: Sprinkle a teaspoonful or so over a portion of the mixture and toss lightly with a wide tined fork. Then sprinkle another portion similarly and continue until all the flour is dampened enough just to hold together. Toughness in pastry usually comes from too much water or too much handling.

When you've achieved this dough that is neither sticky nor dry, here's a point to remember in rolling. The pastry is likely to crack as you roll it out, and those cracks must be pinched together as you go if you'd avoid unsightly patches.

The board and rolling pin should be floured as lightly as possible when the rolling starts, for you want to avoid working additional flour into the dough. For this reason many good cooks advocate covering them both with rather coarsely woven or knitted cotton, which takes but little flouring and can be laundered.

A fluted pastry edge often stumps the beginner, for she's likely to slash off the edge of the crust too closely to the pie pan. An attractive rim can be made by making a double upright fold of the pastry before cutting and then pressing in the requisite scallops with the fingers.

Summer Chic Emphasizes Need of Soap and Water Cleanliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's nothing so exciting about being a clean person. One does not feel comfortable unless she feels that virtue recognized as next to godliness. But this year cleanliness has been raised to the peak of exactness in the summer wardrobe that consists entirely of washable, tubbable materials.

At the fashion shows one sees the most fascinating dinner and cocktail frocks of tubbable prints, cottons, and seersucker. Those of us who thought of seersucker as a hated school dress material never expected to meet it socially as it is being trained at the moment. But you're apt to meet it at the swankiest roof dancing place along with swisses and cottons of former humbler social standing.

All of which means one thing. That the girl or woman inside the gown has an added responsibility this season. She has to be more than the advertised 99½ per cent pure. She has to be sweet and clean of person or her summer is going to be a flop. Think of the pleasure of summer type perfumes in the company of these tubbable frocks with the refreshing odor of clothes hung out in the sun for drying. You never get quite that same exhilarating feeling with a frock that's been dry cleaned or just aired after a wearing.

It's a great season for you, girls! Cash in on it. Lay in a stock of bath brushes and tub salts and dusting powders. Be more than meticulous about the use of your perspiration astringent or deodorant, about washing stockings before they're worn a second time, about daintiness of undies, including the always fresh and clean ribbon top to your corsets.

Wash corsets often. They're made to withstand tubbing these days. Here's a season when we might say you're going to be judged by the amount of soap you use. No one is going to question you on the soap subject. You're just going to look soaped, tubbed, and scrubbed and have that most refreshing of all lures, the femme exquisite.

Child Can Be Taught Regular Elimination

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

This is the second article on toileting. The first, which appeared yesterday, should be read before this, because it gives necessary explanations that clear up certain misunderstandings on this subject.

The first thing the mother should do is to find the baby's or child's natural rhythm of elimination. This is done best by keeping a chart over a period of days, listing the times at which he naturally empties his bladder. These usually are:

Before going to bed at night.
After waking up in the morning.
After meals.

When these exact times have been found the second thing is to see that the baby is put on the chamber a little while before. Keep him there only a few minutes and do something, if possible, that will gradually indicate to him the reason for his being there—turn on the tap, use some phrase, always choosing the same words, or some other device.

Up to this point, even when you catch him and he stays dry, the child has not developed the dry habit, as was explained in the previous article. You have merely found out his rhythm and worked accordingly—the responsibility at this stage is still yours. However, it is important at this point that you show approval when he is successful, and—more important—that you do not show disapproval or displeasure when you are too late or when he is unsuccessful.

Gradually the child will associate the trip to the bathroom [or being put on the chamber] with the sensation of relieving himself.

The second step is helping the baby-child to tell you of his needs. This is the first stage at which he contributes. Gradually—quite gradually—he will learn to tell you, but usually only after he has wet. Praise him, even if it is too late. Why? Because this does not represent failure, but is one of the stages he will have to go through in the learning process. A little grunt, a word, or a phrase will be his signal. Try not to use to him some baby word which will later have to be unlearned, or which may make him ashamed in the future.

The third step the baby has to take in achieving the dry habit has to do with his sense of time. This will have to be taken up in tomorrow's article.

Original Orchestration for Handel Opera Is Here

An original orchestration score of Handel's "Theodora," to be presented by the Chicago park district June 21, 22, and 23 on the steps of the Field museum was received yesterday from London by the Chicago Park district. The score, made by Dr. Ferdinand Hiller in Cologne, Germany, in 1860, is valued at $250,000, according to park officials. According to Miss Marie Merrill, Handel wrote an orchestration for a small orchestra. Hiller's score provides 75 pieces, the number to be used here.

EIGHT CARD PROBLEM.

Over half a century ago Henry Jones of London, possibly the greatest whist player who ever lived, was writing on the play of the hand under the pseudonym of Cavendish. When I was a boy I used to spend hours on end puzzling out his old whist problems. It always amazed me, and it amazes me still, that any one can devise a simple layout of thirty-two cards that baffles the would-be solver for hours on end. But after tackling a fresh problem, grimly determined to solve it in sixty seconds flat, I would still be scratching my head at the end of sixty minutes.

The point has been taken by subsequent authorities that problems are merely mental pastimes; that they are no help whatsoever in everyday bridge. I disagree. After I had got the hang of the thing and had shortened my time limit to ten minutes maximum I found that I could execute the simpler squeezes and coups that came up during the course of rubber bridge play with much more accuracy and finesse. It may be that your mind does not run in those same channels; that problems to you are but the idle amusements of those who cannot stand the rigors of the bridge table. I have tentatively planned to give a five or eight card problem once every week. They were Cavendish's favorites, and they are mine as well. But if I find that they meet with public disapproval I will reluctantly discontinue them.

Today's is very simple. You should solve it in seven to twelve minutes. If you strike a snag, however, and the eight spots begin to dance before your eyes, write to me, care of this newspaper, and I will come to your rescue with the solution, via a postcard that I have already prepared.

Sharpen your pencils or bring out the frayed deck of cards that is in the right hand drawer of the secretary and get to work. I wish you luck.

Torn Banner Again Issue at Convention

Mrs. Poole Urges Burial of Incident.

Detroit, Mich., June 12.—[Special.]—The incident of the torn Oklahoma banner came before the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs again today when Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, retiring president, appeared on the platform in the middle of the program to ask the courtesy of the floor. It was the final session of the meeting.

Echoes of the hard fought contest for the federation presidency, in which Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., emerged victor over Dr. Josephine L. Peirce of Lima, O., rang in the statement made by Mrs. Poole. Mrs. Poole gave the official last word on the controversy.

"The first day of the convention a banner bearing the names of Ohio and Oklahoma was torn and the name of Oklahoma scratched out," said Mrs. Poole.

"Later we found that the mutilation of the banner was done innocently by an Oklahoma woman who believed that the names were too close on the same registration desk, and that it would help if the two should be separated.

"At the time of the incident we made it emphatic that no blame attached to Ohio. Then the members of the press were told that the delegate from Oklahoma thought, and thought innocently, that she was helping the registration.

"There is always tenseness in an election. It is difficult when people are wanting their candidates to be elected. We will say both states conducted a pretty good campaign. But we again emphatically state that Ohio can have no blame."

Dr. Tracy F. Tyler of Washington, D. C., secretary of the national committee on education by radio, a group financed by an educational foundation, asked the delegates to help solve the radio problem.

He urged them to hasten the time when the United States would establish a broadcasting system to supplement the present private system, making available to American listeners programs free from advertising and presenting entertainment and information to promote public welfare.

Catholic women of Detroit announced a fight on the birth control resolution adopted Tuesday by the convention. The resolution provides for "legal dissemination of scientifically regulated birth control information." Presidents of the two largest Catholic women's groups said that action had been taken to forestall such legislation.

The birth control resolution was passed by the delegates by a vote of 493 to 17.

even though you've just come in from 18 holes of golf

- The 1935 siren is a formidable opponent at sports during the day—a fragile and clinging beauty after dark. As she makes up her face for her evening role, she may affect a fascinating pallor or a soft glow. In either case, her complexion must be smooth, clear and fresh. Her formula for keeping it that way: A few minutes each day with Barbara Gould 4 Famous Creams.
- First, she cleanses with Barbara Gould Cleansing Cream. It liquefies immediately—penetrates to the depths of the pores—softens as it cleanses!
- Now, Barbara Gould Circulation Cream coaxes the blood up into her complexion. This supplies nourishment to the skin cells and keeps contours firm, young and free from wrinkles. It also makes skin glands function normally, overcoming dryness and throwing off dead, discolored surface skin.
- Barbara Gould Tissue Cream, a rich cream that's an implacable enemy of dry, wrinkled tissues, comes next. It is smoothed into the skin around the eyes, mouth and under the chin. This cream is especially necessary in the summer, when wind and sun dry and wrinkle the skin.
- In the morning, Barbara Gould Finishing Cream provides an oil-free base for make-up, that never reappears later in a shine. It gives a satin-smooth finish.

BRADDOCK FIGHTS BAER FOR TITLE TONIGHT

SOX WIN, 7 TO 2; LYONS YIELDS SENATORS 5 HITS

HOMER BY PIET STARTS 3 RUN ATTACK IN 5TH

Sewell Gets Triple, Two Singles.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Behind some able hurling by the 34 year old Ted Lyons, the second place White Sox spent a couple of pleasurable hours again yesterday. Lyons, whose cunning born of experience makes up for whatever has gone from his arm since his younger days, did his share by checking Washington's Senators on five hits. Meanwhile his peppery mates gave Earl Lefty Whitehill, also a veteran, such a rough ride on an assortment of 13 base hits that the Senators subsided, 7 to 2.

Lyons, assisted by some spectacular support from his infielders, fairly breezed through his would-be assailants in eight of the nine innings. The exception was the fourth, when he waxed a bit generous and issued two bases on balls. The passes were followed by a pair of hits which not only produced two tying runs but also banishment orders for Manager Buck Harris and Shortstop Ossie Bluege from Umpire Owens. He deemed it necessary to chase them for talking too much about a decision. After this shaky inning Lyons allowed only one hit.

Sewell Hits Well.

The most active gentleman in support of Lyons' quest for his seventh victory and his third straight was Luke Sewell, last year a Senator. He showed off before his former companions by cutting loose two singles and one triple. The pleasing part about these hits was that all figured in the run production. Twice he scored after starting trouble with his safeties and once he drove in a run. This latter feat put the finishing touch to a three run rally with which the Chicagoans wrapped up the decision in the fifth.

Also prominent among the shock troops was Tony Piet, the ex-National leaguer recently salvaged from the International circuit. Tony hit his first American league homer, the clout starting the rough house treatment inflicted on Whitehill in the fifth. Later on Tony notched a single to drive home one of his fellow workers. Besides this Tony was as agile as a cat in the perfect handling of nine chances in the field, some of them difficult.

Whitehill Lacks Control.

All the Sox had to do to get a run in the first inning was stand around and watch Whitehill throw the ball. The veteran southpaw opened his day's work by walking Radcliff. The same sort of a gratuity went to Hopkins. They were nudged along on a bunt by Piet. Bonura also walked, filling the bases. Bonura was forced at second on Simmons' grounder, Radcliff scoring. The bags were reloaded on a pass to Appling. This brought up Haas, one of the two left handed swingers in the Sox attack. He ran his string to 3 and 2, but finished with a pop to Travis.

Two hits were put together to give the Chicagoans another run in the second. Sewell opened against his old battery mate with a single between short and third. He moved to second on Lyons' sacrifice and to third on Radcliff's soft roller to Kuhel. Hopkins then succeeded in making a blind shot. He tried to pull away from a pitch but the ball hit his bat and arched into short center for a single, Sewell scoring. Piet flied to Stone for the third out.

Senators Get Two Runs.

The Sox had a swell chance to make additional headway in the third but ran out of breath. Bonura led off with a two base drive to right, but was nipped when he tried to make third on Simmons' bounder to Bluege. Zeke managed to delay his retirement long enough to permit Simmons to reach second. Then for some unknown reason Simmons endeavored to steal third but it didn't work. Appling flied to right for the third out.

After getting one man out of the way in the fourth Lyons walked a couple and those gifts soon developed into two runs. The passes went to Powell and Stone after which Bolton flied to Radcliff. Bluege whipped a

DAILY DOUBLE PAYS $1,365 AS PRINTEMPS WINS

BY FRENCH LANE.

They struck gold out at the Washington Park race track yesterday. That is, 26 of the folks in the crowd of 8,000 found a big pot of it at the end of the rainbow.

Printemps, a faithful old mare from the stable of Clarence Davison of Chicago, led them to this bag of fortune when she won the mile third race. When she poked her head in front after a desperate stretch drive she paid off at the tallest mutuel betting prices ever returned on an Illinois race track.

The customers, even though such a few profited, went wild when it was revealed that for a $2 ticket Printemps paid $500.24 to win, $107.88 to place, and $57.10 to show.

Seven Win Daily Double.

Seven other customers who had coupled Printemps with Ald. Coughlin's Fire Advance in the daily double swooned when this combination paid off at $1,365.10 for a $2 ticket.

This was one of the biggest mutuel payoffs of the year in America. The record on one horse is $1,185.50, paid to those who bet $2 on Wishing Ring at Latonia in 1912. The biggest daily double of 1935, on the combination of Pretty Monk and Fortunate Youth, was $4,000.20, paid out at Detroit last Saturday.

Incidentally, Robert McMillen, who owned and trained Wishing Ring in the record Latonia race, was in the crowd yesterday, but he forgot to bet on Printemps.

Only the persons who won some bets on Printemps in 1933 when she was a 3 year old had courage to bet on her. All through her 4 year old campaign last year she failed to win a race although she started 13 times. She had started five days ago at Washington Park and finished eighth in the 10 horse race, beaten by 12 lengths. So it wasn't any wonder she paid off at these tall odds.

The win pool in the third race was $10,968, the place pool $5,644 and the show pool $6,754. Forty-one dollars were wagered on Printemps to win, $46 to place and $63 to show. The daily double pool totaled $10,220.

The persons holding winning tickets were most elusive. Two of them asked to be paid off in checks. They gave their names as James T. Hopkinson and R. S. Snyder. The others all collected in cash and from the manner in which Joe Allen, the Cincinnati plunger, scampered out of the track to grab a taxicab for the loop many guessed that he not only bet on the horse to win, but also held a daily double ticket. He misses few big daily double payoffs.

Only one $5 ticket was sold on Printemps to win. All the others who backed her were content to let $2 be the limit of their speculation.

Ridden by Newcomer.

Printemps, ridden by Gordon Helton, a youngster from Limon, Colo., who never before had kicked a horse past the winning post, was never far back, although Irish Wake, King Pin, Jolyon, and Skipsea outran her in the early stages.

The battle developed into one of those spread out affairs in midstretch with at least eight in the field to all appearances having a chance to win. Printemps ran kindly for the Colorado lad, fought gamely in the final strides and just made it in the last couple of jumps.

Dundreary was a head behind her in second place and Skipsea finished third. Dundreary paid $15.52 to place and $9.98 to show. Skipsea's show price was $7.68.

Owner Holds Bag.

Owner Davison did not wager on the horse, he told friends after the race, and from the sour look on his face his story rang true. Jocky Helton didn't have a ticket either. "I only had about 80 cents in my pocket so how could I bet?" he said excitedly. "Riding my first winner means a lot more to me than $500."

Grimm Lashes Cubs, Then They Win, 15-0, Lose, 11-8

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 12.—The Cubs, with sulphuric words from the hoarse throat of Vice President Charley Grimm burning their ears, stepped out this afternoon and won the first game of a double header with the Phillies, 15 to 0. The inspirational qualities of the vice presidential blast appeared to have worn off until too late in the second game. At any rate Bucky Walters and the Phils won the sundown number, 11 to 8, though Bucky was bumped out in the eighth.

Most Scathing Outburst.

Over the transom reports from Grimm's lecture to his squad proclaimed it the most scathing outburst ever loosed by the normally genial vice president. It is said that he told two members of the team, whose names are scattered through the record books, that he would not take them back to Chicago if he could find any team that would offer anything like a reasonable trade and willingness to assume heavy salary contracts. He did not confine his clubhouse or subsequent comment to the two veteran outfielders, however, but expressed himself forcibly about the habits and general attitude of the whole Cubs roster.

Grimm placed an absolute ban on poker playing and threatened to do the same about pinochle. It is said that a very much big league poker game has just been getting good after the pinochle players go to bed at 1 or 2 o'clock.

Trimmed Lambs Moan.

Joe McCarthy never would stand for poker when he was manager of the Cubs, and Rogers Hornsby insisted upon small stakes. Grimm at first tolerated small stakes only, but recently the lid has been off. Some of the boys have been taken for merry rides and there have been growls from trimmed lambs that at least one of the fellows seemed to have a superhuman knack for filling his hand just when pots were largest. These things, aside from the all night feature of the game, have not been conducive to the best team effort, it is said.

The situation generally has become such that Owner P. K. Wrigley and Boots Weber, treasurer of the Cubs, are on their way to join the club. Just what this portends is not definitly known, but it was said that when they arrive tomorrow deals may be made for at least two of the Cubs' faltering stars, possibly Chuck Klein and Kiki Cuyler.

The first game was accepted as a response to the terrific tongue lashing Vice President Grimm gave the squad, though the character of the pitching might have had something to do with the size of the Cub score. It was the largest total piled up by the Chicagoans this year, the previous high of 14 also having been accumulated in behalf of Larry French. On May 12 the Cubs beat the Braves, 14 to 7, supplying French with a five run lead before he had to pitch a ball, just as they did today.

Chuck Klein is one of the lads who seemed to fully grasp what Mr. Grimm was talking about. Chuck led the afternoon's carnival of seven homers with three, one in the first game and two his first two times up in the second game. The third one was Chuck's sixth of the year.

French Pitches Shutout.

Ken O'Dea and Phil Cavarretta shared homer honors with Klein in the first game. George Watkins knocked out Tex Carleton with a homer with two on in the second game and Ethan Allen made one with one on off Roy Henshaw.

Larry French, who held the Phils to five hits in the first game, pitched

Each Hopes for Chance at Tony Canzoneri.

Leo Rodak vs. Wesley Ramey [12].
Bill Treest vs. Doc Conrad [8].
Clinton Bridges vs. Chuck Barnes [6].
Gene Stanley vs. Ellis Bradley [6].
Nester Bruggeman vs. Al Latio [5].
Bob Tinsley vs. Wesley Martin [5].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Leo Rodak puts his future to the test tonight at Mills stadium against Wesley Ramey, world tourist lightweight, in what is promised to be 12 rounds of action. Defeated, Rodak must drop to the small fight clubs and begin the long pull back to prominence where he may expect to receive notice of Tony Canzoneri, 135 pound champion.

What is said of Rodak's future is doubly true of Ramey, the one time boy marvel from Grand Rapids, Mich., who climaxed his early career by punching out a ten round victory over Canzoneri during the closing days of Tony's first lightweight reign. Now 25 years of age, Ramey's been around long enough to find that money matches are difficult to secure when a fighter possesses sufficient ability to be dangerous, but lacks drawing power to make that risk worth while.

Ramey Is Dangerous.

Ramey whipped Canzoneri in a nontitle fight at Grand Rapids just before Tony put his crown at stake in the Stadium ring against Chicago's Barney Ross. Barney won that ten round fight and then, for value received, gave Tony a return match three months later in the Polo grounds and again defeated the New York Italian. After that Barney composed a schedule of nontitle lightweight bouts and concentrated on making money from three welterweight title matches with Jimmy McLarnin.

Ramey could not edge in, not only because he was a pretty good fighter, but because he lacked a following in the larger fight centers. Hence Ramey spent a year touring the world and while he didn't make a fortune, he had a swell time and some success.

Ramey Expects Title Chance.

Wes figures this is his year. Canzoneri again is champion by virtue of Ross' abdication and a victory over Lou Ambers. Tony must fight some one to make money and since he is reported to have no great love for Ross' managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, who also control Davey Day, another of Chicago's best lightweights, Ramey figures he's a logical choice.

Bill Treest, one time Golden Gloves middleweight, has acquired aggressiveness in his recent fights. Tonight he supports the main match in eight rounds against Doc Conrad.

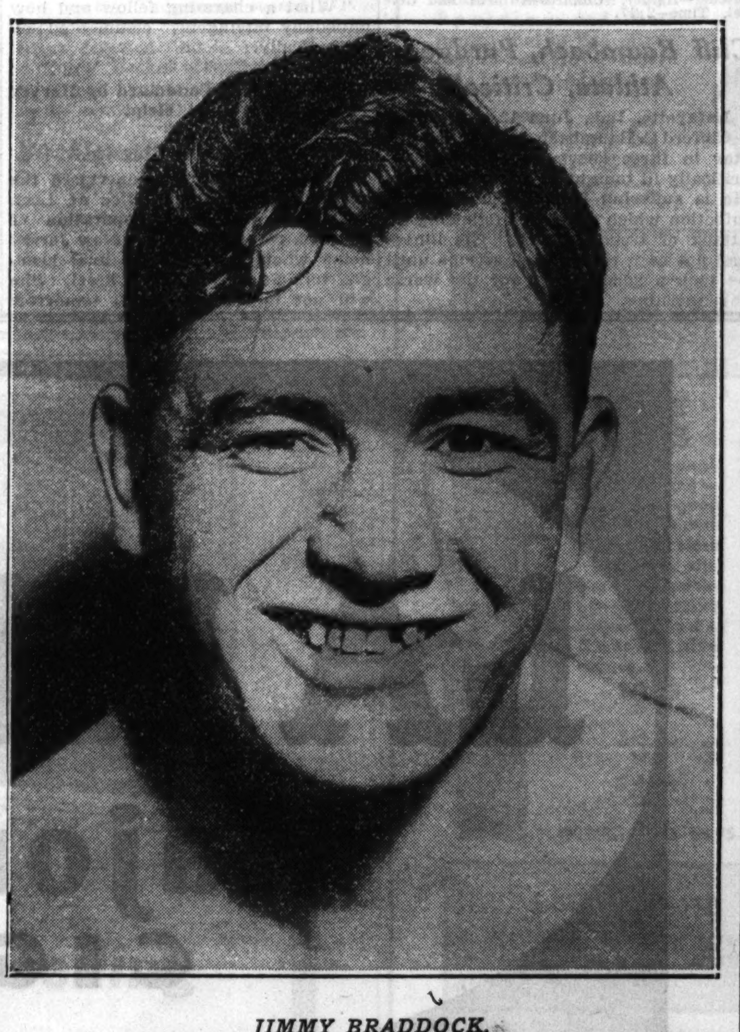
MAX BAER.



JIMMY BRADDOCK.

5 OF 7 FORMER CHAMPIONS SAY BAER WILL WIN

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Five of seven former heavyweight champions who expressed opinions today on the outcome of the Baer-Braddock fight picked Max Baer to retain his title. The five are Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera, and James J. Jeffries. The other two, Jack Sharkey and Jess Willard, favored Braddock.

Tony Canzoneri—I pick Braddock.

Tommy Loughran—Braddock in two rounds or Baer in ten.

Benny Leonard—Baer has trained faithfully and should win.

FREDDY MILLER BEATS BRITISH CHAMPION AGAIN

LIVERPOOL, June 12.—(AP)—Freddie Miller, generally recognized as world featherweight champion, outpointed Nel Tarleton, British titleholder, in a 15 round bout tonight. It was the second time the American fighter has whipped his British rival.

Miller started furiously, but Tarleton checked him midway in the bout and won the eighth to the twelfth rounds. The American came back strong, however.

CHAMPION IS OVERWHELMING CHOICE TO WIN

Weight and Power with Max.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 12.—If James J. Braddock, challenger, dethrones Max Adelbert Baer, title holder, in the heavyweight championship battle at Long Island City bowl tomorrow night, it will be boxing's greatest upset since 1892. Then at New Orleans, Jim Corbett, a slender young bank clerk, past master of boxing, jabbed and pestered the mighty John L. Sullivan until the latter dropped exhausted in the 21st round, weakened by his own exertions more than by punishment inflicted.

There have been upsets in the pugilistic realm since—when Bob Fitzsimmons' body punches pounded Corbett to defeat, when Jim Jeffries took the title from Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons, when ponderous Jess Willard stopped Jack Johnson under the blazing sun in Havana, when Jack Dempsey sent bovine Jess Willard floundering in the superannuated wooden bowl on the Maumee shores in Toledo. Yet not since Corbett's time has there been a battle in which the pugilistic experts gave the challenger so little chance.

Baer Still Going Up.

Even if one goes back to the Corbett-Sullivan fight for precedent, the comparison ends. Sullivan was ageing and slowing up although his public knew it not. Corbett was young, a master boxer, confident to the point of insolence. Baer is younger than Braddock. He still is improving with experience rather than going back. He possesses in his right glove one of the most terrific punches in American ring history. In addition, Baer will have a weight advantage of about 16 pounds.

For once, the clowning Baer is serious. He has trained for this fight. He is much better prepared than he was for Primo Carnera on June 14 last. He seems to realize the importance of retaining his honors. He says, "There will be no clowning in this fight. I'm in there to win and win as quickly as possible." He evidently means it though this writer doubts his ability to control his showmanship if the opportunity offers.

Never Relied on Speed.

On the other side of the picture we have Braddock, who at his best was scarcely more than a light heavyweight. Now he has added ten pounds, but some observers opine that added avoirdupois has slowed him up, although speed never was a standout asset in Jerseyman Jim's fighting repertory.

Braddock, on the way to the top, lacked just what it takes to reach supreme honors, and was on his way down the ladder, a trial horse for oncoming aspirants, when his regeneration began with the knockout of Corn Griffin a year ago. All this has been told in previous articles. His comeback, his challenging rôle, are one of the romance stories of the ring which would yield words for an epic if he does the unexpected tomorrow night.

Braddock Is Game.

In other fights Braddock has looked comparatively slow. He is a counter puncher with a right hand of upsetting power. He has had plenty of experience, but he lacks the fire—call it imagination if you will—or the saucy insolence of Baer in the ring. On one point, however, he will not be outmatched. That is courage. Through all his battles never once has he been accused of faint heartedness.

So let's concede physical advantages to the title holder, that he is 4 to 1 betting favorite and should be 10 to 1, according to those addicted to that sort of prediction. Then let's look at the other side of the picture and figure how Braddock, called a forlorn hope just as Corbett was, might win.

Braddock has engaged in 82 contests

Dutch Leonard Is Routed in Fifth Inning.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—After trailing most of the way, the Pirates launched a five run attack upon Emil [Dutch] Leonard in the seventh inning to gain a 7 to 3 victory over the Dodgers today. It was Pittsburgh's fifth straight triumph. GIANTS, 10; REDS, 4.

New York, June 12.—(AP)—The Giants shook off the effects of yesterday's double defeat at the hands of the Reds and walloped Cincinnati, 10 to 4, with a 16 hit assault today.

Paul Derringer, leading Cincinnati pitcher, and Si Johnson were the victims of the attack which featured home runs by both sides. Hank Leiber socked one for the Giants in the fifth, and Mel Ott hit his eleventh homer of the year with Bill Terry on base in the sixth. Ival Goodman, Adam Comorosky and Ernie Lombardi hit circuit drives for Cincinnati. Score:

CARDS WIN TWICE.

Boston, Mass., June 12.—(AP)—The Cardinals climbed a half game nearer the top the National league today, taking both ends of a double-header from the Boston Braves, 8-6 and 5-4.

Dizzy Dean was rushed to the rescue of Ed Heusser in the eighth inning of the first game, after the Braves had made three hits and scored two runs to tie the score at 6-6. Dean pitched to only six men, whom he retired in order, and received credit for his eighth victory of the season.

In the second game Fred Frankhouse was driven to the showers in the sixth. Phil Collins won his fourth straight game since joining the Cardinals. Scores:

His illness had not been regarded as serious until he took a sudden turn for the worse this morning.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BRADDOCK CLOSE UP.

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Special.]—The Wake joined the table at which Challenger James J. Braddock was sitting last night in Jack Dempsey's restaurant, opposite Madison Square Garden. We wanted a few final words before he sought seclusion until the title bout tomorrow night at Long Island City bowl and to observe how Braddock took his new found status of being a celebrity.

Braddock was not dining. Like Baer, he partakes of only two meals a day, breakfast at 9:30 o'clock, dinner at 5 and usually an apple or orange before retiring. Unlike Baer, he takes no tobacco or alcohol while in training. Otherwise, cigars and an occasional quaff of beer.

Compared to Champion Maxie, Jersey Jimmy is retiring and conservative. He's courteous and serious, answers any questions asked, but does not make conversation or suggest topics for conversation. One might almost call Braddock unimaginative after being at the Baer camp. Like his ring tactics, his conversation is slow moving and methodical. He gives the impression of wondering, Cindrella-like, what it's all about.

Of Braddock's sincerity, his long siege of conscientious training, his earnest desire to win, his belief that he will win, his current popularity, there are no questions.

Requests for Autographs.

As we sat there our dialog was interrupted frequently by the inevitable autograph seekers, who either prefaced or ended their brief sojourn with "I hope you win, Jim."

Now, we're naturally of the inquiring reporter disposition, so we bluntly asked each John Hancock seeker, "Why do you want Braddock to win?"

First were two ladies, easily past the chicken stage, who wandered over without their escorts. To our query the spokesman replied, "O, Baer is too conceited, and Jim here," putting her hand on Braddock's shoulder, "is Irish."

Next was a young chap in his late twenties.

"With me," he replied, "it's both sentiment and financial. I'm for a clean living man with a family. Then I have a parlay bet riding. It started last Saturday with $250 on Omaha in the Belmont at 7 to 10. That's now $425. It's on Braddock at 4 to 1. That's $2,125 if Jim wins. All back on Joe Louis against Carnera."

Later in the session a sour note. "Baer's part Jewish and I don't like Jews," the chap replied. Seated at the table were only Braddock, The Wake, Manager Joe Gould, who despite his name is 100 per cent non-Aryan, and Solly Seeman, who battled ten rounds with Sammy Mandell at East Chicago back in 1925.

Wife Not at Ringside.

Mrs. Braddock, who supervised the challenger's camp activities at Loch Sheldrake, including preparation of his food, returned to their New Jersey home when Jim took up final headquarters at a New York hotel. She will not be at the bowl tomorrow night. Mrs. Jimmy has attended only one of her husband's many battles. That time she ran out during its progress, according to Jimmy.

Mrs. Braddock is popular with newspaper men, so they delight to tease her. One of their jests was to tell Mrs. B. of the young woman whose name often has been associated with Max Baer despite their mutual protestations they are "just good friends." Then the narrator added, "And you know Mrs. So and So goes with the title." "If she does," retorted Mrs. Braddock, "Jim goes too."

* *

Three Children.

Challenger Braddock is the father of three children. They are Jay, 4 years old; Howard, 3, and Rose Marie, 2.

* *

Braddock Connections.

Jimmy Braddock attended St. Joseph's Parochial school in West New York, but found boxing and other occupations more alluring. Besides his pugilistic career he has been a messenger boy, apprentice in a printing shop, longshoreman, operator of a taxicab fleet which dissipated his ring earnings, and laborer handling railroad ties.

Braddock's father, once in the furniture moving business, now is night watchman at the Holland-America steamship pier. He expects to see Jim's first big fight tomorrow night. Mother Braddock has viewed all her son's important engagements.

Western Golf Entries Close; 152 to Play

South Bend, Ind., June 12.—[Special.]—Entries for the western open golf tournament closed today with 152 of the nation's best golfers in the field. Of these 53 are amateurs. The event is to be held here Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

The field includes five of the first six finishers in the recent national open, all except Sam Parks Jr., the winner, having entered. Also included are six former winners of the western open.

Jimmy Thomson, Long Beach, Cal., runnerup in the national open is the ruling favorite in the minds of South Bend fans who saw him play in an exhibition with Olin Dutra at Notre Dame last month.

Walter Hagen, five times winner of the Western, and third place finisher in the National open this year; Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles, Denny Shute of Chicago, and Horton Smith of Oak Park who finished in that order behind Parks and Thomson at Oakmont, have entered.

Yanks Divide Double Header with Browns

St. Louis, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—After losing 11 to 4 in the opener, the Browns whipped the league leading Yankees 7 to 6 in the second game of today's double-header.

Except for the clouting of Julius Solters, who belted two home runs in the opener and another in the second game, the first part of the afternoon was strictly a Yankee affair. Gomez limited the Browns to seven hits.

Solters came through with his third homer of the day in the fourth inning of the second game, with Clift on base, to put the Browns in the running, and Walkup pitched shutout ball in the last seven innings. Scores:

single over third, Powell scoring. Whitehill doubled to right and Stone scored. When Piet dropped the throw in, Bluege broke for the plate, but Bonura recovered and tossed to Sewell in time to get a favorable decision at the plate. This was the verdict that caused Manager Harris and Bluege to talk their way to the clubhouse.

Sewell's triple to left center with one out and a single by Radcliff with two out put the Sox back in front in the home fourth by 3 to 2. Then Whitehill was showered with four hits good for three runs in the fifth. Piet started this disturbance with his homer into the seats in left. Bonura followed with a single and Simmons with a fly into Stone's hands. Travis tossed Appling's grounder to Myer for a force on Bonura at second, but Myer dropped the ball. Haas sent Bonura home on a single to center. Sewell singled to the same spot and Appling registered. The next two men did nothing.

Vernon Kennedy, who did a neat job of whipping the champion Tigers last Saturday, will be started against Washington in the fourth of the five game series this afternoon. Irving Bump Hadley will oppose the White Sox.

The two infield cripples, Manager Jim Dykes and Jack Hayes, worked out again in the pre-game practice, the former to get a better line on his recently sprained ankle and the latter to test the strength of the left thumb bone, cracked several weeks ago by a thrown ball. They believe they'll return to action not later than Saturday when the New York Yankees open at Comiskey park.

MIDIRON SHOTS STRESSED; GOLF CLASSES GROW

900 New Pupils Enrolled; Crowds to Increase.

The presence of 900 new pupils last night swelled the attendance of THE TRIBUNE's third annual free golf school to a new high of 6,300 men and boys. The school, which is given in coöperation with the 13 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, has been gaining momentum with every lesson.

Although the amazing crowd of 23,200 pupils answered the roll call last week, this week seems well on its way to surpass that number. With a group of almost 14,500 for the first half of the week, professionals on the teaching staf of the golf school are predicting an attendance of more than 28,000 by the end of the week.

The midiron came in for the lion's share of attention last night. The pupils were impressed with the importance of this club—called by pros the backbone of the golf game—and were given a thorough drill in its use.

Women's Classes Tonight.

Tonight the girls and women again take the stage. The fourth lesson of the school will deal with the mashie iron.

The appearance of new pupils brings out anew the fact that it still is not too late to pick up stroke saving tips. All golfers having a weakness around the green are invited to join the classes in the last three lessons.

Mid-City again rang the attendance bell with a turnout of more than 1,500 men and boys. More than 400 new pupils augmented the regular crowd. Mel Thompson and his assistants worked with the newcomers to familiarize them with what had taken place in the previous lessons.

Hit Shots from Tee.

Jock Anderson of Techny Fields found his pupils so well advanced that he let them hit midiron and three iron shots off the tee. Slightly less than 1,000 responded at Evergreen. Among this group were about 200 new pupils. Al Megeff's assistants played a three hole exhibition for the early comers.

Spring reached Aurora and Waubonsie had a generous turnout which included many first nighters. Johnny Moran informed his pupils that the remaining classes this week would be postponed until Monday night when the men and women, as well as the boys and girls, would join up in one large class. Moran left last night to participate in the western open at South Bend.

Tom Walsh claimed both the hitch-hiking and persistence championships of the golf school for Westgate last night. Two of his pupils—John Wagner and Charles Doyle—who have been hitch-hiking a distance of fifteen miles for each lesson, were caught seven miles short and forced to walk the rest of the way. Westgate had the biggest turnout in its three years of the golf school when more than 600 greeted Prof. Walsh.

Report Classes Progressing.

Jack Daray and Clarence Moeller worked with a good class at Mission Hills. The importance of the midiron was stressed and the pupils hit balls under Daray's watchful eye. Vernon and Northbrook both reported enthusiastic crowds. Julian Strud, at Vernon, said his class was joined by the members of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce, who had played a tournament in the afternoon. Harold Johnson, at Northbrook, said his pupils are progressing fast.

SPEEDWAY LOSES SUIT; MUST PAY WILCOX $42,000

Franklin, Ind., June 12.—[Special.]—Howard Wilcox of Indianapolis, automobile race driver, today was awarded $42,000 damages by a jury which heard his slander suit against the Indianapolis Motor Speedway corporation. Cubs Defeat Phils, 15 to 0; Then Lose 11-8

The Cubs and Phils will play another double header tomorrow. Warneke and Lee will pitch for the Cubs while Jorgens and Chief Moore will work for the Phils.

FIRST GAME

Vice President Grimm's clubhouse tirade apparently inspired his chattels right off, for the Cubs made five runs in the first inning. Most of the power, however, was supplied by gents not targets of official wrath. And very coarse errors by Camilli and Todd also were elements.

Galan opened with a single to center and went to third on Herman's single to center. Hack forced Herman, Galan scoring. O'Dea singled. Lindstrom bounced to Bivin, but Camilli dropped the pitcher's toss, Hack scoring and O'Dea reaching third. Klein bounced to Camilli, who threw to the plate in time to get O'Dea, but Todd dropped the ball, O'Dea scoring. Cavarretta doubled through Camilli, scoring Lindstrom and Klein. English walked, but French hit into a double play.

Klein Cracks One.

There was a little more class displayed in the production of four Cub runs in the second inning. Herman doubled with one down and Hack fanned for the second out. Then O'Dea walked and Lindstrom singled off the right field fence, Herman scoring. Lefty Pezzullo replaced Bivin. Klein then lifted his No. 4 homer over the right field fence, scoring behind O'Dea and Lindstrom. Cavarretta was safe when Haslin dropped his fly, but English flied to Chiozza.

The Cubs' tenth run was scored at the start of the fourth. It was a high one over the right field wall by O'Dea. Runs 11 and 12 were scored in the fifth on walks to English and Galan, Herman's second double and Hack's infield out. Run No. 13 came in the sixth. Lindstrom opened with a double and scored on Cavarretta's single. When English also singled, Davis replaced Pezzullo. The next two batters went out.

O'Dea doubled to left with two out in the seventh and scored on Lindstrom's double. Klein bounced to Chiozza for the third out. Cavarretta led off the eighth with a homer.

SECOND GAME

The Phillies ended their afternoon's scoreless chain in the first inning of the second game. Carleton walked Allen, Watkins beat out a single, and J. Moore singled to right, filling the bases. Camilli drove the ball over the right field fence, but it was foul by inches, so Dolph came back and fanned. Wilson lined a single to right, scoring Allen, but Haslin hit into a double play, English to Herman to Cavarretta.

The Cubs went ahead in the second inning. Hartnett opened with a single and was forced by Lindstrom. Klein then drove the ball over the right field fence, scoring behind Lindstrom. Cavarretta grounded out to Camilli and English flied to Watkins.

Carleton Driven Out.

Walks to Haslin and Chiozzo started Carleton to the showers in the fourth when the Phils made four runs. The runners moved up on Vergez's sacrifice. Haslin scored on Walters' fly to Lindstrom. Allen walked. Hartnett was hit in the head by Watkins' bat and was replaced by O'Dea. Watkins then knocked a homer over the right field fence, scoring behind Chiozza and Allen. Henshaw replaced Carleton and Herman threw out J. Moore.

After Walters had walked with one out in the sixth Allen made the first long range homer of the afternoon, a liner into the distant left field bleachers. This made the score 7 to 3.

The Phillies scored two more in the seventh. With one out, Haslin singled to left and stopped at third on Chiozza's double over first. Vergez was purposely passed, filling the bases. Walters bounced to Henshaw and, with a double play before him, O'Dea dropped the throw at the plate, Haslin scoring. Chiozza was forced at the plate on Allen's grounder, but Watkins walked, forcing in Vergez. Herman threw out J. Moore to end the inning.

Cubs Chase Walters.

English walked to open the Cubs' eighth and Cuyler, batting for Henshaw, singled to right. After Galan lined to J. Moore, Herman walked, filling the bases. Hack lined a single to center, scoring English and Cuyler. Hack stole second and after O'Dea lined to Chiozza, Lindstrom singled to center, scoring Herman and Hack. Walters was replaced by Prim. Chiozza threw out Klein to end the uprising.

French went to the mound and was touched for two runs in the Phils' half of the eighth. Camilli fanned as a starter, but Wilson singled to right and Haslin to center. Chiozza popped to English, but Vergez drew a walk, filling the bases. Todd batted for Prim and singled to center, scoring Wilson and Haslin. Allen forced Todd, English to Herman.

Johnson pitched to the Cubs in the ninth and was nicked for one run on a single by English and a triple by Galan.

Heileman won the Class B title, for boys between 18 and 20, with a 5 and 3 victory over Art Doering of Westward Ho, while Smead walked away from Norman Horne of Bunker Hill, 11 and 10, to win Class A for boys under 18. Smead was one under par for the eight afternoon holes.

Young Heileman was forced to put on a real battle, however, being 4 down to Doering at the 18 hole intermission. He took five of the first nine afternoon holes to be 1 up at the turn, and then won four of the next six for the decision. He played out the bye holes for a full card of 75, four over par.

CHARLES CHECKS IN TO BATTLE PACK TOMORROW

Louisville Giant Boxes at White City.

Edward Timothy Charles, 210 pound Louisville, Ky., boxer, better known as Big Tim Charles, arrived yesterday for his six round windup bout with Lorenzo Pack, this year's international and intercity Golden Gloves champion, at White City casino tomorrow. He was accompanied by his manager, Jackie Stewart, former Louisville featherweight. Charles, who is of Irish-French antecedents, will be making his first appearance in Chicago. The 27 year old heavyweight started boxing five years ago. He has engaged in approximately 60 bouts and has won the majority of them. In his latest effort Charles defeated Frank Lakewood of Cincinnati, O., in ten rounds at Louisville a few weeks ago.

Charles boxed a four round exhibition with Jack Dempsey at Toledo, O., three years ago. He also went four rounds with Art Laskey in 1933. He is employed as a special policeman in Louisville.

Walter [Puggy] Weinert, the Brighton Park welterweight, has been named for a bout with Petey Mike, Palm Beach, Fla., of ten rounds at Western stadium next Tuesday. . . . Tony Michaels, Erie, Pa., junior lightweight, expects to box Joe Wiley in a four round supporting match. . . . Davey White, Madison Square loop gymnasium lightweight, will be out of action for at least two weeks because of an injured ear. . . .

Pete Lello, Gary, Ind., welterweight, and Art Brewer of the Savoy Athletic club will be opponents in a five round amateur contest at Northwest stadium tomorrow. Another at this distance will involve Leo Pillo, junior welterweight stablemate of Lello, and Clyde Davis. Davey Day will referee one of the bouts.

James C. Mullen of the Chicago Stadium corporation announced yesterday that Joe Louis is under contract to engage in two bouts for his organization after his fifteen round heavyweight elimination match at New York June 25. One of these matches is to be held in Chicago and the other in Detroit. Mullen added that if Max Baer is victorious over Braddock and decides to risk the heavyweight crown again this year he most likely will fight at Soldiers' field under Stadium auspices, probably against Max Schmeling.

Seven boxing matches and a wrestling bout will be offered tonight at Fans' park Aurora, Ill. Phil Rosenberg and Honey Weaver will meet at 145 pounds. The wrestling match will bring together Frank Talaber and George Kontalis. F. M.

M'MILLEN AND COLEMAN MEET ON MAT TONIGHT

Jim McMillen will attempt to continue his string of mat successes tonight against Abie Coleman of New York in the main event of Promoter Sam Abruscato' fourth outdoor show at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. They will go one fall with an hour time limit.

Baer Battles Braddock in Title Fight

since he began boxing back in 1926. His 26 knockouts, 23 decisions, no decision contests, etc., are offset by 20 defeats, 5 draws, and one knockout. The latter figures are not particularly impressive, especially since many of those who secured decisions were scarcely above the mediocre class.

Can Get Off Floor.

Perhaps you say "O, very well, so that's that." But wait a minute. In all those adverse decisions, punctuated by one knockout, Jim Braddock was on the floor often, but he got up and continued to the end. That's the kind of fellow you like to have boxing for you especially if you're betting on him at 5 to 1 against.

So let's inspect that one knockout a little more closely. It was recorded in 1932 by Lou Scozza in six rounds, the latter's principal argument to fistic acclaim. Even then it was not an actual knockout but a technical one. The referee stopped the bout because of a bad cut over Braddock's eye, injury to which he seems particularly susceptible. Judged by such standards, Braddock's record of rising contender, later trial horse, and finally a has-been, only to emerge into the limelight, is not so bleak and barren.

Champion Is Confident.

Champion Baer, chockfull of confidence, says, "Any fellow who weighs over 185 pounds and has a wallop like Braddock has a chance. He might land that one blow. I might get an eye cut in a butt in the ring, unintentional, of course, or I might hurt my hands. I expect to win, but nothing is absolutely sure in the ring."

Baer's hands have been a moot question, emphasized by him. This writer's opinion is that Baer's hands are all right, and that bad hands will not decide this fight.

Then what of Baer's ring record? Max has engaged in 45 contests since he began clouting in 1929, not including exhibitions. It includes 30 knockouts, somewhat impressive, 8 decisions, and 7 defeats, mostly in his early career.

While Max was losing ten round cisions to light but often hitting Tommy Loughran and Johnny Risko, Cleveland baker boy, and a 20 rounder to Paulino [Upside Down] Uzcudun, in 1931, he was knocking out Walter Cobb, Paul Swiderski, and Tuffy Griffith in 1932. He also in that year won decisions over King Levinsky [twice], Tom Heeney, and Ernie Schaaf. His more recent knockouts of Max Schmeling in 10, Primo Carnera in 11, and King Levinsky in 2, are well remembered. Max Baer, in ring ability, still is on the ascending scale.

Few Sinister Rumors.

Such is the advance dope on a title battle in which James J. Braddock is accounted a forlorn hope against Champion Max Adelbert Baer, present title holder, in 15 rounds.

There are the usual sinister rumors. Strangely enough, these rumors do not concern Baer. They are that certain interests wish Braddock as a new champion. Braddock and Manager Joe Gould are not mentioned as parties to the machinations, if any.

SCIENCE STUDIES VARIATIONS IN MUSKIE WEIGHTS

BY BOB BECKER.

Muskie fishermen who are puzzled about the differences in weight between muskellunge of the same length can find a solution of this problem in the recent investigations of the scientists.

For example, if you make a list of the reasons why muskies of the same length will vary quite a bit in their weight you will find these factors predominant: 1. The female muskie usually is more robust than the male. As a rule the female fish can be described as "chunkier." Therefore, it weighs more than a male of the same length. 2. Fish vary in body conformation which makes a difference in weight irrespective of the sex of the fish. That is, some muskies are slender or stout as the case may be, thus making a difference in their weight. 3. Smaller differences in weight [according to Chancey Juday of the University of Wisconsin] can be accounted for by the presence or absence of a lot of food in the stomach of the fish.

Eats Almost Anything.

And every fisherman who has had much to do with muskies knows that a savage, hard striking muskie will go after most anything from a muskrat to a kitchen stove. At the University of Wisconsin they examined one muskie from northern Wisconsin that had just eaten a full grown muskrat before it was caught, which shows that the muskrats cannot blithely swim when and where they please in a lake, if muskies are in that body of water.

Another muskie examined had just eaten a two pound sucker. Therefore, the fisherman who wants a muskie to tip the scales for all it is worth could record a heavier fish if he had some way of telling if the muskie had just enjoyed a full dinner. By hooking and landing a good sized muskie with a full stomach it stands to reason that anywhere from one to three pounds could be added to the fish's weight.

Some Use Live Bait.

Fishermen who are enthusiastic about muskie fishing rely on a vareity of lures. There are some live bait fishermen who like to throw suckers all day in the hope that a muskie will grab that bait. After hearing the troubles of one of these sucker fishermen we wonder if artificial lures aren't easier on the nerves, because one Chicago fisherman was telling us the other night how he hooked five in one day on live suckers and didn't get one. All of the fish bored into snags and broke the tackle. The majority of casters, of course, use artificial lures such as spoons, plugs and metal lures.

CLARK LAUNCHES PERSONALTY TAX BILL REDUCTIONS

Orders Staf to Cancel All Unauthorized Boosts.

The order, which does not apply to business concerns, will cause a 40 per cent reduction in 800,000 assessed valuations in accordance with a plan inaugurated by Clark on April 10. In addition, in the case of 265,000 sworn schedules which were arbitrarily increased by members of the assessor's staf, the original estimated valuations will be restored before the 40 per cent debasement factor is applied.

These changes will cut $112,000,000 from the total 1934 personal property assessed valuation of $909,839,000, according to Edward J. McCabe, chief deputy assessor. Assuming that the average levy is somethig more than $7 for each $100 of assessed valuation, the new order will mean that the 1934 personalty levy will be reduced by about $8,000,000.

Order Follows Outburst.

Clark's sweeping order followed his outburst of Tuesday when he charged that members of his staf had disobeyed his order that individual assessments must be reduced by 40 per cent of the estimated valuations, and had in many cases, without Clark's authority, increased the valuations appearing on sworn schedules. The order was made general when it was discovered that Clark's instructions had been ignored in the cases of some of the country towns as well as in Chicago.

Clark emphasized that the 40 per cent reduction must be applied also to schedules estimated by the assessor's office for those who failed to file them.

McCabe, acting for Clark, who is recuperating from a leg injury, immediately set the machinery in motion to make the revision. Two large forces of calculators were put to work last night under H. G. Bollman, chief of the administration service division. It is expected that their task will be completed in three weeks, and that it will not delay the making of the 1934 personal property assessment.

Taxpayers were assured that they need not act to obtain the revisions, which will be made on the face of the returns they filed.

50 IDENTIFY BODY OF CROSS-EYED STORE ROBBER

Leon Kuich, 37 years old, 2443 Augusta boulevard, shot to death by police Tuesday night at Higgins and Arlington Heights roads, was identified in the county morgue yesterday by 50 victims as the cross-eyed member of a gang that had robbed them. An inquest was continued until June 28 at the request of police.

At the Irving Park police station 50 others made similar identification from pictures. Police expect that Kuich and his companions, who are being sought, will be connected with at least 250 recent robberies of taverns, drug stores, groceries, and other business places.

Chicago and Palatine police yesterday raided a framhouse on Illinois avenue, off Plum Grove road a mile south of Palatine, that is believed to have been the hangout of Kuich and his gang. There they arrested one man whose name is being kept secret, and seized several guns and ammunition as well as three stolen automobiles.

Police were also questioning Henry Mauck, 36 years old, 5528 Neenah avenue, arrested in a tavern from which Kuich was fleeing when he was killed. Mauck said he had gone there to meet Kuich.

Krchmar, after suffering for ten years, was operated on Feb. 13 by Dr. Claude S. Beck. Dr. Beck said the operation opened a new supply of blood by bringing the pectoral muscle, on the chest, into close contact with the heart and the roughened lining of the pericardium, a small pouch which surrounds the heart, thus bringing relief from the painful attacks.

Surgeons explain angina pectoris takes place when the coronary arteries, which give the heart its nourishing blood supply, thicken and become hardened. When the blood supply is completely shut off death occurs.

"I feel fine," said Krchmar, a Chardon, O., farmer. "Today I weigh 157 pounds," he said. "The day I came here I weighed 142½ pounds and I thought I was going to die. I walked up and down 15 steps yesterday to see if I really was all right."

'MAN OVERBOARD' DRILL BRINGS OUT RESCUE CUTTER

Erie, Pa., June 12.—(AP)—A practice drill of how to save a man who has fallen overboard was done so realistically aboard the cutter Tahoma today that coast guardsmen from Erie dashed to the rescue.

The drill practice caused reports to spread that a ship was in distress in Lake Erie. A tug captain reported he had seen flares sent into the sky.

While the guardsmen were searching, the Tahoma, a coast guard cutter out of Cleveland, put into port here. The crew reported they had been staging a "man overboard" drill about midway between Erie and the Canadian shore and were unaware of the alarm that had been caused.

News of the Radio Stations

WBBM and the Columbia Broadcasting system will pick up the music of the orchestras in the main dining room and Tally Ho room of the Medinah club of Chicago as a nightly sustaining network feature starting next Monday evening. This was assured yesterday with federal court approval of negotiations between CBS and the club, which is in receivership. When it goes on the air the Medinah will become the first private club to broadcast nationally on a regular sustaining basis.

At the same time it became known that arrangements also had been completed for CBS to use the grand ballroom of the club, seating approximately 1,200, to produce some of its larger shows before audiences. The ballroom already has been used occasionally by Columbia for network productions. This move was prompted, it is reported, by the prospect confronting Columbia of soon being the only major radio interest in Chicago without studio audience facilities.

W-G-N's new half million dollar broadcasting plant nearing completion north of Tribune tower and next door to the Medinah club will provide adequate studio space, including a theater seating about 600 persons, for local broadcasts as well as chain programs carried by the Mutual Broadcasting system, for which W-G-N is the Chicago outlet.

Dressing room chatter from the quarters of both the champion and challenger will be aired as a preliminary to the Baer-Braddock fight tonight. Tom Manning, sports announcer, will visit Baer's dressing room and George Hicks, NBC staf announcer, will be in Braddock's quarters. When the fighters enter the ring Graham McNamee and Ford Bond will take over for a round-by-round account.

Two of the oustanding track meets of 1935, the Princeton invitation meet Saturday and the National Amateur Athletic union championship meet July 4, will be described over an NBC network. . . . Wilbert Leibling, 13 year old boy soprano, who took first place in the NBC-Century of Progress vocal competition, will be a guest on Tony Wons' program at 4:40 p. m. Sunday.

Irvin S. Cobb, maestro of humor, will be the guest of Ben Bernie, also something of a maestro, at 8 p. m. next Tuesday over WMAQ-NBC. Cobb, who recently entered the movies, will fly from location near San Francisco, where he is making scenes for a picture, to Catalina Island for the broadcast. Another Hollywood celebrity, Lionel Barrymore, will make an air appearance June 21 on Dick Powell's "Hollywood Hotel" show. Barrymore will give scenes from his new picture, "The Return of Peter Grimm."

When Col. Stoopnagle and Budd begin their new CBS series on the Fred Waring show July 2 they will continue their poithboinder stuff, burlesque radio, act as quasi masters of ceremony, revive their interviews with "Little Known Men of Industry," and satirize some phases of government.

PLANS HEARING OF RYAN'S SUIT AGAINST WIFE

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—A special referee will be appointed to conduct the trial of the annulment suit filed some months ago by Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, against his wife, the former Countess Marie-Ann Wurmbrand-Stuppach of Vienna.

Counsel for both sides approved that action of Supreme Court Justice Salvator Cotillo. The judge probably will name Ralph O. L. Fay, who has taken some depositions in the case.

Ryan, one of Mayor La Guardia's secretaries, says at the time of the marriage in St. Patrick's cathedral Feb. 20, 1934, she misrepresented her wealth, deceived him as to her character, never "honored nor cherished" him, hoped to share in great wealth.

Ryan's salary from the city is $3,600 a year. After the death of his father he will share in a $9,000,000 trust fund established by his grandfather.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—The rally in speculative rail bonds was carried further in today's trading in the bond market of the New York Stock exchange. Gains of from 1 to 4 points were piled on top of similar advances made Tuesday.

In contrast to the rails, utility issues fell as much as 1 to 5 points on news of the passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill by the senate.

High Grade Bonds Quiet.

High grade bonds continued to hold apart from the movement and dealings in United States government issues became increasingly dull, although prices were firm and net gains of 1-32 to 6-32 point were shown by this group.

Foreign bonds showed only small movements and no decided trend appeared. French government 7s fell ¼ point. German 7s were up ¼ point, while the 5½s were unchanged.

Among the rails the strongest and most active issues were those of the Baltimore and Ohio, Denver and Rio Grande, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Pere Marquette, and Southern Railway.

Utilities Fall Sharply.

In the utility group American Water Works 6s fell 5½ points, Columbia Gas and Electric issues dropped 1⅛ to 2⅛ points, North American Edison bonds were down ¼ to 1¼ points, and Utilities Power and Light 5½s and 5s fell 3 and 1⅞ points respectively.

The preponderance of utility issues listed on the curb exchange gave a soft tone to dealings there. Losses ran from 1 to more than 4 points. Associated Gas and Electric issues fell from 2½ to 4¼ points. Cities Service issues dropped from 2¼ to 3⅞ points, and Standard Gas and Electric bonds were off 2 to 3 points.

TERMS BALANCED BUDGET, SOUND MONEY VITAL

Harvard Director Flails New Deal Policies.

If business makes a substantial recovery in the next eighteen months, as expected, certain objectives must be attained to avert disastrous credit or currency inflation, Malcolm P. McNair, director of the business research bureau, Harvard university, warned yesterday in a talk before the National Retail Dry Goods association at the Stevens hotel.

These objectives, he said, are attainment of a balanced budget by means of both taxation and economy, stabilization of currency in relation to a fixed international gold standard through a provisional working agreement among France, England, and the United States, and a sound control of bank credit, divorced from political considerations.

Assails New Deal Stand.

"If the danger of a substantial inflation is to be averted," McNair asserted, "it is going to require on the part of the administration something more than good intentions, zeal for reform, instinct for the politically expedient thing, and more than skill in financial slight of hand. It is going to take courage, wisdom, steadfastness, and character. I ask you where in the financial policies of this administration to date do you find satisfactory evidence that these will be forthcoming?"

McNair predicted a substantial rise in prices, but not a rapid one. "Prices may reach the 1919 level, but probably not before 1939 or later," he said.

"There is a possibility, but it is almost too much to hope, that credit inflation can be controled during the next upward movement of business before the business boom reaches heights which make another bad business depression inevitable.

Fears Money Inflation.

"There is a very distinct danger that vascillating politically expedient policies on the part of the government will permit a credit inflation starting in the period of recovery to run into monetary inflation."

McNair said inflation in its milder form is already here, if the term is used to designate such conditions as an unbalanced budget, an irredeemable paper currency and a government controled central banking mechanism which has at its command all the necessary devices for the practically indefinite issue of thinly camouflaged greenbacks.

McNair said the Supreme court's NRA decision over the long run will be enormously helpful to the cause of real business recovery. For the short run it probably will have retarding effects on business activity because it creates some understandable confusion, he added.

Outlook Is Clouded.

Carl N. Schmalz, also a member of the Harvard business bureau staf, asserted that the outlook for department stores for the remaining months of 1935 and the early months of 1936 is clouded. He said that under the most favorable circumstances department and specialty stores may experience a continuation of recovery at a moderate rate, with sales running from 5 to 10 per cent over the preceding year.

Discussing the earnings record of department stores for 1934 Schmalz said that net earnings amounted to 2.6 per cent of sales, which totaled $1,311,980,000. He said the improvement in earnings was due almost entirely to the increase in sales volume, which roughly stood at 11 per cent over 1933.

STRIVE TO SPEED HOUSE ACTION ON UTILITY RULE

Deadlock on Move for Revision.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—An early showdown before the house interstate commerce committee on the Wheeler-Rayburn utility holding company control bill and defeat, in favor of regulatory control, of present provisions requiring outright dissolution of holding units by 1942, was predicted by some committee members today as Speaker Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] failed in an effort to break a deadlock in a subcommittee group.

The subcommittee handling the controverted section, headed by Representative Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] is understood to stand four to two against adoption of the bill in its present form and to favor strict federal regulation of holding company operations, with dissolution to be gradually attained.

Demands Quick Action.

"I have talked to several members of the committee," Byrns said, "but I have not discussed the merits of regulation or abolition. I simply made it a point to stress the necessity of the committee doing something and reporting a bill to the house."

The speaker is known to prefer regulation to dissolution of the holding units and recently said that if any but a regulatory measure were reported to the house, the resulting controversy would probably postpone adjournment indefinitely and place the fate of the bill in doubt.

Representative Pettengill of Indiana, one of the subcommittee group who opposed the present drastic dissolution requirement, said in a statement that if the senate bill became law "it will receive another devastating rebuke from the Supreme court." He is one of the four subcommittee members now holding out for regulatory control, there being another Democrat and two Republicans sharing his view.

"Death Sentence Illegal."

"The death sentence in the senate bill is unnecessary," Pettengill asserted. "It is unconstitutional. It is deflationary. It is destructive of recovery. It will freeze uncertainty. Business cannot go forward—men cannot go back to work—with a death sentence over their heads.

"I will go as far as any man in Washington to correct future abuses. But I am more interested in future recovery than in past abuses. I would rather put a million idle men to work than to vent my anger upon the crooks in the utility game for crimes already committed."

Pettengill quoted from an address by Woodrow Wilson to the American Bar association in 1910 to the effect that corporations could not be punished, for in the attempt, the innocent suffer more than the guilty.

Talk of Unusual Tactics.

There was other talk during the day about the possible use of highly unusual parliamentary tactics to get the senate bill to a vote unless the interstate commerce committee acts soon.

Rayburn has disavowed, and with bitter language, his intention to approve any such procedure. But one Democrat said that the house rules committee could report out a special resolution making it in order to consider any bill, regardless of whether that bill had been approved by another committee.

Chairman O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] of the rules committee asserted, however, that nothing of that kind was in contemplation.

PLAN FOR POSTAL REORGANIZATION EXPECTED TODAY

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—A plan to reorganize the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation is virtually certain to be presented and acted upon at the meeting of directors tomorrow, the meeting having been adjourned from today owing to the unavoidable absence of certain directors from the city.

The operating deficit of the land lines of the company has been moderately reduced this year, but earnings are far below the point necessary to support the existing capital structure, and for a number of years bond interest has been met by borrowing and sale of assets.

The latest annual report revealed clearly that further liquidation of assets was impossible, hence only a last minute decision of International Telephone and Telegraph company, the parent company, to advance funds for the July 1 interest on Postal bonds would permit the company to avoid going into default.

CANADIAN BONDS DRAW NO BIDS; 'PLOT' ALLEGED

TORONTO, June 12.—(AP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said today the government had received no bids for the $15,000,000 bond issue for which tenders had to be submitted by noon today. He alleged a "conspiracy" existed against the government.

Premier Hepburn said he knew last night that investment dealers had agreed among themselves not to make an offer for the bonds as a result of the power commission's refusal to accept further deliveries of power from the McLaren-Quebec Power company.

The premier did not disclose how he proposed to accomplish the financing. He has previously stated if Canadian banks did nothing he would go to the New York money market.

Harris Trust Declares Regular $1.50 Dividend

Directors of the Harris Trust and Savings bank yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable July 1 to stock of record June 15.

Senate's Vote on Power Bill Spreads Gloom

Chicago utility executives were disheartened yesterday by the senate's defeat by a one vote margin of the proposed amendment to the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill which would have eliminated the "death sentence" for holding companies.

Passage of the bill had been generally expected but utility men were hopeful that drastic holding company rules would be modified. Pending action by the house of representatives, however, utility officials were not inclined to discuss the bill publicly yesterday.

J. J. O'Brien, president of the Standard Gas & Electric company, said he would reserve comment until the house had acted.

Byllesby Interests Affected.

The Byllesby utility interests, of which Standard Gas is a key system, would be directly affected by the provision of the bill calling for the abolishment of holding units. Other large companies controling properties in many states would likewise be hard hit. Among the largest of these are the Associated Gas and Electric company, Commonwealth & Southern corporation, Columbia Gas and Electric, North American company, American Gas & Electric company and others.

The two big Chicago district utilities, Commonwealth Edison and Public Service of Northern Illinois, would not be seriously affected by the holding company rule but would be forced to make changes to comply with other features of the act. Officials of the two companies had no comment to make yesterday on the senate's action.

Plan to Continue Fight.

Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, said yesterday that while the defeat encountered in the senate was disappointing the federation would continue its fight to have the house modify the measure. Dr. Magill is now in Washington representing the federation in its fight on the bill.

A majority of senators admitted in private conversation that they were in favor of the Dieterich amendment and only voted against it under pressure from the White House, Dr. Magill asserted.

"The significant thing is that in spite of the executive pressure so many prominent Democrats refused to endorse destructive features of the bill," he added. "Another important factor is that many of the proponents of the bill openly declared war not only against utility holding companies, but against the whole holding company system in all kinds of business.

Sees Issue Broadened.

"This broadens the issue and makes clear the attitude of the administration toward the business and financial structure of the country, since 85 per cent of American business is operated under the holding company system."

Dr. Magill added that the federation would do everything in its power to secure adoption of the Dieterich amendment in the house. "At present," he said, "a majority of the members of the house committee favor the adoption of this amendment removing the 'death sentence' from the bill. Whether or not administration pressure will overcome recommendations of the committee and secure passage of the bill in the drastic form in which it passed the senate is the vital question of this time."

RAILROAD ACT EXTENSION VOTED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Complying with President Roosevelt's request, as the senate had done recently in passing the measure, a year's extension of the Emergency Railroad Transportation act of 1933 and the office of coördinator of transportation for which it provides, was approved today by the house interstate commerce committee.

The committee struck from the resolution provision for continuing in effect the present assessment on the railroads of $2 a mile of road from which the coördinator's activities have been financed. Continuance of the assessment had been urged by Coördinator Eastman and had been provided by the senate.

Deletion of the assessment section raised the question of where the required funds would be obtained, as the act itself carries no appropriation. Administration supporters in the committee said that, if necessary, an allotment could be obtained from the $4,000,000,000 public works fund.

Deletion of the assessment provision came as a surprise inasmuch as questions relating to its merit came almost entirely from the Republican minority in the committee. A total of $927,000 has been collected in these assessments during the two years' operation of the law.

MAINE POTATOES 10C A BARREL AS GROWERS UNLOAD

Fort Fairfield, Me., June 12.—(AP)—Potatoes in this community, a part of the Maine potato empire, today sold as low as 10 cents a barrel, less than the cost of storage. Many producers were seeking to unload their surplus at starch factories, which paid 15 cents.

Long lines of trucks, sometimes as many as 32 at a time, awaited their turn to unload at starch plants. One local farmer was reported to have made a gift of 2,000 barrels of potatoes to a Fort Fairfield shipper.

Standard to Boost Gas Prices 3-10 Cent a Gallon

Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced yesterday that tank wagon and service station prices of all grades of motor gasoline will be advanced three-tenths of a cent tomorrow morning throughout the area served by the company, applying to subnormal as well as normal prices. The advance is necessitated by recent increases in wholesale prices for gasoline, the company stated. The new prices, beginning tomorrow, will be 17½ cents a gallon for standard grade, 19¼ cents for ethyl and 16½ cents for the third grade.

UTILITY SHARES TURN LOWER; OTHERS MIXED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 12.—The stock market failed to be shaken to any considerable extent today by the senate's passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill. The market was mixed at the opening, but recovered easily from the early unsettlement caused by liquidation in the power and light shares.

Midafternoon witnessed prices at their best levels of the day with a number of industrials at new highs, and gains in the most active stocks, with the reception of the utilities, were as much as 1 and 2 points. The betterment was not sustained, however, as profit taking induced by the fall in wheat prices made its appearance, and gains and losses were about evenly divided at the close.

Carrier Group Active.

Activity in the carrier division of the list was one of the features of the day's proceedings, and was believed to reflect the better sentiment in speculative quarters.

Selling in the utilities made its appearance at the opening. They were able to show only slight rallying power despite hope in the financial district that the bill would not become law in its present form, and that even if it did the results would not be disastrous. At the closing gong losses were: American Telephone, 1¾ points, American Water Works, 1⅛; Detroit Edison, 2½; Pacific Telephone, 2; Pacific Gas, 1¼; Public Service of New Jersey, 1, and Peoples Gas, 1⅛. Losses in most of the others were confined to fractions.

Price Changes Narrow.

Except for one or two issues, price changes in the rails were restricted to fractions, but demand was good. Great Northern reached a new high level and Atchison moved up over a point. New York and Harlem duplicated its best price in two years on a rise of 11 points. Reading rose 2 points, Union Pacific went counter to the trend, dropping more than a point.

The persistent demand for the rails was attributed to the improvement in car loadings. With larger crops in prospect and with improvement ahead in ore, lumber, and general merchandise, traders feel better things are in store for the carriers.

American Can continued an outstanding performer among the "blue chips." The close found it 2 points below its best price of the day but nevertheless the issue finished at a new high. Eastman Kodak and du Point were other high priced issues to advance.

Silver Group Declines.

Hazel Atlas Glass added $4 to its value to set a new high. Owens Glass and Libby Owens were lower. Guantanamo Sugar preferred lost $12.

MODIFIED PLAN IS APPROVED FOR SOUTH SHORE LINE

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Recommendation for approval of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad's reorganization plan, with modifications, filed under section 77 of the bankruptcy law, was made by the interstate commerce commission's bureau of finance here today.

The plan submitted by the company provides for a first mortgage secured by all assets of the company, against which three issues of bonds would be sold. The exchange of the class B preferred share for share for new no par common stock and the exchange of five shares of outstanding common for each new no par common share was termed "reasonable" by the bureau.

The plan, after modification by the bureau, calls for annual fixed interest and sinking fund charges of $80,460 on the series B mortgage bonds, first preferred stock dividends of $271,980, and second preferred stock dividends of $126,594. The commerce commission must approve the plan unanimously before it can be put into effect, according to officials here.

ST. LOUIS BANKER TO AID RFC IN OLD DAWES BANK LOAN

St. Louis, Mo., June 12.—[Special.]—William C. Fordyce, St. Louis banker, will leave here Sunday night for Chicago, where he will assist in the job of liquidating the $90,000,000 loan to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company made by the RFC. Appointment of Fordyce to aid in liquidating collateral held by the RFC was announced Tuesday.

Fordyce said he is not familiar with the nature of the collateral securing the loan and would be unable to indicate what steps he would take until he had studied the schedule of securities involved. He estimated the job would require about a month to complete.

He has been an associate director of the housing administration for the eastern district of Missouri for the last five months.

Babson Advice Likely to Prove Disconcerting

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Mr. Roger Babson, the statistics merchant, in an address, remarkable chiefly for the things it left unexplained, yesterday advised members of the Boston chamber of commerce as follows:

"Quit worrying. Forget Washington. Prepare for inflation."

Ninety-five per cent of the property owners and the great majority of business men, said Babson, are worrying about inflation when they should be preparing to profit from it.

"Inflation of some kind surely is coming," he said. "Our dollar now is worth only 60 cents abroad. It is only a question of time when it will be worth only 60 cents or much less in the United States."

* *

As means of protecting one's assets against the danger of depreciation through inflation he offered the following assortment of suggestions, paraphrased here for the sake of brevty:

1. Ownership of stock in companies owning great natural resources.
2. Spending money now to develop the character, health, and education of your children.
3. Purchase of real property—factories, stores, houses, apartment buildings—and protecting it against fire loss by sprinkler systems rather than by fire insurance.
4. Protect yourself against illness and accidents so that in case you are cleaned out financially you are in fit physical condition to start making a comeback.

* *

"We know inflation is coming, from which many business men will prosper greatly. . . . The average business man today, by not preparing for inflation, is like one going into a cold winter with empty coal bins, or out in a pouring rain without a raincoat."

The "raincoat," presumably, is a sprinkler system to protect your house against fire because if it burns down inflation will have so undermined the purchasing power of the fire insurance money that it would fall far short of providing enough to build a new house at the inflated price level.

If Mr. Babson is right in his prediction that inflation is coming and that the dollar is going to be worth "only sixty cents or much less," his advice to "Quit worrying; prepare for inflation" might well be translated, "Face disaster with a grin."

* *

The history in all nations of the kind of inflation that Mr. Babson predicts has been that nobody profits from it except a few wealthy speculators—usually with political connections. The ordinary business man, the wage earner, the bank depositor, the insurance policy holder, and the investor not only fail to profit, but suffer great loss on what they possess.

The fellow who owns a house, an apartment building, or a business structure may see the value of his real property appreciate in terms of depreciating money, but in terms of the purchasing power of that money it actually becomes worthless. And if there's a mortgage on it the burden of payments on that mortgage becomes heavier rather than lighter, because increased living and operating expenses eat into that surplus part of his earnings which formerly he had been able to devote to debt and interest payments.

Stock ownership is only a partial hedge, because stock prices in a real inflation debauch go up on the average much more slowly than the value of money goes down.

Telling the rank and file of American business men to prepare for inflation is like telling Kansas farmers to prepare for drouth. Contrary to Mr. Babson's sugar coated advice to "quit worrying" and "forget Washington," most business men believe that the only way to forestall ruinous currency inflation is to keep on worrying and arguing against the extravagant and inflationary spending policies of the New Deal with the knowledge that only a tapering off of the federal deficit can save the currency.

At a time when American business men are striving desperately to foster clear thinking on economic and business matters Prophet Babson's "Quit worrying; prepare for inflation" speech is likely to prove disconcerting.

A hand car crew of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad established a new world's record yesterday by being the first to bump into a movie truck, when it jumped a track in the loop. The crew, participating in a race from Madison and Franklin streets to the Merchandise Mart over tracks of the Surface lines on Franklin, was nosed out by the winning Burlington team consisting of Joe Costello, Joe Tellao, Mike Diaz, and J. Anguine, which made the run in 2 minutes, 13 seconds.

The event, a part of Chicago's celebration of Railroad week, uncovered another winner. A strong voiced station caller from the Rock Island—Jack Barrowcliffe—was awarded a silver loving cup for his performance in calling fourteen towns with an "all aboard" thrown in for good measure without a slip of the tongue. Barrowcliffe, an announcer at the La Salle street station, called towns located on the Milwaukee road.

FRANC RALLIES AFTER DROP, BUT CLOSE IS LOWER

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—News of the banking difficulties in Switzerland added to the pressure on the gold bloc currencies today. The franc fell temporarily below the gold import point once more, but was given support, while the Swiss franc and Netherlands guilder both rallied, presumably on official support.

The franc closed at 6.59⅛ cents, off ¼ point. At this price the value of the dollar against francs was $1.0056, compared with $1.0052 yesterday, and based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.40 cents, compared with 59.37.

Dutch guilders rose above the gold export point after dipping slightly under it yesterday. The close today at 67.65 cents was a gain of 3 points and placed the guilder ½ point above the gold export level. Swiss francs rose 2 points to 32.64 cents.

No engagements of gold abroad for shipment here were reported, but $29,535,300 gold from France and $7,776,000 from Holland were received at the federal reserve bank.

Food Price Index Declines to Near Low Mark of Year

The weekly food index compiled by Dun & Bradstreet declined 1 cent, to $2.59, for the period ended June 11, continuing the irregular decline of the last few months. The Jan. 1 index of $2.58 marked the low point for this year to date. The high of $2.76 was registered on Feb. 12.

Insurance Bill Passes House Little Changed

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—The house today passed the new Illinois insurance code proposed by Director of Insurance Ernest Palmer "95 per cent as introduced" and sent it to the senate. The vote was 105 in favor of the code and 12 against.

Director Palmer said that the code as voted by the house was substantially the same as that proposed by him several months ago. A number of amendments were adopted, none of which, according to Palmer, materially weakens the department's proposed increase in control over insurance companies. Palmer said that he expected a favorable vote in the senate. Gov. Horner has already announced that he favors the new code.

Most Changes Rejected.

During the last few weeks the house has heard the objections of many insurance company representatives to various provisions of the code. A few of their suggested amendments have been adopted, but the bulk of them has been rejected.

According to Director Palmer enactment of the code would put Illinois in the forefront of states in regulating insurance companies.

For a time the number of empty seats in the house and silent members made it seem as though the bill would fail, but returning members and "pep" speeches finally brought the wide-margined tally.

Objections were numerous and diverse. It was claimed that fire insurance companies, for example, could not operate in the state if the code becomes law. Another argument was that the code "would set up the director of insurance as a dictator," as A. A. Brands [Dem., Prairie du Rocher] put it.

Give Strong Support.

Contrasting was the forceful attitude of Minority Leader L. M. Green [Rep., Rockford], who declared the code good legislation, and the added support from another Republican leader, Frank A. McCarthy of Elgin.

On the Democratic side, Adamowski, who handled the legislation, had good support from Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, former majority leader, and George A. Fitzgerald of Chicago, chairman of the commission which drew the code.

"If you don't," Fitzgerald retorted, "it's your own fault. Every section of this bill has been explained in sessions of the house sitting as a committee of the whole. Objections have been answered, and an adequate digest issued which condensed the provisions."

Another Streamlined Train for Chicago Run Completed

St. Charles, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad's second streamlined train for the Chicago-St. Louis run left the shops here today for a series of tests and exhibitions. The train is built of an aluminum compound which reduces its weight to about half that of an ordinary train. It is air-conditioned.

3 FIRMS PLAN TO REFUND 143 MILLION BONDS

Bethlehem Steel Deal Largest.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—Three corporations today filed applications with the securities commission to float $143,000,000 in new refunding bond issues. Today's filings brought the June total to date to $230,000,000 and the total so far this year to $900,000,000, with the possibility of its touching the billion mark before July 1.

J. P. KENNEDY.

Bethlehem Steel corporation led the list with $55,000,000, the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston was next with $53,000,000, and the Southern California Edison company came third with $35,000,000.

Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the commission, asserting these issues were added proof that present government requirements are adequate for financing, announced two new plans.

Plan Change in Act.

He disclosed the commission plans to make recommendations to the next congress for changes in the securities act in the light of experience gained under actual administration, and that conferences with accountants are proceeding looking toward further simplification of commission requirements.

This latter plan involved the elimination of needless information and modification of auditors' statements to obtain more specific knowledge of a company's bookkeeping methods. Most of the proceeds to be received from the issues proposed today will be used to redeem older issues bearing a higher interest rate.

The Bethlehem issue, consisting of 25 year 4.25 per cent bonds, due July 1, 1960, will be used to redeem $29,214,000 of Midvale Steel and Ordnance company 5 per cent bonds and $22,304,000 of Bethlehem, Pa., Steel company 5 per cent bonds, with the balance for general corporate purposes.

Decide on Interest Later.

The interest rate on the Edison Electric offering will be disclosed later. Proceeds are to be used to redeem $35,000,000 in coupon notes due July 16, 1937, and $20,000,000 coupon notes due Nov. 2, 1937. Additional funds for the transaction will be taken from the company's treasury.

Southern California Edison will use $32,000,000 of its issue to retire that amount of 5 per cent bonds, due 1952. The new bonds bear a 3.75 per cent interest rate.

VOLUNTARY CODE PLAN CONSIDERED BY TRADE GROUP

National Chamber Will Revise Program.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—A thorough revision of the program of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in the light of NRA's passing was disclosed today as the first objective of a directors' meeting called for Saturday.

Especial attention will be given to the possibilities of voluntary business agreements as successors to the Blue Eagle's codes. The directors' meeting will be preceded by a session of the chamber's senior council, scheduled for tomorrow. It is composed of former presidents of the organization and its function is to formulate suggestions for the directors.

Indorses Voluntary Plan.

Harper Sibly, newly elected president of the chamber, has already set the keynote for the meeting with statements and speeches endorsing the proposed voluntary agreements. His view is that industry and commerce are now free to regulate and police themselves with a minimum of governmental interference. The result, he holds, should be a quickening in the tempo of business.

His enthusiasm for the voluntary agreements is not shared by President Roosevelt although the chief executive has said he would like to see such agreements attempted, and expressed a hope that they might prove effective.

Seek "Model" Agreement.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Establishment of a joint committee, composed of trade association executives in New York, and members of the American Arbitration association, to consider the drafting of a "model" voluntary trade agreement to be applied to industries in place of NRA codes was voted today at a meeting of representatives of forty-eight trade associations.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.35c per lb for spots. Local refiners seemed interested at this level, but only for July or August shipment, and these were generally held at 3.40c.

Futures were irregular, closing from 1 point lower to 2 net higher. Sales were 13,050 tons in the No. 3 contract and 2,700 tons in the No. 1, including considerable exchanging from the near to the more distant positions and from the old to the new crop deliveries.

Reports from Washington that recommendation for the continuance of the sugar act for another year were included in amendments to the agricultural adjustment act led to scattered trade and commission house buying.

LONG-SHORT HAUL CLAUSE WALLS IN MIDWEST: HAYNES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Chicagoland industries are walled in and their trade curtailed by the long and short haul restrictions in the interstate commerce act, J. P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, told a house of representatives subcommittee today.

The subcommittee, which is considering the Pettengill bill to repeal the long and short haul freight regulation, was informed by Haynes that a score of shippers, many from the Chicago area, intend to appear to support the repealer.

He said repeal of the act would enable the railroads to meet competition of water and truck transportation and would enable middle western manufacturers to compete on an equal basis with their competitors.

Haynes made his plea on behalf of the National Industrial Traffic league, which, he said, represents several hundred thousand shippers.

Charges Act Creates Monopoly.

The speaker charged the present law prevents and suppresses competition between transportation agencies and manufacturers and shippers, thus tending to promote monopoly.

Haynes said that unquestionably the public interest is best served when commerce is permitted to move freely over all available transportation agencies. He asserted that competition in general has been a powerful influence in the development of American trade and commerce, and the competition between transportation agencies has without doubt represented as great an influence in this respect as has the competition between manufacturers.

However, he explained, the railroads have been placed under restrictions with respect to their rates, and as their power to regulate their charges is curtailed so is the public deprived of their initiative and usefulness. These restrictions were imposed at a time when the railroads had a monopoly on transportation, but now that this no longer exists they should be removed, he said.

Interior at Disadvantage.

The inability of the roads to set up rates which would enable them to compete with the shipping lines using the Panama canal places interior manufacturers at a disadvantage with their competitors on the seaboards in going after business at places easily accessible to water shipping, he continued.

"An example of how the act discriminates," said Haynes, "is that of the Western Cartridge company, manufacturers of ammunition, brass and powder, located at East Alton, Ill. Formerly, it was necessary for them to maintain a warehouse in San Francisco in order to compete with eastern manufacturers. About three years ago they purchased outright the Winchester Repeating Arms company located at New Haven, Conn., and the goods are now manufactured at the New Haven plant and shipped via water routes. Since then, no ammunition is shipped from the East Alton plant which would be more economically transported by water from the New Haven plant."

AIR REDUCTION DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND OF $1

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Air Reduction company today declared an extra dividend of $1 and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents. Charles E. Adams, president, said it has been the policy of the directors for some years to declare, if warranted, an extra dividend in October. The extra dividend now declared is not intended to be in lieu of such dividend in the third quarter and the subject again will be considered at the meeting of the board in September."

Fifth Avenue bank declared a special dividend of $10 a share on capital stock. Addressograph-Multigraph voted a payment of 15 cents a share on common. The first distribution since April 11, 1932, when 25 cents was paid.

Directors of the Electric Auto-Lite company voted the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the 45,000 shares of preferred stock.

Two Millionth V-8 Ford to Come Off Lines Today

Dearborn, Mich., June 12.—[Special.]—The two millionth V-8 Ford, the one millionth Ford produced in less than 12 months and the 23 millionth-odd Ford built in the last 32 years, will come off the final assembly line at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company tomorrow morning.

BUTTER STOCKS NEAR RECORD HIGH; SUPPLY OF EGGS DECLINES

A total of 27,410,000 pounds of butter was placed in cold storage throughout the country in May, or only 11,000 pounds under the all time record for that month established in 1930. Total stocks June 1, according to the bureau of agricultural economics, were 33,086,000 pounds, compared with 27,161,000 pounds a year ago and a 5 year average of 35,403,000 pounds.

The into storage movement of eggs was in striking contrast to that of butter, supplies of the former showing the smallest gain for May in the last 12 years with the exception of 1932. The total now is 6,366,000 cases of 30 dozen each compared with 7,819,000 cases a year ago and a 5 year average of 7,666,000 cases.

Supplies of frozen eggs of 84,741,000 pounds fell over 9,000,000 pounds under the total of a year ago, and nearly 13,000,000 pounds below the 5 year average. Stocks of cheese June 1 were nearly 10,000,000 pounds less than a year ago, while poultry showed a gain of 8,521,000 pounds. Detailed stocks follow, last three ciphers omitted:

CHICAGO HOUSING DRIVE TO BE LED BY MAYOR KELLY

Expect to Finish Plans at Parley Today.

BY AL CHASE.

Mayor Kelly will be the chief figure in meetings today and tomorrow sponsored by the federal housing administration to further this city's participation in city and national drives for more home building and modernization through FHA insured loans.

A meeting of members of the newly formed executive committee of the Chicago Association of Better Housing committees will be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the city hall council chamber.

Expect to Complete Plans.

At this session it is expected the drafting of plans for an intensive drive of Chicago's better housing program will be completed, according to Gael Sullivan, administrative secretary of the association. After a brief speech by the mayor, Percy Wilson, regional director of the FHA, will outline the scope of that organization. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy will discuss the women's interest in homes.

The work of the committees actually began Monday morning, when approximately 1,000 field workers began a citywide house to house campaign to inform property owners about the FHA and its functions.

The newly formed executive committee of the association is made up of twenty-two members, each a subchairman of a division of civic or business activity. Col. A. A. Sprague heads the finance unit; Holman D. Pettibone is chairman of the loans division. D. F. Kelly represents retail merchants.

Brundage Heads Contractors.

Avery Brundage is chairman of the contractors division and Martin Durkin the labor contingent. John Bowers, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, represents real estate interests, and R. C. Creviston of the Crane company, the building material dealers.

The mayor will be a guest tomorrow noon at a "better housing day" luncheon at the Palmer house, to which the heads of twenty suburban municipalities have been invited. Plans will be announced for the local observance of the national better housing day Saturday. Throughout the nation more than 2,000 homes are expected to be started simultaneously on that day. Approximately 75 dwellings will get under way in metropolitan Chicago, it is estimated by Carroll H. Sudler, district director for northern Illinois.

STORES' SALES RISE, BUT FALL BELOW YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the United States during May dropped 1 per cent below those of a year ago, but, making allowances for seasonal factors, there was an improvement over the preceding month of this year, the federal reserve board announced yesterday.

The board's index of sales reported by the twelve federal reserve districts stood at 76 in May, compared with 73 in April, and 82 in March. The index, which is based on the 1923-'25 average as 100, makes allowances for differences in the number of business days and for usual seasonal movements, including changes in the date of Easter.

Eastern and middle western trade in general dropped below 1934, the south held about steady, and the far west showed substantial improvement.

Trade in the Chicago district remained unchanged from a year ago. San Francisco led all areas with an advance of 11 per cent. Minneapolis had a gain of 3 per cent. Trade in the Atlanta district rose 2 per cent and Dallas gained 1 per cent. Sales in the Richmond district were unchanged.

Percentage declines from May of last year were as follows: Cleveland and St. Louis, 8 per cent; Kansas City, 7; New York and Philadelphia, 4, and Boston, 2.

For the first five months of the year department store sales were 2 per cent above a year ago. Trade in San Francisco again showed the most improvement with an upturn of 9 per cent. Chicago was next, gaining 7 per cent.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE DOWN 3 TO 15 POINTS

Increased pressure made its appearance in the cotton markets yesterday, and while new crop months received fairly good support from commission houses, prices averaged lower with Chicago off 4 to 15 points at the close, while other markets were 3 to 12 points lower.

The first bales of new crop Texas cotton are expected to be ginned within the next few days, and there was some selling in New York which was attributed to further curtailment of operations on the part of mills in the southeastern area.

Consumption of American cotton during May, as estimated by the New York Cotton exchange service, at 448,000 bales, compared with 463,000 bales in April and with 519,000 bales last year. Spot cotton closed 5 to 10 points lower with New Orleans 11.95 cents and Galveston, Houston, and New York at 11.80 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

Power Output Peak for Week; Steel Rate Falls to 39½ Pct.

Chicago Production Drops Below Year Ago.

Electric power output in the United States last week reached the highest level on record for the first week in June, the Edison Electric institute announced yesterday. The total of 1,724,491,000 kilowatt hours was 4.2 per cent above a year ago, the largest marginal gain over 1934 since the second week of April.

The total was 5.9 per cent above the 1,628,520,000 kilowatt hours reported for the preceding week of this year, and the gain over a year ago compared with an increase of only 3.3 per cent in the preceding week of this year.

Chicago Output Lower.

In the Chicago district, power production amounted to 97,113,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 91,451,000 in the preceding week and 99,382,000 in the corresponding week of last year, the Commonwealth Edison company announced.

The Chicago decline of 2.3 per cent from a year ago was the second successive week in which the total fell below the corresponding week of 1934. This drop was explained by the abnormally hot weather a year ago, lifting the refrigeration load; also A Century of Progress was open. These factors more than offset the darker weather this year.

Changes by Divisions.

Gains over a year ago for the various sections of the country were as follows: Rocky mountain, 19.9 per cent; Pacific coast, 9; New England, 6.8; southern states, 6, and middle Atlantic, 3.8 per cent.

In the central industrial area production dipped 0.3 per cent below a year ago and in the west central states there was a decline of 1.2 per cent.

The Associated Press adjusted weekly index of electric power production jumped 1.6 points for the last week to 97.0, reflecting a substantially larger than seasonal gain in power output for the seven days following the Memorial day week. A year ago the index stood at 96.1.

Seasonal Lull Cuts Mills Activity; Prices Steady.

Seasonal forces continue to cut into steel production with the national rate falling 2 points to 39½ per cent of productive capacity, the magazine Iron Age reported yesterday. While fuel prices have broken and scrap has a weaker tone, prices of finished steel and pig iron are holding steady.

Vague rumors are afloat concerning alleged price concessions, the journal says, but the only irregularities uncovered concern intricate details as to extras, about which there were diverse interpretations even under the code, and distributors' resale quotations, which had been decidedly unstable in certain products for months before the Schecter case killed the NRA.

Buyers Not Antagonistic.

"Many buyers, especially those of executive rank, are openly sympathetic with the determination of the industry to maintain a stable situation, but all consumers, regardless of their attitude, are following a policy of caution until the market has been given a real test."

Business is entering the customary dull season and there are few attractive tonnages in sight, the journal continues. Steel buying for current models of automobiles is completed, with the possible exception of Chevrolet.

Pittsburgh Output Rises.

Production at Pittsburgh since last week has risen 1 point to 35 per cent due to the rolling of a recent rail order. The rate fell 1½ points to 42 per cent in Chicago, 6 to 42 in the valleys, 2 to 43 in the Cleveland-Lorain area, 6 to 35 at Buffalo, and 15 to 48 in the Wheeling district. Operations at Detroit remain at 95 per cent of capacity.

A reduction in scrap prices here has reduced the magazine's composite price for heavy melting scrap from $10.83 to $10.71 a ton, but the composite prices for pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $17.84 a ton and 2.124 cents a pound, respectively.

PAPER & POWER HEAD CONFIDENT OF TRADE FUTURE

Reports Perplexity in Present Business.

Boston, Mass., June 12.—[Special.]—Long range confidence but immediate perplexity in the business of International Paper and Power company was expressed by President A. R. Graustein at the annual stockholders' meeting here today. Stockholder bickerings on the question of officials' salaries in view of the lack of dividends, and the revelation of President Graustein's investment in the company enlivened the session.

Ratification of liquidation of International Securities company, with division of its assets between International Paper company and International Paper and Power company, reëlection of the present 12 directors and temporary addition of five officers of the company to the board rounded out the day's business.

Taxes, Rate Cuts Felt.

Graustein cited increased taxation and rate reductions as the two main obstacles of the company's utility business. This combination has severely affected the company's earnings. He spoke of a possible separation of power properties from the rest of the system if the Wheeler-Rayburn bill becomes law, and even a divorce of the power units from each other. It may be several years before the utility industry can overcome the handicap of higher taxes and public pressure, he asserted.

The paper division during the year reduced funded debt, increased working capital, and put back substantial sums into property to increase efficiency, he pointed out. He classed volume in the paper business as "reasonably satisfactory," with publishers' consumption of newsprint 7 to 8 per cent above 1933. The price of newsprint is inadequate, he said. The company is selling newsprint at a loss of several dollars a ton, figuring in interest and depreciation, he went on.

Debt Reduced $3,420,000.

Graustein said that the paper end of the business reduced its debt $3,420,000 during the year, and spent $1,112,000 in special repairs and $1,398,000 on capital account in addition to ordinary maintenance to increase property efficiency. The company's working capital was $228,000 higher at the end of 1934, and $1,000,000 bank debt was liquidated.

Graustein revealed he owns between 200,000 and 300,000 shares of A, B, and C common stock and between 2,000 and 3,000 shares of preferred. He said that his investment had no bearing on his $95,000 salary.

CHICAGO BUILDING CODE IS GIVEN TO COUNCIL GROUP

Chicago's new building code, on which various revision committees have been laboring for nearly nine years, was submitted to the city council subcommittee on building yesterday by F. J. Thielbar, chairman of a committee named by Mayor Kelly in January, 1934, to complete the task.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the subcommittee, said that a public reading of the code probably will be started next week. The code will effect large savings in construction costs because it permits wider latitude in the use of materials and in architectural design than is allowed under the present law, in effect since 1911, Thielbar said. At the same time the buildings will be safer and more fireproof, he declared.

Nickel Plate Road Asks Extension of RFC Loans

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Application for extension to Feb. 1, 1940, of 24 RFC loans totaling $8,811,587, maturing July 27 and Oct. 1, was filed with the interstate commerce commission today by the New York, Chicago, and St. Louis Railway. No change in collateral was proposed.

HARPER'S BIG WHEAT CORNER CRASHED JUST 48 YEARS AGO TODAY

To a few old timers on the Chicago Board of Trade today is an important anniversary in the history of the exchange. It was on June 13, 1887, forty-eight years ago, that the historic Harper wheat deal reached its climax. The unfolding of that attempt to corner the wheat market resulted in more than a score of failures among members of the exchange.

How Harper, a Cincinnati banker, and a group of associates bought up more than 40 million bushels of wheat in their desperate campaign was told as if it had happened only a few months ago. Harper was eventually sent to prison for looting the assets of his own bank and the brokers through whom he had operated were forced into bankruptcy.

The crisis in the affairs of the Harper crowd arose June 13, but it was the following day that the market reflected the failure. Wheat dropped 19 cents a bushel in a scene of the wildest excitement. Many houses failed that day and others followed a few days later.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of that day described the scene as follows: "In the wheat pit several hundred men are packed together so tightly in an immense dished space that simply to stand there for a few moments entails little short of suffocation and makes one perspire as if he were in a hot bath. Then add to this the fact that a great majority are in a state of the wildest excitement, gesticulating fiercely and shouting till hoarse in the effort to make themselves heard above the din, which is little short of infernal. The hope of immense gain or the fear of ruinous loss adds to the feverishness of the system, and if to this is added the fact that not a few in the pit had been up nearly all the previous night trying to balance their books and see just where they stood the acme of exhaustion may be conceived, but can scarcely be described."

Bruchholz Named Head of Chicago Life Group

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES STEADY IN LIGHT TRADING

Trade in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was somewhat restricted yesterday, operators preferring to await the government report on supplies in cold storage throughout the country before taking an aggressive stand on either side. Little change was shown in the leading deliveries for the day.

The into storage movement of butter at the four leading cities on Tuesday was reported as 1,300,000 pounds, compared with 500,000 pounds last year. The Land O'Lakes association reported production last week was 8 per cent in excess of the preceding week and 14 per cent above the corresponding period last year. Sales of butter were 71 cars; eggs 45 cars; cheese 1 car and potatoes 3 cars. Prices follow:

WHEAT PRICES BREAK SHARPLY; SUPPORT FAILS

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The steady deflation in wheat values that has been under way in the Chicago market for the last seven weeks gained momentum yesterday when a wide open break developed in the last hour of trading, carrying prices down nearly 3 cents a bushel. The decline brought the market to the lowest level since trading in the current futures began.

At the close July wheat, the principal future, was quoted at 80¾ cents a bushel, 2¾ cents below Tuesday's price, and 19¼ cents under the level at which it was selling about two months ago.

News Is Not Unusual.

The sudden sharp drop in prices was not accompanied by any unusual news bearing on the crop outlook or the market prospects. Trading opened quietly and the market remained dull until noon, when a moderate trickle of liquidation began. With firm buying support lacking, the pins were quickly knocked from under the market. More selling came out from traders who sought to limit losses on their holdings of wheat and the market slid faster. There was little recovery, and final quotations on wheat were an eighth cent above the low figures of the day.

Oats	.34⅝	.35¼	.33⅞
Rye	.45¾	.47½	.49

Reasons for Lack of Buying.

The vulnerable position of the market revealed by yesterday's break indicates the extent to which speculative buying support has been withdrawn. The nearness of the new crop movement, the promising crop outlook in this country, and the prospect of stiff competition for markets among exporting countries during the next year make up the background for the downward price adjustment.

Harvesting operations are now getting under way in the southwest wheat region. Another ten days will see operations in full swing in that area. Messages yesterday said that mills are contracting for new Oklahoma wheat. The harvest will move gradually northward.

Canadian Situation Menaces.

Added to this seasonal market pressure is the admittedly menacing situation growing out of Canada's efforts to control prices. Winnipeg dropped 1½ cents a bushel yesterday and is now selling only slightly above the 80 cent pegged price level.

Chicago wheat is now selling below Winnipeg. This is significant, as the United States this year will probably produce an exportable surplus. Canada, already worsted in international competition, now faces the reëntry to the foreign field of a new competitor.

At yesterday's closing quotations July corn was selling at the same price as July wheat. Seldom has corn commanded a price equal or above that of wheat. Corn, however, has not shared to the full extent of the recent decline in grain prices.

Wallace Sees No Tax Action.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—The sharp decline in wheat prices brought from Secretary Wallace today the comment that the government was not considering any immediate change in the processing taxes. The law would permit an increase in the wheat rates from 30 to 33 cents a bushel, but Wallace said that the policy of not raising or lowering these rates as a result of quick rises or falls in the market would be continued.

NORTH WESTERN SEEKS FIVE YEAR CUT IN INTEREST

Directors of the Chicago and North Western railway are expected to meet in New York tomorrow to consider proposals advanced by the management for a five year moratorium on approximately one-half the annual fixed charges as a means of helping the road out of its present financial difficulties.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said recently in Chicago that he understood the management wished to trim annual interest charges from $16,000,000 to $8,000,000 for the next five years, hoping that by the end of this period business will have improved to such an extent that full payments may be resumed.

According to reports in La Salle street full interest probably would be paid on the general mortgage bonds and other senior securities, but a moratorium probably would be requested on the convertible 4¾s and the first and refunding obligations.

Officials Meet Institutions Milwaukee Road Plan

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad and representatives of about twenty institutional bondholders met today on the road's proposed reorganization plan. No statement was issued following the meeting. Despite objections raised, H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee, said that a reorganization plan would be ready by July 1.

STORAGE STOCKS OF MEAT JUNE 1 AT RECORD LOW

Holdings of Beef Show Greatest Drop.

Cold storage holdings of meat in the United States June 1 were among the smallest on record, the department of agriculture revealed yesterday. Stocks at the opening of the month aggregated 628,384,000 pounds, against 738,076,000 pounds June 1 last year. The June 1 stocks of meat show a drop of 330,712,000 pounds, compared with Jan. 1.

Beef stocks showed the greatest percentage decrease, totaling 63,563,000 pounds compared with 140,940,000 Jan. 1, a drop of 54 per cent. On May 1 beef in storage totaled 77,559,000 pounds, while a year ago the total stood at 42,546,000 pounds.

Pork Stocks Low.

Stocks of pork June 1 amounted to 505,016,000 pounds, the lowest on record for that date, compared with 564,881,000 pounds May 1, 687,563,000 pounds Jan. 1, 641,568,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 722,180,000. Of the total 147,991,000 pounds were frozen, 30,196,000 dry salt cured, 36,111,000 pounds in process of dry salt cure, and 290,718,000 pounds pickled.

Lamb in storage at 2,557,000 pounds was the smallest of the year and compared with 3,031,000 pounds a month ago, 4,560,000 pounds Jan. 1, 1,363,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 2,247,000 pounds.

Miscellaneous meats at the start of June totaled 57,248,000 pounds which compared with 66,298,000 May 1, with 126,033,000 pounds Jan. 1, 52,599,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 65,206,000 pounds. Lard stocks fell to 91,708,000 pounds, against 101,224,000 pounds May 1, 182,240,000 a year ago, and a five year average of 127,974,000 pounds.

Slaughter Near All Time Low.

The hog slaughter in plants under federal inspection dropped to 2,172,109 head in May, the second smallest for any month since September, 1920, and the smallest for May since 1895. This compared with 4,217,624 in May of last year. Packers killed 38 per cent fewer hogs the first five months of the this year than in the same period last year. The total for the five months this year at 11,963,730 compares with 19,492,400 a year ago.

In view of the federal cattle and sheep killing program of last year current slaughter supplies of these two species are running far ahead of expectations. More sheep and lambs were slaughtered by packers for commercial trade last month than in any May on record. The total at 1,584,125 compared with 1,244,491 a year ago. In five months packers killed 6,922,512 head, against 6,216,603 the first five months of last year.

The calf slaughter was second largest on record for May at 508,030. Packers slaughtered 735,463 cattle, the biggest number since January, and the biggest for May since 1927, barring a year ago, when the kill was 864,075.

ALL LIVE STOCK PRICES DECLINE; RECEIPTS HEAVY

Bearish reports from the wholesale meat markets, warmer weather, and a larger supply of slaughter animals knocked the props from under the live stock markets yesterday, resulting in the sharpest setback in some time.

A heavy run of cattle, including the largest proportion of fat steers in several weeks, proved too much for the trade under present conditions, and packers demanded concessions of 25 to 50 cents in practically all grades selling at $11 or above.

Buyers confined the price slashing mostly to the better grades of steers. Medium and common classes were rather scarce and escaped punishment, some of the cattle eligible to sell under the $10.50 line actually indicating a slightly strong tone at times.

Prime 1,304 to 1,364 pound steers sold at $13.50. Some 1,322 pound averages reached $13, but very little was good enough to bring above $12.75. Bulk of the steers sold at $9.50 to $12.75. Calves broke 25 cents in draggy trading.

Hog prices dipped 5 to 25 cents, plain quality and big weights again leading the way down. The range of prices reached the widest point since middle of December, with the top and average showing a spread of 55 cents at $12.15 and $11.60, respectively, compared with a spread of 25 cents between the two prices the previous Wednesday.

Except for a few selected native new crop lambs the market was forced down 10 to 25 cents on extremely light receipts. City butchers did most of the buying, selecting the cream of the new crop at $9.25 to $9.65, while packers bought at $9 and below.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Depressed by weakness in the Brazilian market, coffee futures today had a further sharp set-back, but recovered about half of the earlier losses on small purchases near the close. Santos opened 2 to 9 points lower and closed 8 to 10 points off. Sales were 26,000 bags. No. 7 opened 8 to 13 points lower and closed 6 to 13 points lower. Sales 7,000.

PRICES OF LARD ERRATIC; DECLINES 2½ TO 12½ CENTS

Lard futures fluctuated in an erratic manner yesterday, breaking 10 to 17½ cents early in sympathy with grain and hogs, only to rally sharply on buying which the trade regarded as removal of hedges against shipping sales to the domestic trade.

Considerable comment was heard regarding the comparatively large premium prevailing for cash and loose lard over the July delivery, and was regarded as indicating packers were not inclined to sell at prevailing levels.

Futures closed with net losses of 2½ to 12½ cents, the late break in grains causing a reaction after a strong rally. Bellies were nominally unchanged. Cash lard was quoted at $13.62; loose, $13.85; leaf, $14, and bellies at $17.35 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

Lard.

July	13.52	13.45	13.45	13.55	6.75
September	13.50	13.37	13.42	13.52	7.05
October	13.40	13.20	13.35	13.37	7.17
December	12.60	12.50	12.52	12.65	7.35
Clear Bellies.
July			17.10	17.10	9.22
September			17.05	17.05	9.57

Note—Above prices include processing tax of $2.47 per 100 pounds on lard and $2.62 per 100 pounds on bellies processed since March, 1934. This tax is rebated on products exported, but varies according to the amount, due to the fact that the tax was gradually increased.
